THE CAPTAIN AND THE KIDS

—By Rudolph Dirks

YES, ladies and gentlemen, it's a much better way! Instead of enduring constipation and then trying to cure it with "quick relief," why not try to avoid it altogether by getting at its cause? You can—if your trouble is the ordinary one (due to lack of "bulk" in the diet). For a crisp crunchy cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran supplies just the "bulk" you need. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water and "Join the 'Regulars'!" Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

LETTERS TO THE EDITORS

Rabbit Slaughter

Sirs:

Your pictures in the Feb. 27 issue under the heading "Winter Rabbit Slaughter Lures Western Sportsmen" are some of the most revolting, blood-thirsty photographs I have had the misfortune to see.

If those hunters shown clubbing rabbits to death are worthy of the title "sportsmen" then, by Heaven, I swear I'll lock my gun in a closet and never touch it again.

MAX KARANT

Chicago, Ill.

Sirs:

Frankly, I wept over the pictures of the Western rabbit slaughter.

A. READER

Norfolk, Va.

Sirs:

I have often wondered what I should do were I blessed with male progeny. Thanks to LIFE, I now know.

I would take my son to Utah, land of the great sport of rabbit hunting. I should give him some preliminary conditioning, such as pulling the wings off flies, and then, on his sixth birthday, I should present him with a club and surround him with bunny rabbits. The little dear could club them to his heart's content.

In a couple of years, I'd buy him a gun. For every tenth rabbit over 100 killed in ten hours, he would be rewarded with a gasoline-soaked kitten and a match. He could go from there to the invaluable training of throwing stones at old Jewish women, and, in his late teens, I would hire a few Japanese soldiers to teach him the finer art of rape as learned in Nanking.

At 21, he would receive an airplane with a few bombs to drop on hospitals and grammar schools. I'm sure he'd like that. And then I'd call him in and we'd have a little chat about his career.

"Junior," I would say, "nothing now stands between you and success. Look at Hitler: he got to the top with far less training than you have had."

Spanish Refugees

Sirs:

Thank you for printing those tragic Spanish refugee pictures in your issue of Feb. 20.

As a bitter commentary I would have suggested that you had placed the pictures of the open-air mass and those showing little children who had lost their legs, and the old woman too ill to walk by herself, side by side.

FRANK A. MOUNTFORD

Astoria, N. Y.

Sirs:

A mile high, somewhere over Georgia, winging our way back to New York in what Captain Dick Merrill promises to be a 6 hr., 10 min. trip from Miami, I turn to your story of Spanish Loyalist refugees. I discover a golfer's exaggeration in your statement that the flight of 300,000 Spaniards "dwarfed the exodus of the Jews from Egypt."

Now that hotels fly, Gideon doesn't live here any more. But if memory and several sound Sunday School sessions serve me right, the ancient Hebrews numbered 630,000 on their Mosaic meander through the Philistine woods.

ARNOLD NEUSTADTER

New York, N. Y.

●Reader Neustadter's Sunday School lessons serve him well. Exodus says (12: 37): "And the children of Israel journeyed from Rameses [Egypt] to Succoth, about six hundred thousand on foot that were men, beside children."—ED.

Beautiful Bingo

Sirs:

In your story about the Bronx theater stunt entitled "Indignities for Cash"

(LIFE, Feb. 20), you state that "the essence" of this act "threatens to spread at a deplorable rate" and "may yet become as much of a nuisance to intelligent movie-goers as Screeno and Bingo." I think you show an utter disregard for decent showmen and for the large majority of intelligent people who enjoy Screeno and Bingo for its entertainment value, not to mention those poor unfortunates who patronize houses charging lesser admission prices to whom Screeno and Bingo money has proven a godsend.

Theaters have remained open, jobs saved, minds eased, bodies clothed, the hungry fed, doctors paid, many a life, perhaps many a soul saved through Screeno and Bingo money. Do the Editors of LIFE wish to destroy . . . Screeno and Bingo?

Big Al Says

Sirs:

I have read your Gambling Exposé in LIFE, Feb. 6. Having been a gambler all my life, I want to state this:

That in all my travels from Maine to the Sun Kissed shores of Orange, Calif., I have never seen a crooked deck of cards or phony dice in a gambling house. The boys that ride trains some times carry a pack of strippers, but that is merely for the Sucker in case he tries to cheat, then they turn the heat on him, he asked for it and got it. Why should you wise up the Sucker as you call him, he likes to gamble and he knows all about the pitfalls and traps, in fact he has been studying a long time to set some himself for the house.

I saw a sucker in Mexico playing Stud, and when the Game Keeper turned his head to answer a call why Mr. Sucker reached out and stole a handful of bills from the table. Those Suckers will take care of themselves so don't you worry a bit they're doing all right by little Nell.

I have to my credit over a hundred

● Suppose you started today to feed your dog exclusively on Pard and water. Then in turn you fed his descendants in just the same way from weaning time on. And kept it up for 4 generations. You'd know a lot about Pard and its ability to maintain health, wouldn't you?

That's what has taken place in the Swift Research Kennels. 230 dogs, representing 4 consecutive generations, have been fed on Pard and water exclusively. And here are the results . . .

crooked tricks but the only time I ever used them, was when your sucker changed decks on me while I was in the toilet. Oh are they smart.

I saw a customer come into a club in St. Louis and he was literally covered with crooked dice and marked cards. Presidents' Birthplaces

Sirs:

Your pictures of the birthplaces of American presidents, shown in your issue of Feb. 20, are interesting and stimulating. They bearsustaining evidence to the theory that any newborn American baby has a chance at being his country's president.

Your location of Andrew Jackson's birthplace in South Carolina, however, raises an old question.

Andrew Jackson himself said he was born in South Carolina. Most competent historians, however, are agreed that in this Jackson was mistaken by a few hundred yards, and that in reality he was born in North Carolina. This difference has brought Jackson the distinction of being the only president with two States claiming his birthplace and with markers set up at two places.

JASPER C. HUTTO

Lumberton, N. C.

● Jackson's biographer, Marquis James, says: "Andrew Jackson has been accredited with eight birthplaces, or one more than Homer. . . Claims [have been] advanced in favor of Ireland, England, the high seas; York County, Pa.; Augusta County, Va.; Berkeley County, Va. (now West Va.) . . and North Carolina and South Carolina." Mr. James believes it was South Carolina.—ED.

Sirs:

I was surprised to find under Lincoln's birthplace cabin the word "replica." The log cabin at Hodgenville, Ky. is not a replica but the original cabin in which Abraham Lincoln was born.

R. GERALD McMURTRY

Lincoln Memorial University
Harrogate, Tenn.

● LIFE erred in calling the Lincoln birthplace a replica. It is believed to be the original.—ED.

Sirs:

President Andrew Johnson's birthplace presents a case of restless history. It was moved from down-town Raleigh, N. C., to a section known as Pullen Park. In that location it was in danger of being set afire from railroad sparks and hobos were using it as sleeping quarters. The WPA "took it for a ride" from that spot. The accompanying picture (see cut), taken by me, shows President Johnson's home arriving at the accessible, safe, beautiful location where it has been entirely reconditioned, the plot landscaped.

FRED J. COHN

Raleigh, N.C.

Sirs:

Your picture of President Hoover's birthplace is greatly misleading.

Hoover was not born in the two-storied house which you pictured, but in the little cottage at the rear. After the Hoovers left West Branch, the cottage was turned around and used as a watershed for the house which was constructed in front of it.

Last spring, under the direction of Mrs. Hoover, the old homestead was remodeled to appear as it did when Hoover was born there (see cut).

G. K. HODENFIELD

Iowa City, Ia.

Sirs:

Sorry, but in your pictures of the birthplaces of our Presidents, you made an error as regards Benjamin Harrison.

The house in your picture is indeed the house of his father, John Scott Harrison. It still stands and it was in it and the farm about it young Benjamin passed his boyhood—but he was not born there. He was born in the celebrated log-cabin residence of his grandfather, General William Henry Harrison.

General Harrison's house was not in reality a log cabin. It was a spacious country residence of 16 rooms, but one of the rooms was the original log cabin to which the rest of the structure was added.

JAMES A. GREEN

Public Library of Cincinnati
Cincinnati, Ohio

● Reader Green is right. Actually neither of the Harrisons was born in a log cabin, but William Henry Harrison used one as a campaign symbol.—ED.

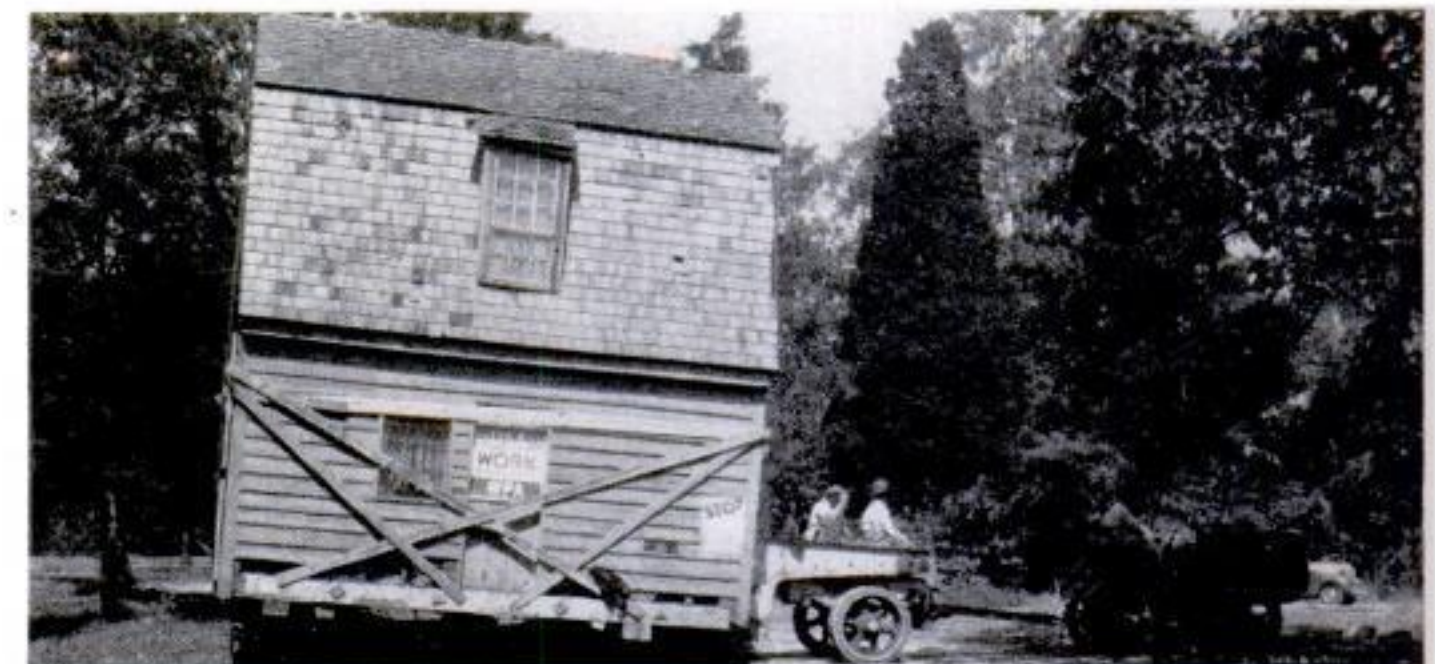

Sirs:

The residents of Hillsboro, N. H., will take exception to the caption under the picture of the birthplace of Franklin Pierce, as being located at Concord. The house in which Franklin Pierce was born is the pride and joy of Hillsboro.

JOHN H. SCHMUCK

Naugatuck, Conn.

● Reader Schmuck is right. In preparing its story on the President's birthplaces, LIFE sifted out surprising quantities of misinformation but apparently not all of it. LIFE is glad to make the corrections, recommends that standard reference works and historical societies do likewise.—ED.

LIFE'S PICTURES

Werner Wolff, who photographed Mrs. Roosevelt taking a voice lesson (pp. 6-9), is a 27-year-old member of Camera Features, a New York agency. Born in Germany, where he studied photography, he has been in the U. S. three years. His first job was crating art-ware as a shipping clerk. He was full of admiration for Mrs. Roosevelt after he had photographed her. "Mrs. Roosevelt is great," he said. "After all, it's no joke having flashes going off in your face faster than one a minute. But she took it all with a smile. She was natural—and I think she is grand."

The following list, page by page, shows the source from which each picture in this issue was gathered. Where a single page is indebted to several sources credit is recorded picture by picture (left to right, top to bottom), and line by line (lines separated by dashes) unless otherwise specified.

SPEAKING OF PICTURES

Hands on floating ribs, Mrs. Roosevelt inhales, holds breath, exhales in wide-breathing exercise to develop breath control.

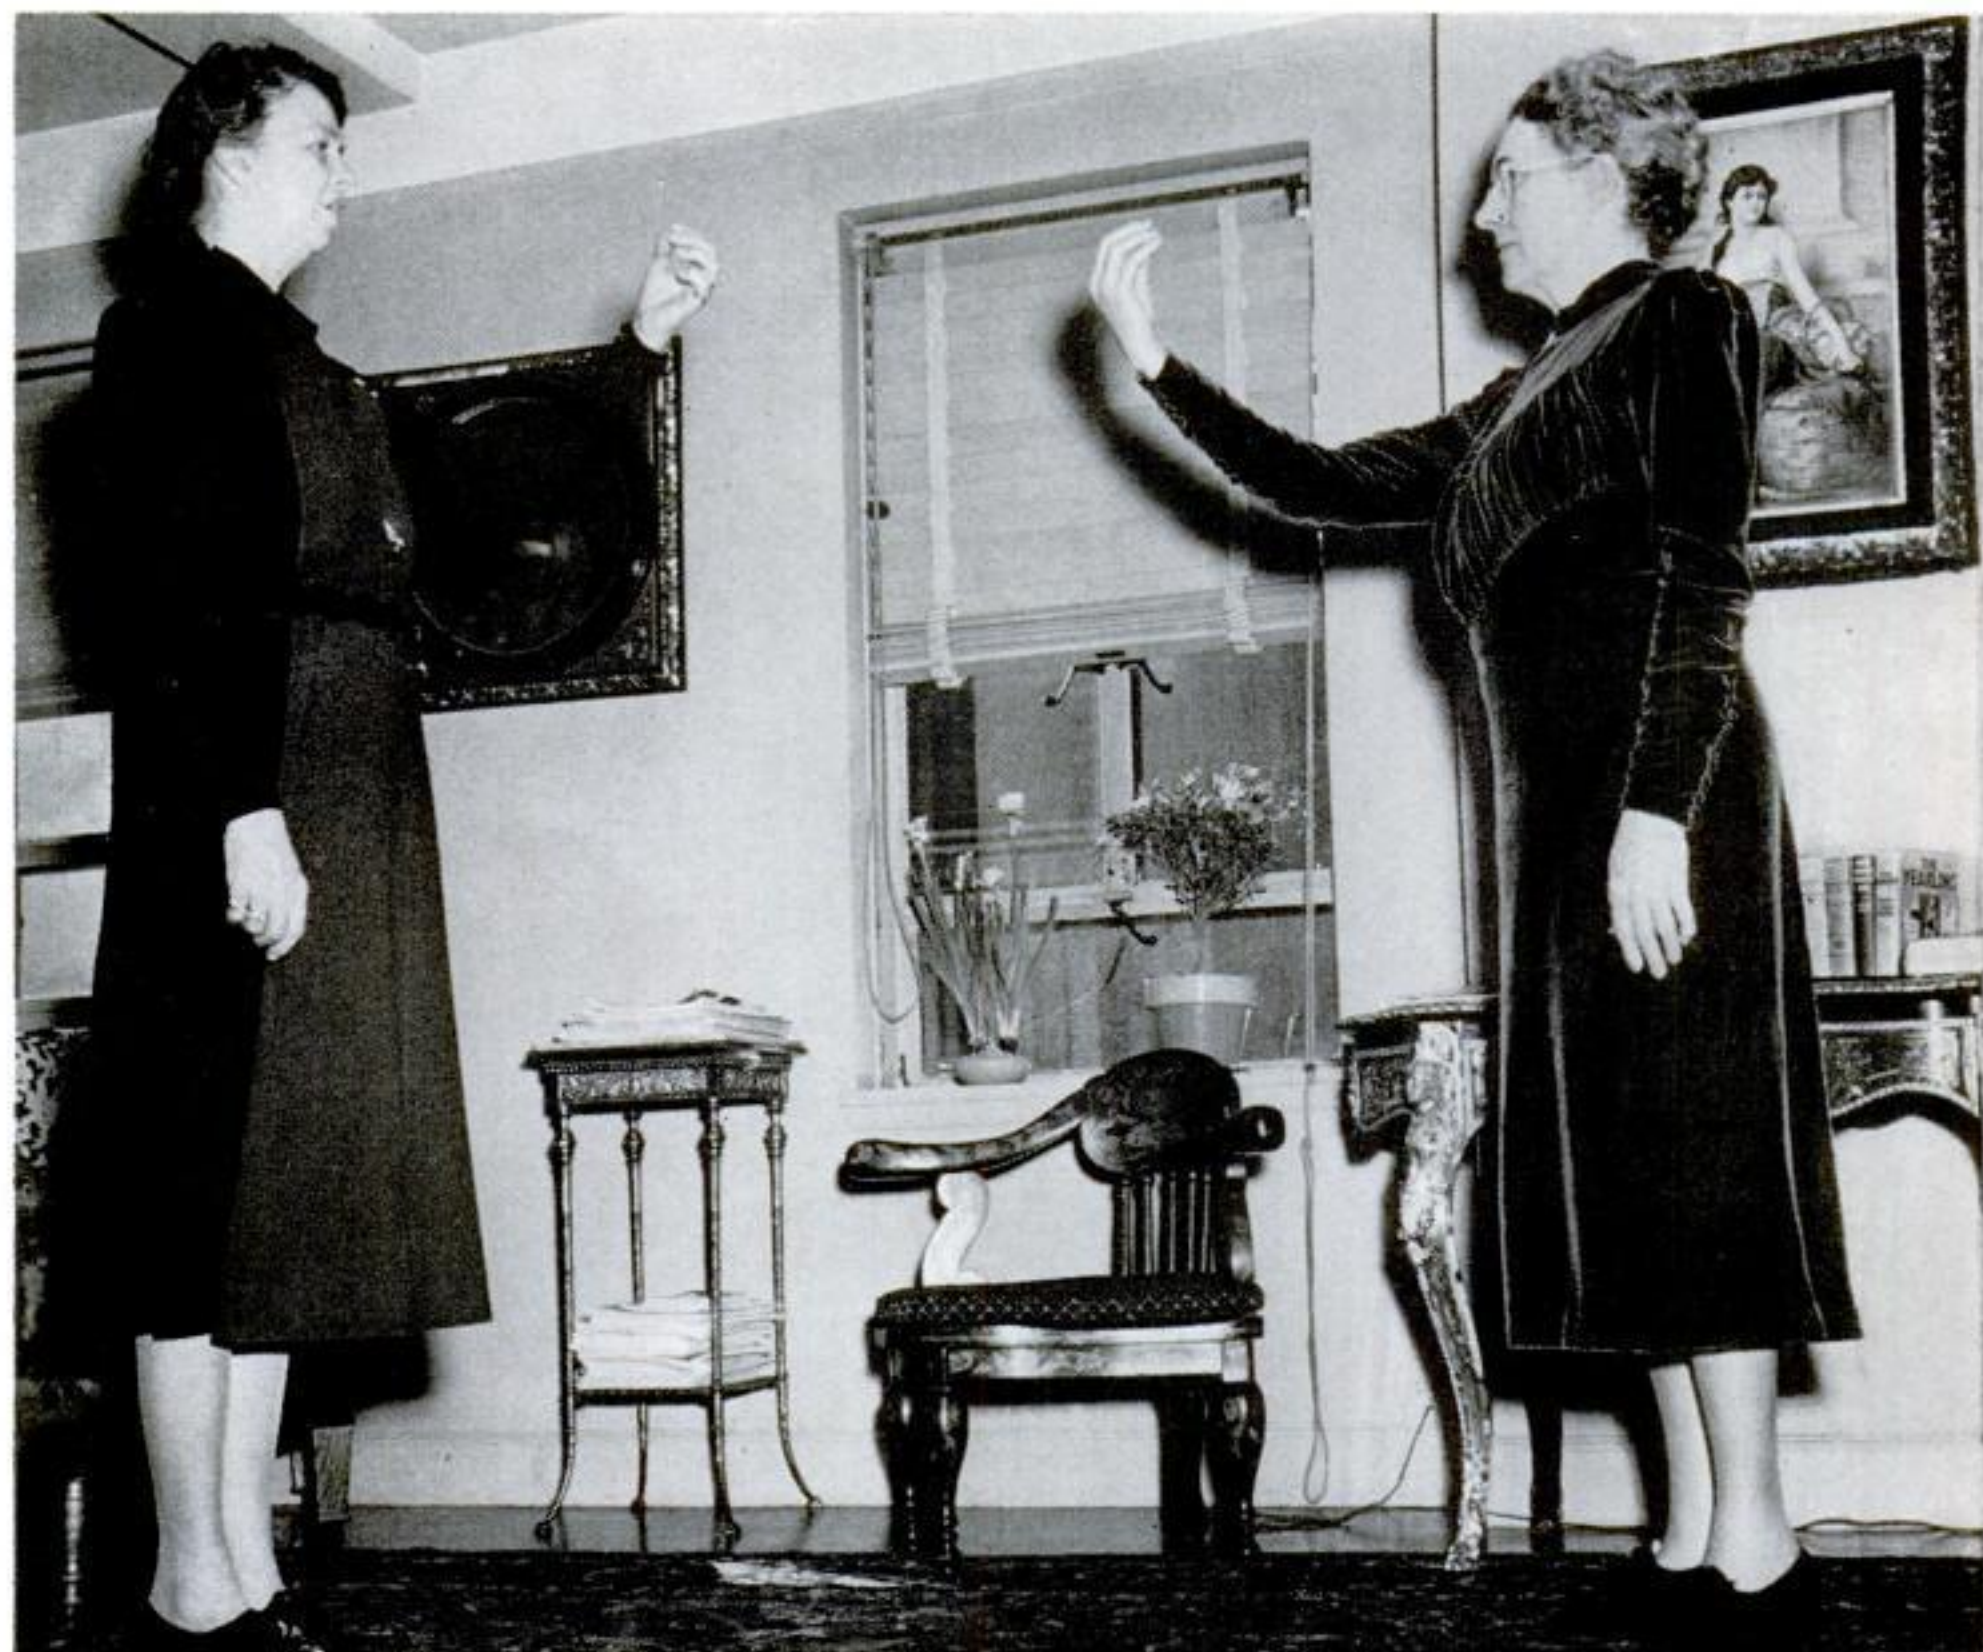

Abdominal muscles are developed for full tones. Below, Mrs. Roosevelt "packs her tone behind her belt" to speak firmly.

The humming exercises: Mrs. Roosevelt hums as Mrs. von Hesse feels the vibrations in the resonance chambers of her head. The singing sounds m, n and ng give the voice resonance.

The smothered-yawn exercise develops the habit of speaking with an open throat which helps to give the voice a flowing tone. Another exercise is to drink an imaginary glass of water. This also opens the throat. If the throat is not sufficiently open in speaking, the vowels lose purity.

Mrs. Roosevelt practices speaking by holding her hand in front of her face. Focus of most voices, male and female, should be 3 ft. away. Mrs. von Hesse spent two years in research to discover where the voice should be focused.

... THE FIRST LADY TAKES LESSONS TO TRAIN HER SPEAKING VOICE

Mrs. Roosevelt makes more speeches today than any other leading American woman. Since 1921, when she made her first speech at a political luncheon, she has made well over 2,000 speeches. As the President's wife, she averages 90 talks a year.

Not content to rest on past oratorical laurels, Mrs. Roosevelt has been improving her voice with lessons from Mrs. Elisabeth von Hesse (right). One week annually and in spare hours when possible, the First Lady goes to her teacher's New York studio, and there, in a quiet, subdued atmosphere, far from the earshot of eager audiences and gushy toastmasters, spends an hour or two training her voice.

Her lessons are founded on tone technique. First she exercises the breathing muscles of diaphragm, waist and abdomen (opposite page, far column) to develop voice control. Next she hums or repeats singing sounds like "some green beans for dinner" or "seven times one are seven" to give her tone placement. Then she is taught purity of vowel sounds by speaking with an open throat (left). After the exercises, she practices speaking or reading. Mrs. von Hesse watches her diction, pronunciation and gestures carefully (below). "Give the t its just due, Lady Eleanor," her teacher says, if she throttles t's.

Fortnight ago Mrs. Roosevelt, throttling no t's and talking with what Heywood Broun called "superb dignity and eloquence," gave a speech at a Youth Congress dinner that several listeners thought was one of the finest speeches of modern times. "Her talk," remarked an old-time reporter, "went at least part way on the road to the Gettysburg Address."

MRS. ELISABETH VON HESSE TEACHES MRS. ROOSEVELT

"Throw your voice out," says Mrs. von Hesse indicating the spot where Mrs. Roosevelt is trying to focus her voice.

"Now over and across," says her teacher as she trains Mrs. Roosevelt to speak out, over and across to audiences.

More enthusiasm is suggested and so the First Lady smiles and clasps her hands in her most characteristic gesture.

"O columbine!" reads Mrs. Roosevelt, "open your folded wrapper, where two twin turtle-doves dwell." "How about those 'tossing t's,' Lady Eleanor?" responds Mrs. von Hesse

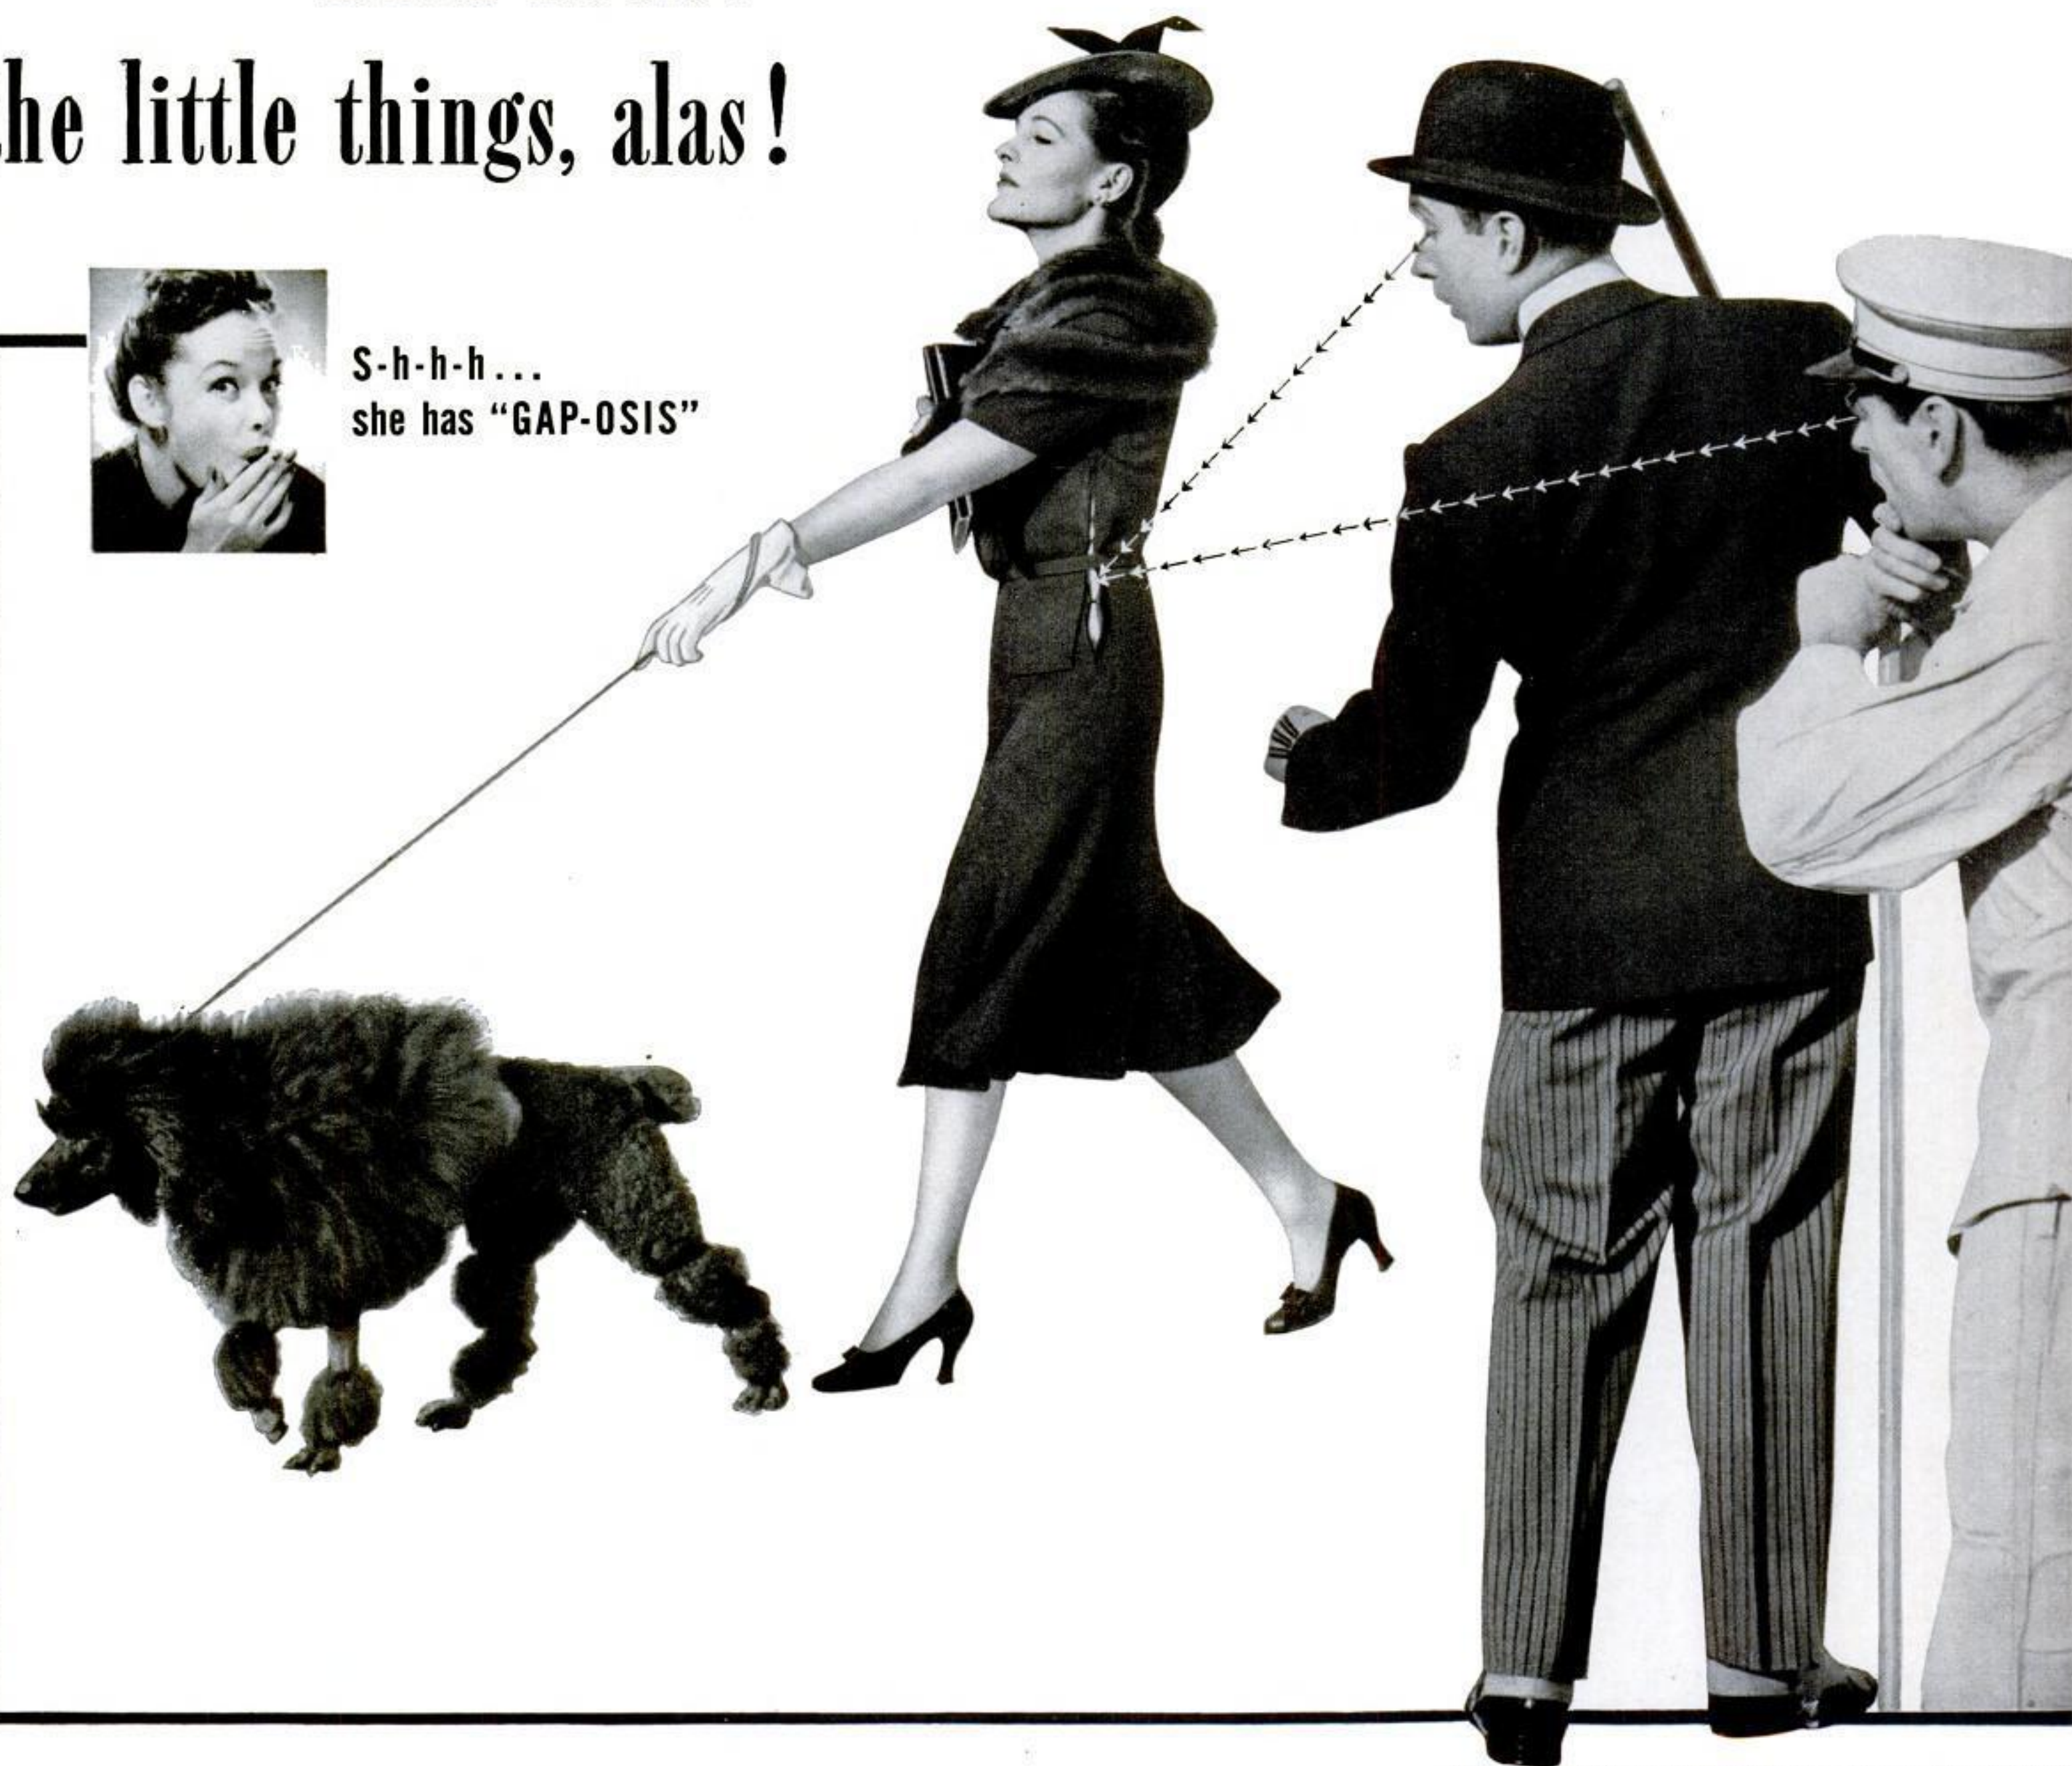

"I didn't know you were English," says Mrs. von Hesse good-naturedly to her pupil. "Where are those nice round o's that you had yesterday? Lips should be trumpet-shaped for o."

Men notice the little things, alas!

S-h-h-h...
she has "GAP-OSIS"

THE dab of lipstick on the snowy glove... the heel that's scuffed... the placket that pops! These are the things that men particularly dislike in the women they particularly like.

Women themselves are often blind to "gap-osis," a popping, untidy placket. Yet it's such an easy thing to right. Simply insist on TALON slide fasteners in every new dress you buy.

TALON slide fasteners are beautifully unobtrusive. They lie flat... close and open easily... come through cleaning, laundering and pressing unscathed. And, of course, they end all your placket repair problems.

End "Gap-osis" in Made-Overs, too

You wouldn't want a new dress without a TALON placket fastener. Why not enjoy the same neatness and convenience in your "made-overs"? TALON slide fasteners are easy to sew in. And they are easy to find at the better notion counters. TALON, INC., MEADVILLE, PA.

"TAKE A SECOND LOOK" WHEN YOU BUY A DRESS OR SKIRT

A dress requires one kind of slide fastener—a corset another—a hand-bag still another. In fact, every different wearing problem calls for a different kind of slide fastener. Protect yourself from inefficient slide fasteners—always "take a second look" for the name "TALON." For only TALON, Inc., has perfected a different slide fastener for every different type of wear.

BE SURE THE NAME "TALON" IS ON THE SLIDE FASTENER!

"Your smile is your self-starter." Mrs. von Hesse teaches her class at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn how to exercise the mouth muscles to develop pleasing smiles.

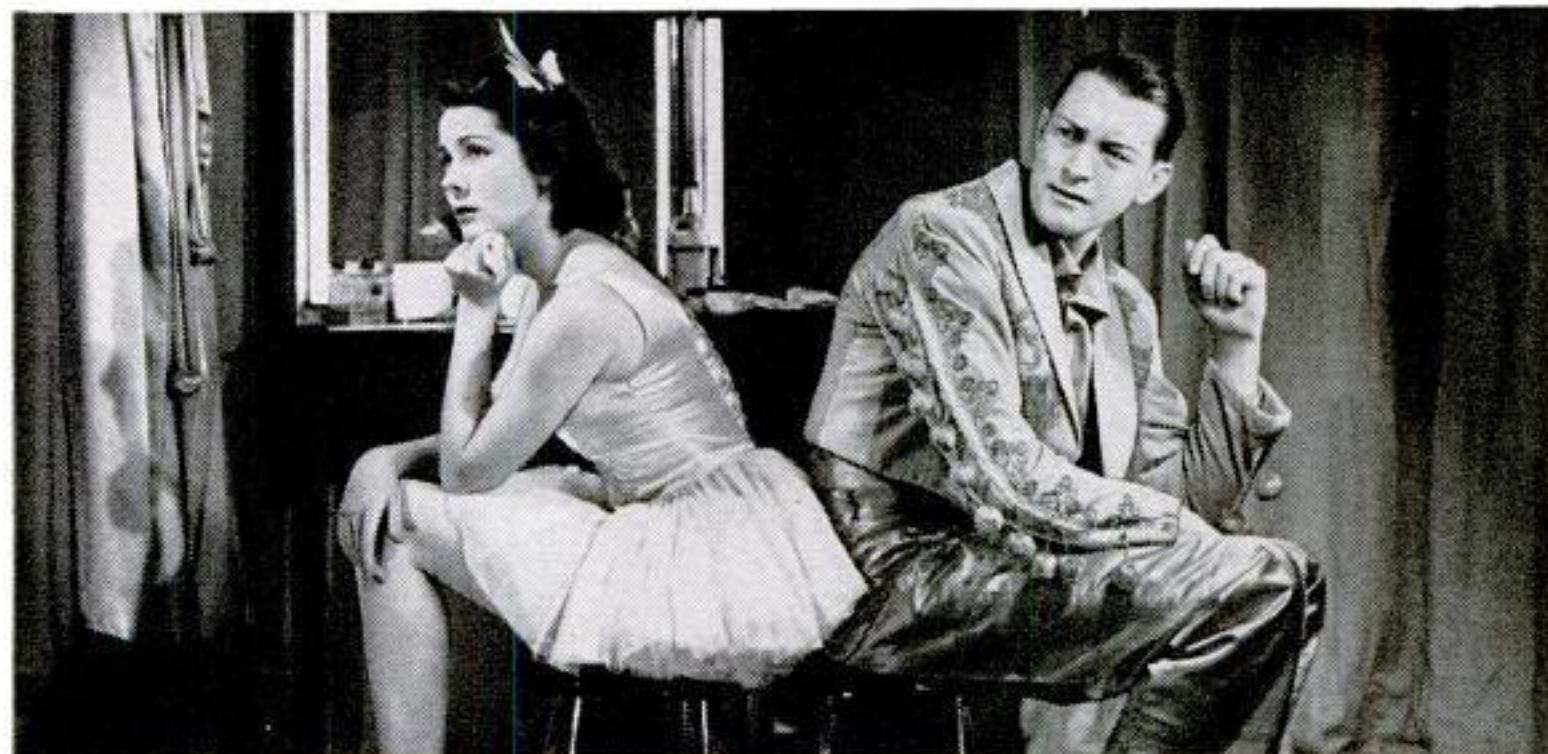

"Tongue straight out—point it—stretch it, without touching lips," says Mrs. von Hesse in speech course given Kresge Department Store telephone girls in Newark.

Divisional superintendents at Kresge's push their chests out with their shoulder blades to free the voice for speech performance. They take a ten-week course.

Fight a COLD two ways with Sal Hepatica

MRS.: So I'm too dumb to learn the steps for the Charity Ballet, am I? What can you expect when I'm coming down with a cold?

MR.: Well, why don't you do something about it? You need a very special laxative, my good woman—Sal Hepatica.

MRS.: You mean—Sal Hepatica's specially good for a cold?

MR.: Yes, Sal Hepatica aids your body in fighting a cold—two ways. First, it's a gentle yet speedy laxative—and speed is important in fighting a cold. Second, it helps Nature counteract the acidity that so often accompanies a cold.

MR.: Honey, you certainly learned this ballet stuff like nobody's business. You're a marvel at it!

MRS.: You're the marvel! You knew about Sal Hepatica—and it certainly helped keep that cold from taking hold. From now on, Sal Hepatica's going to be my first thought when I feel a cold coming.

LIFE'S COVER: The girls in the sculpture on the front cover are described by the artist, Leo Lentelli, as "American beauties," the type which develops from clean living and healthful sports. Done in plaster and partially gilded with gold leaf, the statues will stand 11 ft. high in the Court of Sports at the New York World's Fair (see pp. 33-49). The theme of the Fair is "The World of Tomorrow." These beauties presumably represent the girls of tomorrow. There will be 39 sculpture groups at the Fair, including work by Carl Milles, Paul Manship.

He Won the Case

HIS WHOLE CAREER DEPENDED ON

The Night Before

He Tried it!

His Sound Sleep Secret made him Keen and Confident...Gave him the "Fight" he Needed...

OF all the things that affect our lives, nothing is more vital than the kind of sleep we get at night! Lack of restful sleep can "deaden" the most brilliant faculties—can blight the most promising of careers.

On the other hand, many of life's most crucial tests are actually met the night before, through sleep that really refreshes! That's why so many people nowadays make a regular practice of taking a "nightcap" of delicious Ovaltine every night—as a sort of "sleep insurance."

Ovaltine is a protecting pure food-drink. It contains no sleep drugs of any kind whatsoever. Thousands say it helps them escape countless hours of "bed-tossing" —fosters clear-eyed morning freshness.

How Ovaltine Acts

(1) Ovaltine is not a medicine. Helps the body relax normally. Relieves that feeling of "inner tension."

(2) It provides certain food elements needed to prevent muscular and nervous irritability that, according to some authorities, may cause night-time tossing.

Also important . . . Ovaltine is a protecting food with special elements to help build up vitality while you sleep. It helps replenish worn-out muscle, nerve and body cells to meet tomorrow's needs. And furnishes valuable minerals, proteins and Vitamins A, B, D, and G.

Thus thousands now awaken every morning more completely refreshed after a night of "Ovaltine sleep." Not dull and "dopey" as after taking sleep drugs, but vital and energetic.

See for Yourself

So for sleep that really rests you—start taking Ovaltine every night. See if you don't feel far fresher mornings—possess more energy and "drive."

For sale everywhere. Get a can today.

41% OF PEOPLE UNREFRESHED ON AWAKENING!

...in Special Investigation Reported by Medical Magazine

During sleep, tissues are rebuilt—minds are refreshed and energized. But the sleep you get must be sound to bring maximum benefits the following day.

In another series of scientific sleep experiments (covering 3 years), it was found that taking Ovaltine regularly at bedtime tended to cut down tossing and give a feeling of being better rested in the morning.

8 Out of 10 Women Choose Heinz Chicken Noodle Soup in Sensational Taste Tests!

JUDGING leading brands of chicken noodle soup by "blind" test, hundreds of typical American women in different parts of the nation give Heinz an overwhelming 4 to 1 verdict in the most decisive taste tests ever conducted!

Clean Sweep for Heinz

In city after city—church, school, patriotic and civic groups participate in this investigation—impartially testing two soups at a time. And, with astounding regularity "Soup A" (delectable Heinz Chicken Noodle) wins hands down with eight out of every ten women.

Responsible for this sweeping preference is the Heinz method of cooking soup in small batches, which gives old-fashioned flavor, possible in no other way. And Heinz chefs, using the world's choicest products, brew in the savor with typical Heinz attention to homey details. Heinz Chicken Noodle, Corn Chowder, Cream of Tomato and all the rest of Heinz 23 delicious Home-style Soups have a distinctive old-time flavor you'll really enjoy!

Conduct Your Own Soup Test

Read below the enthusiastic statements made by women who participated in the tests. Then conduct a home "soup test" yourself. See if Heinz Home-style Soup doesn't get the verdict at your table the same convincing way it has in different sections of the country.

IN THEIR OWN WORDS WOMEN TELL WHY HEINZ WON!

Actual statements taken from questionnaires

"Rich in chicken stock and perfectly seasoned."
Alice H. Davidson
314 Crescent St., Grand Rapids
Michigan

"Brand A (Heinz Chicken Noodle) is fuller flavored—really the genuine taste of chicken, and lots of it."
Mrs. James I. Ennis
6122 Winthrop Ave., Chicago, Ill.

"Has delicate, subtle chicken flavor."
Mrs. M. Anderson
14266 Winslow Rd., Cleveland, O.

"Rich, fine flavor. Tender noodles."
Mrs. H. L. Brooke
2466 Woodstock Ave., Detroit
Michigan

"Brand A (Heinz Chicken
Noodle) far superior in flavor."
Mrs. R. Dunlap
467 Park Ave., East Orange, N. J.

Flavor Lure. With these Ohio women, too, flavor won a 4 to 1 landslide for "Soup A" (Heinz Chicken Noodle Soup). "It was much tastier and had real chicken flavor," was the consensus of feminine opinion."

Soup's on—and Heinz Wins! These prominent women of Cleveland, Ohio, balloted 4 to 1 for Heinz Chicken Noodle Soup. Honest-to-goodness chicken flavor was the big vote-getter. But many women were just as enthusiastic about the egg noodles (made by Heinz), and the generous pieces of chicken. Housewives who pride themselves on their cooking are delighted with Heinz Home-style Soups. Most women today realize that Heinz pace-making quality leadership has improved the standards of the entire soup industry.

Economy Winner, Too! Mrs. O. H. Pharis of the Detroit Shrine No. 20, which voted overwhelmingly for Heinz Chicken Noodle Soup, said: "I defy anyone to tell the difference between this savory 'Soup A' (Heinz) and the kind housewives take hours to make."

On the Heinz Bandwagon! Charming Mrs. James M. Massie, 1622 Wallen Ave., Chicago, is president of the Rogers Park Woman's Club which voted 285 to 23 for "Soup A" (Heinz Chicken Noodle Soup). And no wonder! Heinz doesn't spare the chicken or hurry the cooking. Moreover, it's priced as moderately as other Heinz Soups.

Watch your family cast their votes for Heinz Chicken Noodle Soup! Order a few tins.

You'll see why this soup is a 4 to 1 favorite.

BENEATH PAPAL TIARA CARDINAL PACELLI PRESIDED AT BUDAPEST EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS IN 1938

Pope Pius XII

ROMAN CHURCH CHOOSES STATESMAN AS PONTIFF

On March 2 the College of Cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church, convened at the Vatican to elect the 262nd Pope, weighed the grave problems that confront their Church. On the third ballot in one of the shortest conclaves in the history of the Church they reached a bold decision by electing Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, on his 63rd birthday, to be the new Vicar of Christ on Earth. As Pius XII, Eugenio Pacelli is the first Papal Secretary of State ever to reach the highest office. And he is the first Pope in modern times elected primarily for his qualifications as a statesman.

He was chosen to guide his Church into a future darker than ever before. As head of the greatest international organization in the world (330,000,000 communicants), he must cope with the violent forces of totalitarianism. His election was openly opposed by the governments of Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany. As Secretary of State and director of the strong world policies of the late Supreme Pontiff Pius XI, he had faced the dictatorships in an increasingly open conflict. His election, as that conflict now approaches a crisis, constitutes an endorsement of his policies by the representatives of Catholicism. In taking the name of his predecessor, he has indicated his intention to continue those policies.

PIUS XII: SCHOLAR, STATESMAN AND TRAVELER

Pope Pius XII

HE IS THE FIRST PONTIFF
TO HAVE VISITED THE U. S.

Pope Pius XII has seen more of the world and its people than any Supreme Pontiff before him. He is known to the faithful in almost every country of Europe. And he is the first Pope ever to have visited the United States. On a month's vacation in 1936 he toured the country from ocean to ocean. At Hyde Park he had a long and friendly interview with President Roosevelt. In the larger U. S. cities he met most of their outstanding Catholic prelates and laymen.

His headquarters in this country were at "Inisfada," the Long Island mansion of the Papal Duchess Genevieve Garvan Brady. There in the drawing room, the picture at right of Cardinal Pacelli and his hostess was taken at Mrs. Brady's request. Not long before her death in 1938, Mrs. Brady gave "Inisfada" to the Jesuit Order. They have converted it into a seminary.

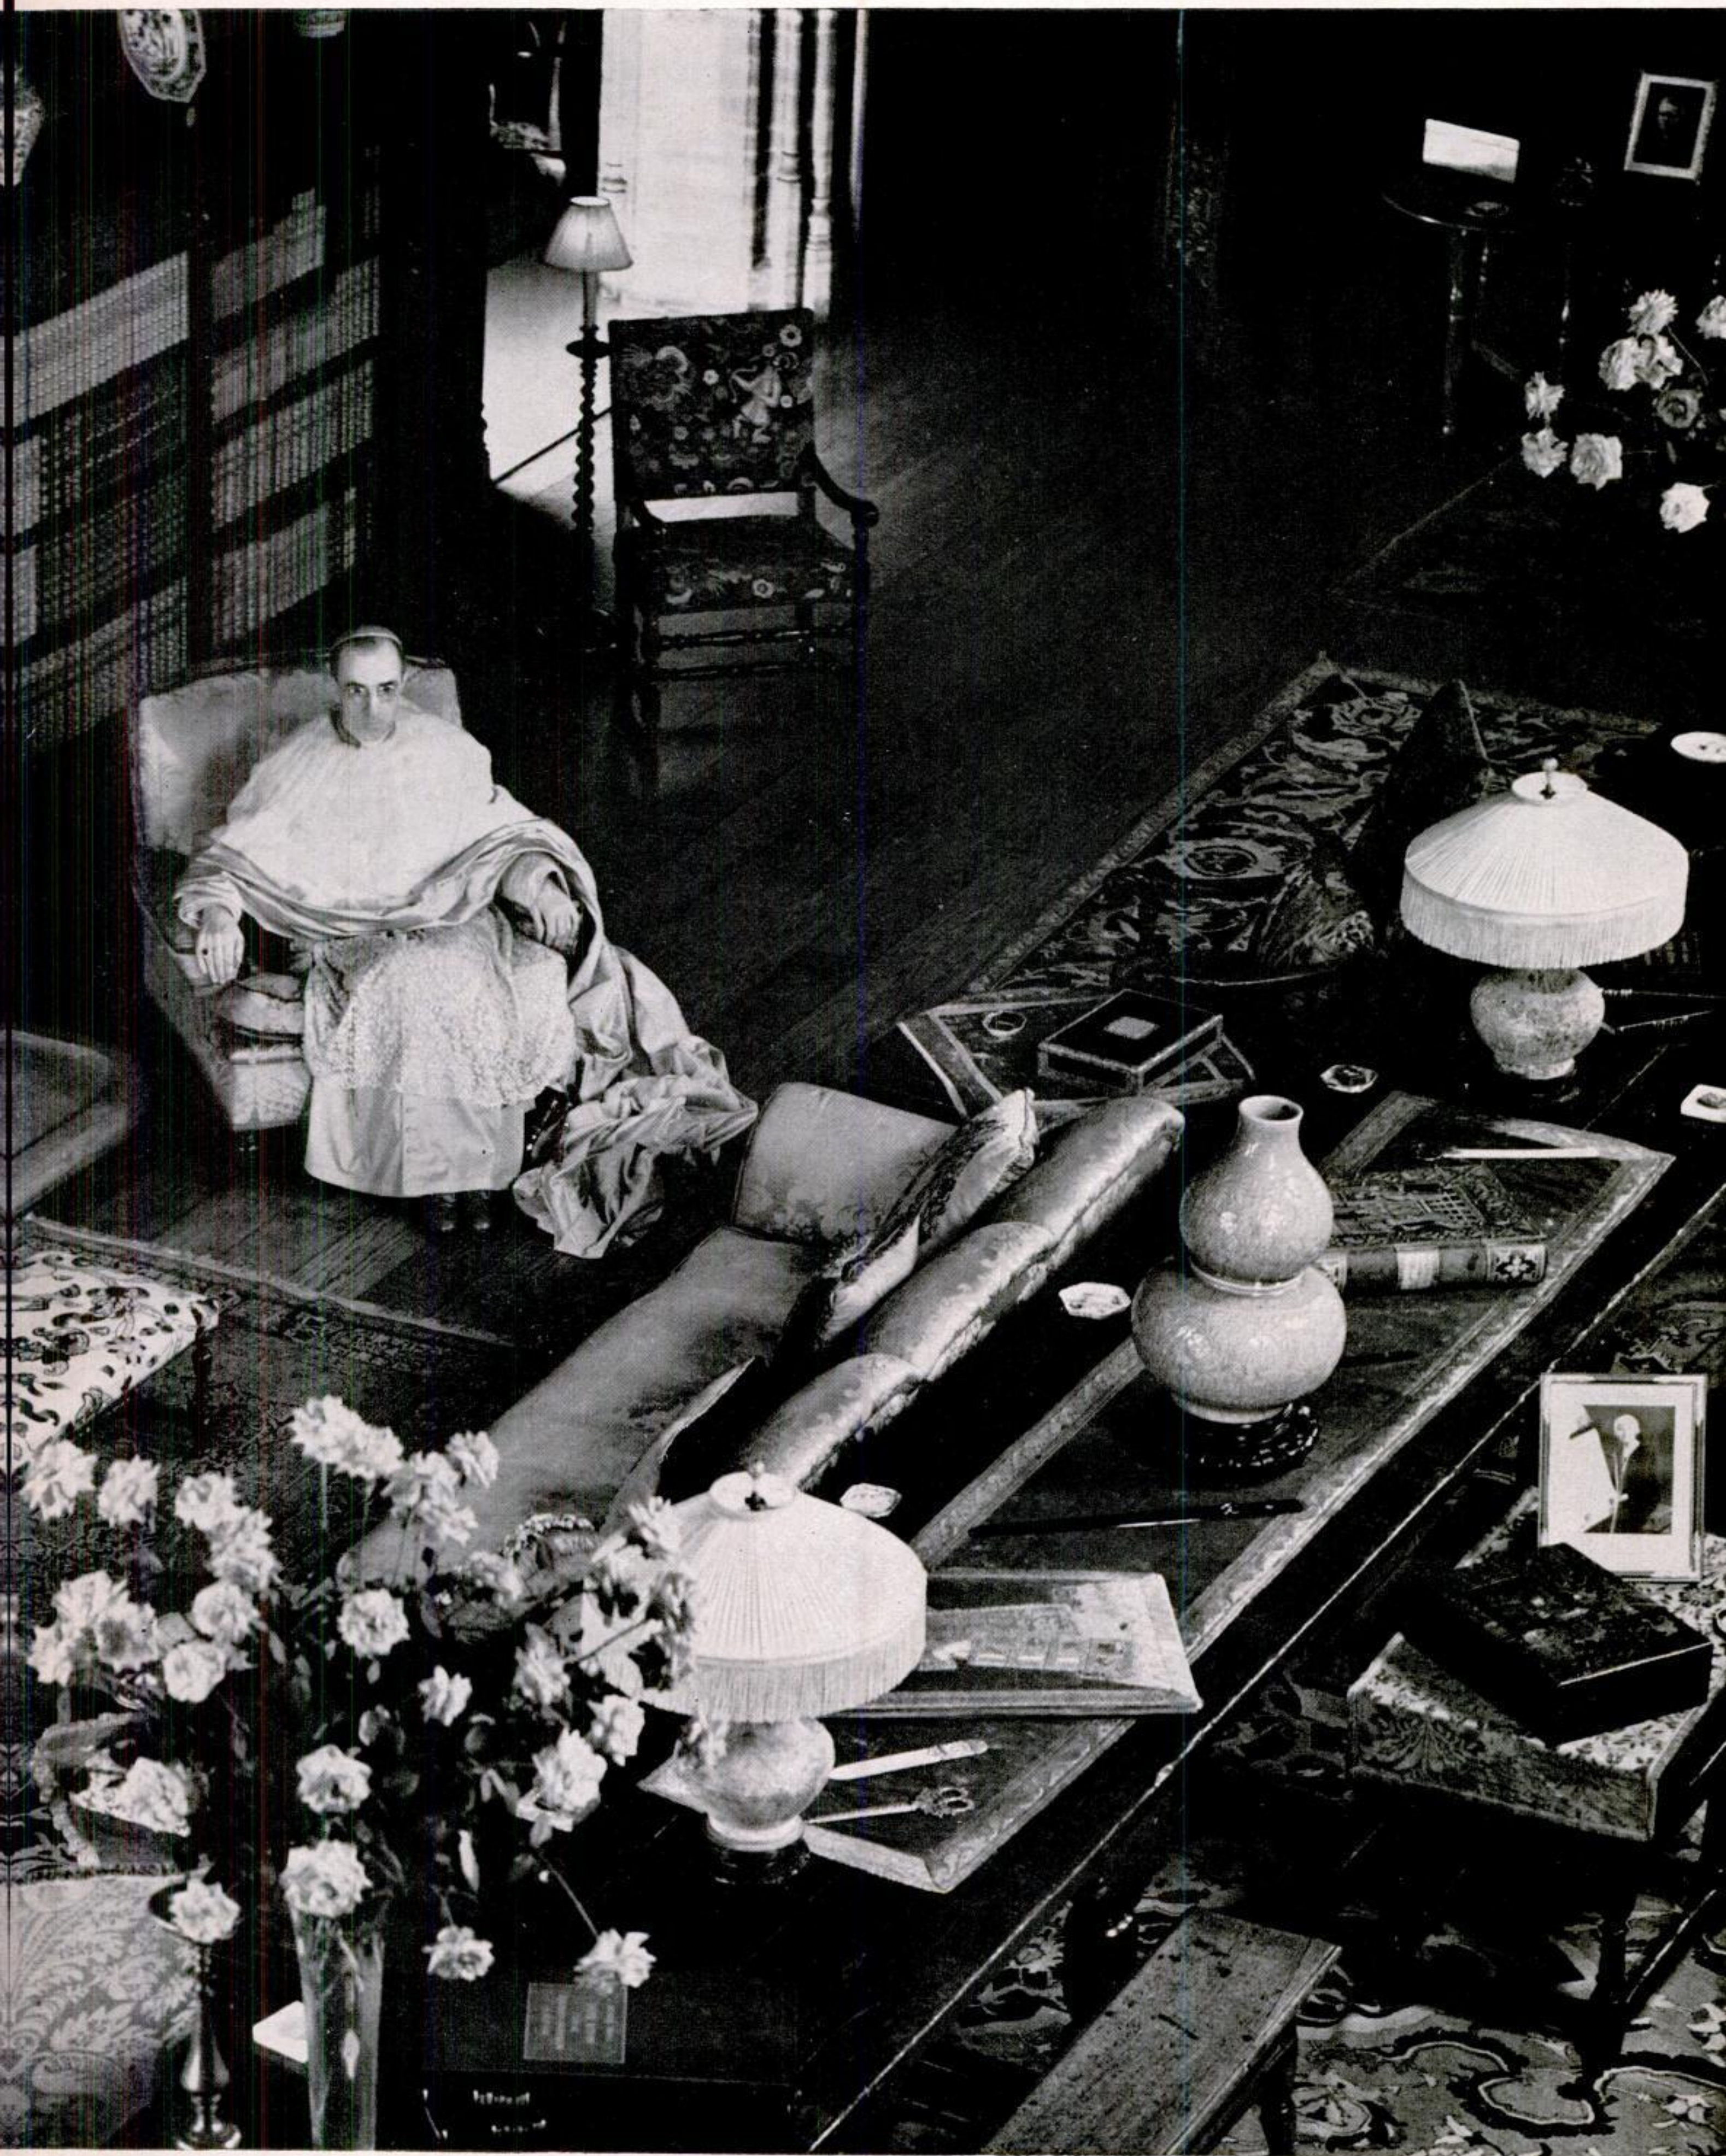

By birth a noble of Acquapendente and Sant' Angelo, the new Pope is a member of the Papal aristocracy. From the della Roveres, Borgheses, Colonnas and other princely families of that aristocracy have come the Church's greatest Popes. In his line, Eugenio Pacelli is the first to wear the tiara, but his family is old in the service of the Vatican. His grandfather, before 1870, was administrator of the Pope's temporal domains. His brother, Francesco, a Vatican lawyer, helped draft the Lateran Treaty. Few of the ancient families survived the disestablishment of Papal temporal power. Among those that did survive, none has contributed so brilliantly to the Vatican service as the Pacelli.

Eugenio Pacelli was recruited, after his ordainment 40 years ago, into the Congregation for Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs, the key department in the Papal Cabinet. There he won the admiration of his chief, Cardinal Gasparri. With him he collaborated on a monumental codification of Vatican law. When Cardinal Gasparri was promoted to Secretary of State, his protégé succeeded him as head of the Congregation. From that post in 1917 Monsignor Pacelli was elevated to an archbishopric and sent on one of the most delicate missions ever undertaken by the Vatican's diplomatic service.

He was dispatched to the German Emperor in his war camp to present the Holy See's plan for peace. It was an heroic effort, despite its failure, and it established the career of Eugenio Pacelli. He remained in Germany as Nuncio. There in the German Revolution of 1918, he faced down an armed mob that invaded his residence. Twelve years later he successfully negotiated the Concordat with the German Republic. In 1929, a poised and seasoned veteran, he was made Cardinal and succeeded his old patron Cardinal Gasparri as Secretary of State.

For the huge responsibilities which he undertook in that office and which he must continue now as Pope, his career has fitted him perfectly. His hard training in the realities of world politics has made him wise and shrewd. His broad contacts with Catholics and non-Catholics alike in his extensive travels have won him a personal prestige and devotion such as few Popes have ever enjoyed at their election. But in the critical years ahead, Pius XII will stand in need of all his gifts and advantages.

U. S. Catholic laymen like Joseph P. Kennedy (glasses) are admired by Pius XII because they helped naturalize their Church in the U. S. scene. Here Mr. Kennedy greets Cardinal Pacelli in Poughkeepsie on his visit to President Roosevelt at Hyde Park.

A TOURING CARDINAL, POPE SAW THE WORLD FIRST HAND

In his long career as diplomat and good-will ambassador for the Vatican, Pius XII acquired an intimate understanding of the relations of his Church with the modern world. His cool patrician assurance in his extensive dealings with the heads of governments has given him a firm grasp of high politics. And among the masses his friendly curiosity gave him deep insight into their needs and troubles. In all countries his contacts were facilitated by his fluent command of seven languages.

In the U. S., like any tourist, he explored the industrial and scenic wonders of the country. On arrival he told reporters: "I know well that I am expected to make my little contribution to the representatives of the Press as a sort of journalistic tax of entry." With Papal Chamberlain Alfred Emanuel Smith he saw New York City from the top of the Empire State Building. Boulder Dam he found "eloquently indicative of the genius of the American people . . . a great people who know how to unite so beautifully and nobly a sense of discipline with the exercise of a just, legitimate and well-ordered liberty."

IN THE U. S.

He flew 8,000 miles in seven-day tour of U. S. On occasion he typed speeches aboard plane.

IN GERMANY

Saluted by guards, he leaves New Year's reception by President von Hindenburg in 1928. Germany, today, is the trouble center for the Roman Catholic Church.

nal Dougherty. The new Pope almost certainly got the votes of all three U. S. Cardinals in the Vatican election.

Mount Vernon was another place of historical interest visited by Cardinal Pacelli on his American tour. To see Niagara Falls he persuaded his pilot to detour from their regular course. From an airplane he also viewed the Grand Canyon and the Rockies.

IN FRANCE

Paris crowd surrounds Cardinal Pacelli for his blessing. France, the greatest Catholic democracy, is second only to the United States in importance for the future of the Catholic Church.

IN ARGENTINA

President Justo of Argentina was host to Cardinal Pacelli in 1934 at Eucharistic Congress. Pius IX, as a young monsignor early in the 19th Century, preceded Pius XII to South America.

LIFE ON THE NEWSFRONTS OF THE WORLD

France and Britain recognize Franco's victory; Supreme Court damns sit-downs; Lenin's widow dies

The long-awaited Senate debate on U.S. foreign policy at last got under way last week. Michigan's Vandenberg led off by warning against the "dangerous misconception" that America can stop "short of war" once we begin to "thrust ourselves into foreign quarrels and mold alien destinies." North Dakota's Nye asserted that if war came in Europe it might well be because America had encouraged the Democracies to take a stand. Twelve Senators introduced a bill that would require a popular referendum before America could fight any war except in defense against invasion. But not even when Minnesota's Lundeen attempted to revive last month's fears by declaring that the American people would be "shocked and stunned" if they knew what had really been said in President Roosevelt's famous secret conference with the Senate Military Affairs Committee, did the country respond with enthusiasm to Senate alarms. By the time California's old isolationist warhorse, Hiram Johnson, got up to speak at week's end, the whole debate had trickled off the nation's front pages. Indication was that public opinion has swung behind President Roosevelt, accepting his thesis that America can save its own democracy only by saving democracy for the world.

Sit-down Outlawed. "It was a high-handed proceeding without shadow of legal right. To justify such conduct because of the existence of a labor dispute or of an unfair labor practice would be to put a premium on resort to force instead of legal remedies, and to subvert the principles of law and order which lie at the foundations of society."

With these vigorous words, applied to a sit-down strike at Fansteel Metallurgical Corp.'s Chicago plant in 1937, Chief Justice Hughes, speaking for a 5-to-2 majority of the Supreme Court (Justices Black and Reed dissenting), on Feb. 27 damned and outlawed the sit-down. The Court damned the National Labor Relations Board for virtually condoning the sit-down by ruling that Fansteel must reinstate the strikers.

Though public opinion had long since ended the great sit-down epidemic of 1936-37, the Court's ruling had two immediate results. Minor: two New Jersey employers, freed from the threat of penalty by the Labor Board, discharged 250 employees who had recently staged sit-downs. Major: critics of the Wagner Act and the Labor Board redoubled their fight in Congress to amend the Act, abolish the Board.

The Winner. Rebel Generalissimo Franco last week became the legal government of Spain when Britain and France and 35 other nations recognized him, on the ground that, though bystanders may like the loser, they must do business with the winner. When

"HONEST, THERE'S NOBODY HERE BUT US SPANIARDS"

Prime Minister Chamberlain announced recognition in the House of Commons, Laborites roared "Shame!" and forced a vote which Chamberlain won easily, 344 to 137. Chamberlain's ace was an equivocal telegram from Franco's Government which half-answered the world's two great questions: 1) Will Franco punish the Loyalists? 2) Will he let the Italians stay in Spain? The telegram: "The patriotism, chivalry and generosity of El Caudillo [Franco] . . . and the spirit of equity and justice constitute firm guarantees for all Spaniards who are not criminals. . . . Spain is not disposed to accept any foreign intervention which may impair its dignity and infringe its sovereignty." Low of the London Evening Standard, cartooned the British reaction (see cut). Loyalist President Manuel Azaña wrote out his resignation on a page of his nephew's school notebook and sent it home from France. Franco named a great nobleman, the 17th Duke of Alba, Jacobo-Maria Stuart Fitz-James, Spain's ambassador at London. France named as its ambassador to Spain Marshal Philippe Pétain who once taught Franco in the French War College.

KRUPSKAYA

Lenin stood for. The Soviet bigwigs breathed a sigh of relief last week, gave her a colossal funeral.

Roosevelt Resignation. To the sponsors of a Washington concert by Negro Contralto Marian Anderson, Mrs. Roosevelt dispatched a telegram saying: "I regret exceedingly that Washington is to be deprived of hearing Marian Anderson, a great artist." To the D. A. R., who had refused to let Miss Anderson sing in their Constitution Hall, Mrs. Roosevelt dispatched her resignation. Said Singer Anderson: "I am not surprised at Mrs. Roosevelt's action, because she seems to be one who really comprehends the true meaning of democracy."

ANDERSON

Markey's Swap. Gene Markey, Hollywood screenwriter and producer, was married in Mexico, on March 4 to Hedy Lamarr, the "Ecstasy Girl," sensationally beautiful Austrian star. Two years ago Mr. Markey was divorced from Joan Bennett, sensationally beautiful American star. Miss Lamarr's hair is black, Miss Bennett's blonde. But Miss Bennett with her hair dyed black looks so much like Miss Lamarr that practically no one but Mr. Markey can tell them apart.

LAMARR

Children. In England, officials distributing gas masks for babies suggested that mothers get their children used to them by playing peekaboo through the mica windows. In the Soviet, four officials were jailed for having improved their record by forcing confessions of wrecking, sabotage and treason from children of 10, and then jailing them with criminals.

Labor Peace. President Roosevelt has two prime reasons for desiring an end to American Labor's civil war: 1) to promote his current Recovery drive by stopping the factional Labor disputes which hurt and hinder Business; 2) to win the united support of Labor in the 1940 campaign. On Feb. 25 he moved at last with letters to "Dear Bill" Green, president of A. F. of L. and "My dear John" L. Lewis, president of C. I. O., entreating them to name committees to negotiate a "peace with honor." Both leaders complied. Great are the compromises and sacrifices to be made before there can be reunion. But reports that the rank & file of both sides are thoroughly fed up with fighting make the chances of peace look brighter than they have since the Labor war began.

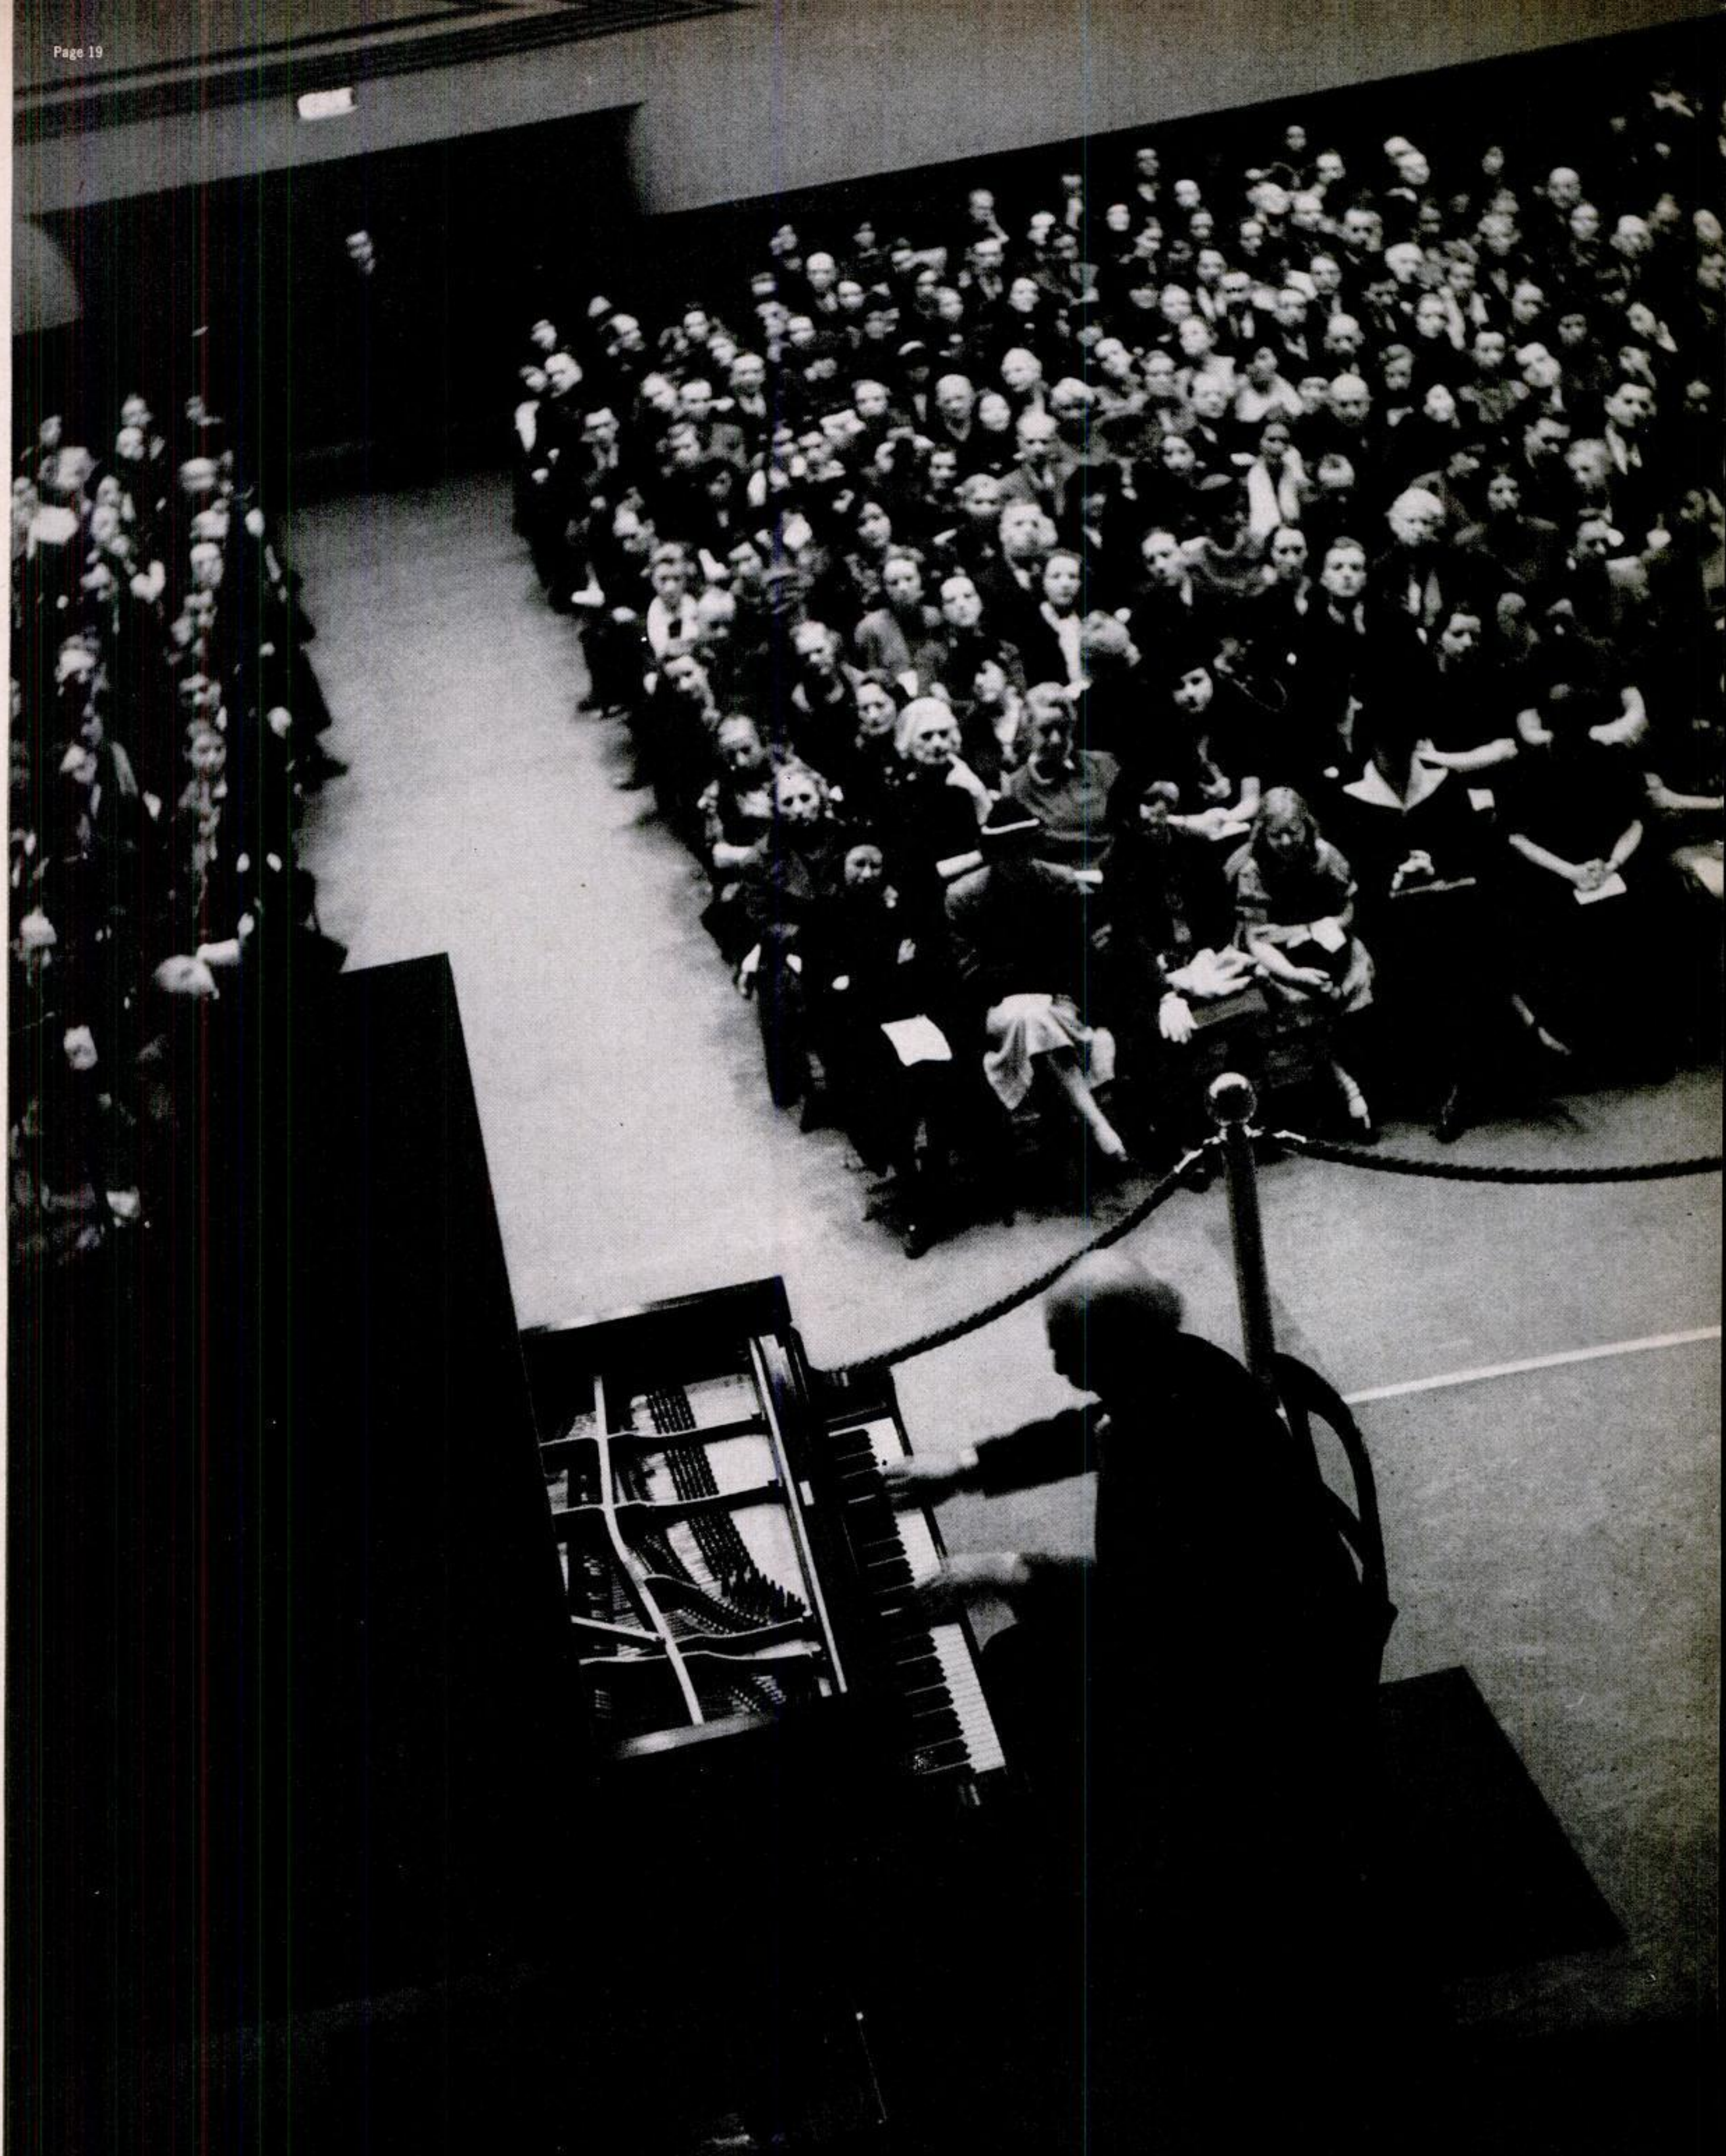

PICTURE OF THE WEEK

For 40 years, the old-fashioned piano stool below has traveled the world over with Ignace Jan Paderewski. On Feb. 26 it stood on the stage in NBC's studio 8-H waiting the start of the "Magic Key" hour on which the most famous pianist and Polish patriot of his time would begin what would probably be his last tour of America. Years ago, Paderewski would stalk impressively to his piano. Now, at 78, he walked slowly. Years ago, he could stir his audience to wild cheers with the poetry of his playing. Now, his fingers played bravely but without their old-time fire. The studio audience sat in wistful quiet, stirring gratefully when the tired, reflective music briefly took on its old glitter. At the end, it cheered. An international radio audience heard the program. Suffering from a cold, Paderewski was forced to cancel the first two concerts of his tour.

Ignace Paderewski plays a sad farewell to America

DIPLOMATIC WASHINGTON BOWS AT DEATH OF JAPAN'S POPULAR ENVOY

Hirosi Saito, until last October Japan's Ambassador to the U.S., died in Washington Feb. 26. His four years as Ambassador were marked by increasing tension between the U.S. and Japan. But Saito was unfailingly popular. An admirer of the U.S., he played golf and poker, loved baseball, spoke American slang. At his funeral (above) William R. Castle (left), former Under Secretary of State, and Sir Ronald Lindsay (right), British Ambassador to the U.S., sat with bowed heads. Saito's wife (below) and two daughters, Sakiko (left) and Masako (right), paid homage at his bier. President Roosevelt offered to send his ashes to Japan aboard a cruiser.

HAWAII OPENS LEGISLATIVE SESSION WITH AN HOUR OF MUSIC AND HULAS

In the throne room of Iolani Palace, Honolulu, on Feb. 15, the 20th territorial legislature of Hawaii opened its 1939 session. For an hour before the session was called to order, Hawaiian musicians played, dancers went through the rotations of the hula (above). After lunch the combined houses—15 senators, 30 representatives—listened to the budget message of Governor Joseph B. Poindexter (below, on dais, lei around neck). On either side of the rostrum hang Hawaiian flags used by the Islands before the U.S. took possession in 1898. The eight stripes represent major islands. Union Jack symbolizes their discovery by Captain James Cook in 1778.

KANSAS CITY'S UNDERWORLD SHAKEN BY CRUSADING JUDGE & GRAND JURY

Into the courtroom of Judge Allen C. Southern (above) on February 28 trooped detachments of Kansas City's subterranean society. Chief among them was Charles V. Carrola, reputed czar of the city's vast gambling syndicate. He and smaller fry had been indicted on 110 charges by a grand jury convoked by Judge Southern six weeks ago to investigate Kansas City's gambling and vice operations. In the picture below Carrola stands with upraised hand in right foreground, swearing to a bail bond which his mother and father (beside him at left) posted in his behalf. Trials that follow may clean up one of America's most wide-open towns.

SEARCH SHOWS IT TAKES 82½ HOURS TO FIND A NEEDLE IN A HAYSTACK

In Washington on Feb. 27 a waggish young man named James Moran determined to his own satisfaction how hard it could be to Find-A-Needle-In-A-Haystack. Week before he had dumped a two-ton mow of hay on a downtown corner lot, implanted a needle and plunged in. No press agent, Moran designed his haystack venture (like his last summer's trip to the Arctic to sell iceboxes to Eskimos) as "a protest against employment." He worked 16 hours daily, slept in the stack nights, made $60 selling straws to onlookers. After 82 hr., 35 min. of hunting, he found the needle, stuck it in an envelope (below), mailed it to the Smithsonian Institution.

MARY MARTIN, WINTHROP ROCKEFELLER HANDSOMEST COUPLE AT EL MOROCCO

At El Morocco, nocturnal headquarters of New York cafe society, 325 socialites on Feb. 26 watched a battery of famous judges pick the Handsomest Couple present. The judges included Actors William Gaxton and Victor Moore, Actress Mae Murray, Writers Dorothy Kilgallen and Quentin Reynolds, "Diamond Queen" Mabel Boll and Rudy Vallee. Their quick choice: pert, jovial Mary Martin and tall, good-looking Winthrop Rockefeller.

Mary Martin is the small-town Texas girl with the beautiful legs and slim figure who is the singing sensation of the Manhattan theater season. In Leave It to Me she leaves audiences limp with her strip tease and song, My Heart Belongs to Daddy (LIFE, Dec. 19). Winthrop Rockefeller, bachelor son of John D. Rockefeller Jr. is now studying banking. They met backstage and at the Rockefellers' Rainbow Room, where Miss Martin sang after her show. This was the first time they have been seen out together.

BRITAIN PICKS A NEW SULTAN

A new sultan is anointed Jan. 26 in Klang, royal city of Selangor on the west coast of the Malay Peninsula. This is the nine-tiered pancha persada, filled by sword-bearers, one tufted spear-bearer, Sultana's women, Grand Vizier, British officials and (top) the royal couple themselves. Selangor exports tin, rubber and the jelutong used in American chewing gum.

A MASS COMING-OUT PARTY IS CLIMAX

Two elders arrive at Sweden's Innocence Ball—Sweden's King Gustaf V and the Grand Mistress of the Order of Innocence, Margarethe de Champs, wife of General Henri de Champs.

The Grand Mistress of the Order takes the first dance with the King's eldest son, Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, who visited the U.S. last year. First dance, a waltz, is for bigwigs.

FOR A CHEWING GUM STATE

The crown, unusual regalia in Malay States, is placed on the new Sultan's head by his elder brother. Two elder brothers were rejected as Sultans by the British Government in favor of Sir Hisamud-din Alam Shah, K.C.M.G., who went to Cambridge University. Sultana (right) got a tiara.

Real ruler of Selangor, as well as of all the Malay States, is High Commissioner Sir Thomas Shenton Whitelegge Thomas (right), Governor and Commander in Chief of the Straits Settlements, who is also a Cambridge man. Britain tactfully rules, but does not own, the Malay States.

A Malay extra is brought out for the coronation. A Malayan newsboy waits for sales. Theoretically Malay, Selangor State is actually 70% Chinese. It is near Singapore.

OF SWEDEN'S SOCIAL SEASON

Four Swedish debutantes curtsy to the King. Some 450 of them were this year initiated into the 175-year-old Order of Innocence at the annual Innocence Ball in the winter garden of Stockholm's ornate Grand Hotel

Royal. They get tapped on the shoulder with a sword and are given a silver star with the initials I.O. (Innocence Order). Favorite color for gowns is light blue and favorite ornaments are Swedish meadow flowers.

Dancing becomes general after the first dance, a Vienna waltz, has been stepped out by the Swedish royal family, the heads of the Innocence Order and two of the debutantes with their escorts. Some 500 old members spent $2.50 apiece for the evening of music and food. Guests pay $8.50 per man, $7.50 per woman.

DEWEY for PRESIDENT

★ ILLINOIS CLUB ★

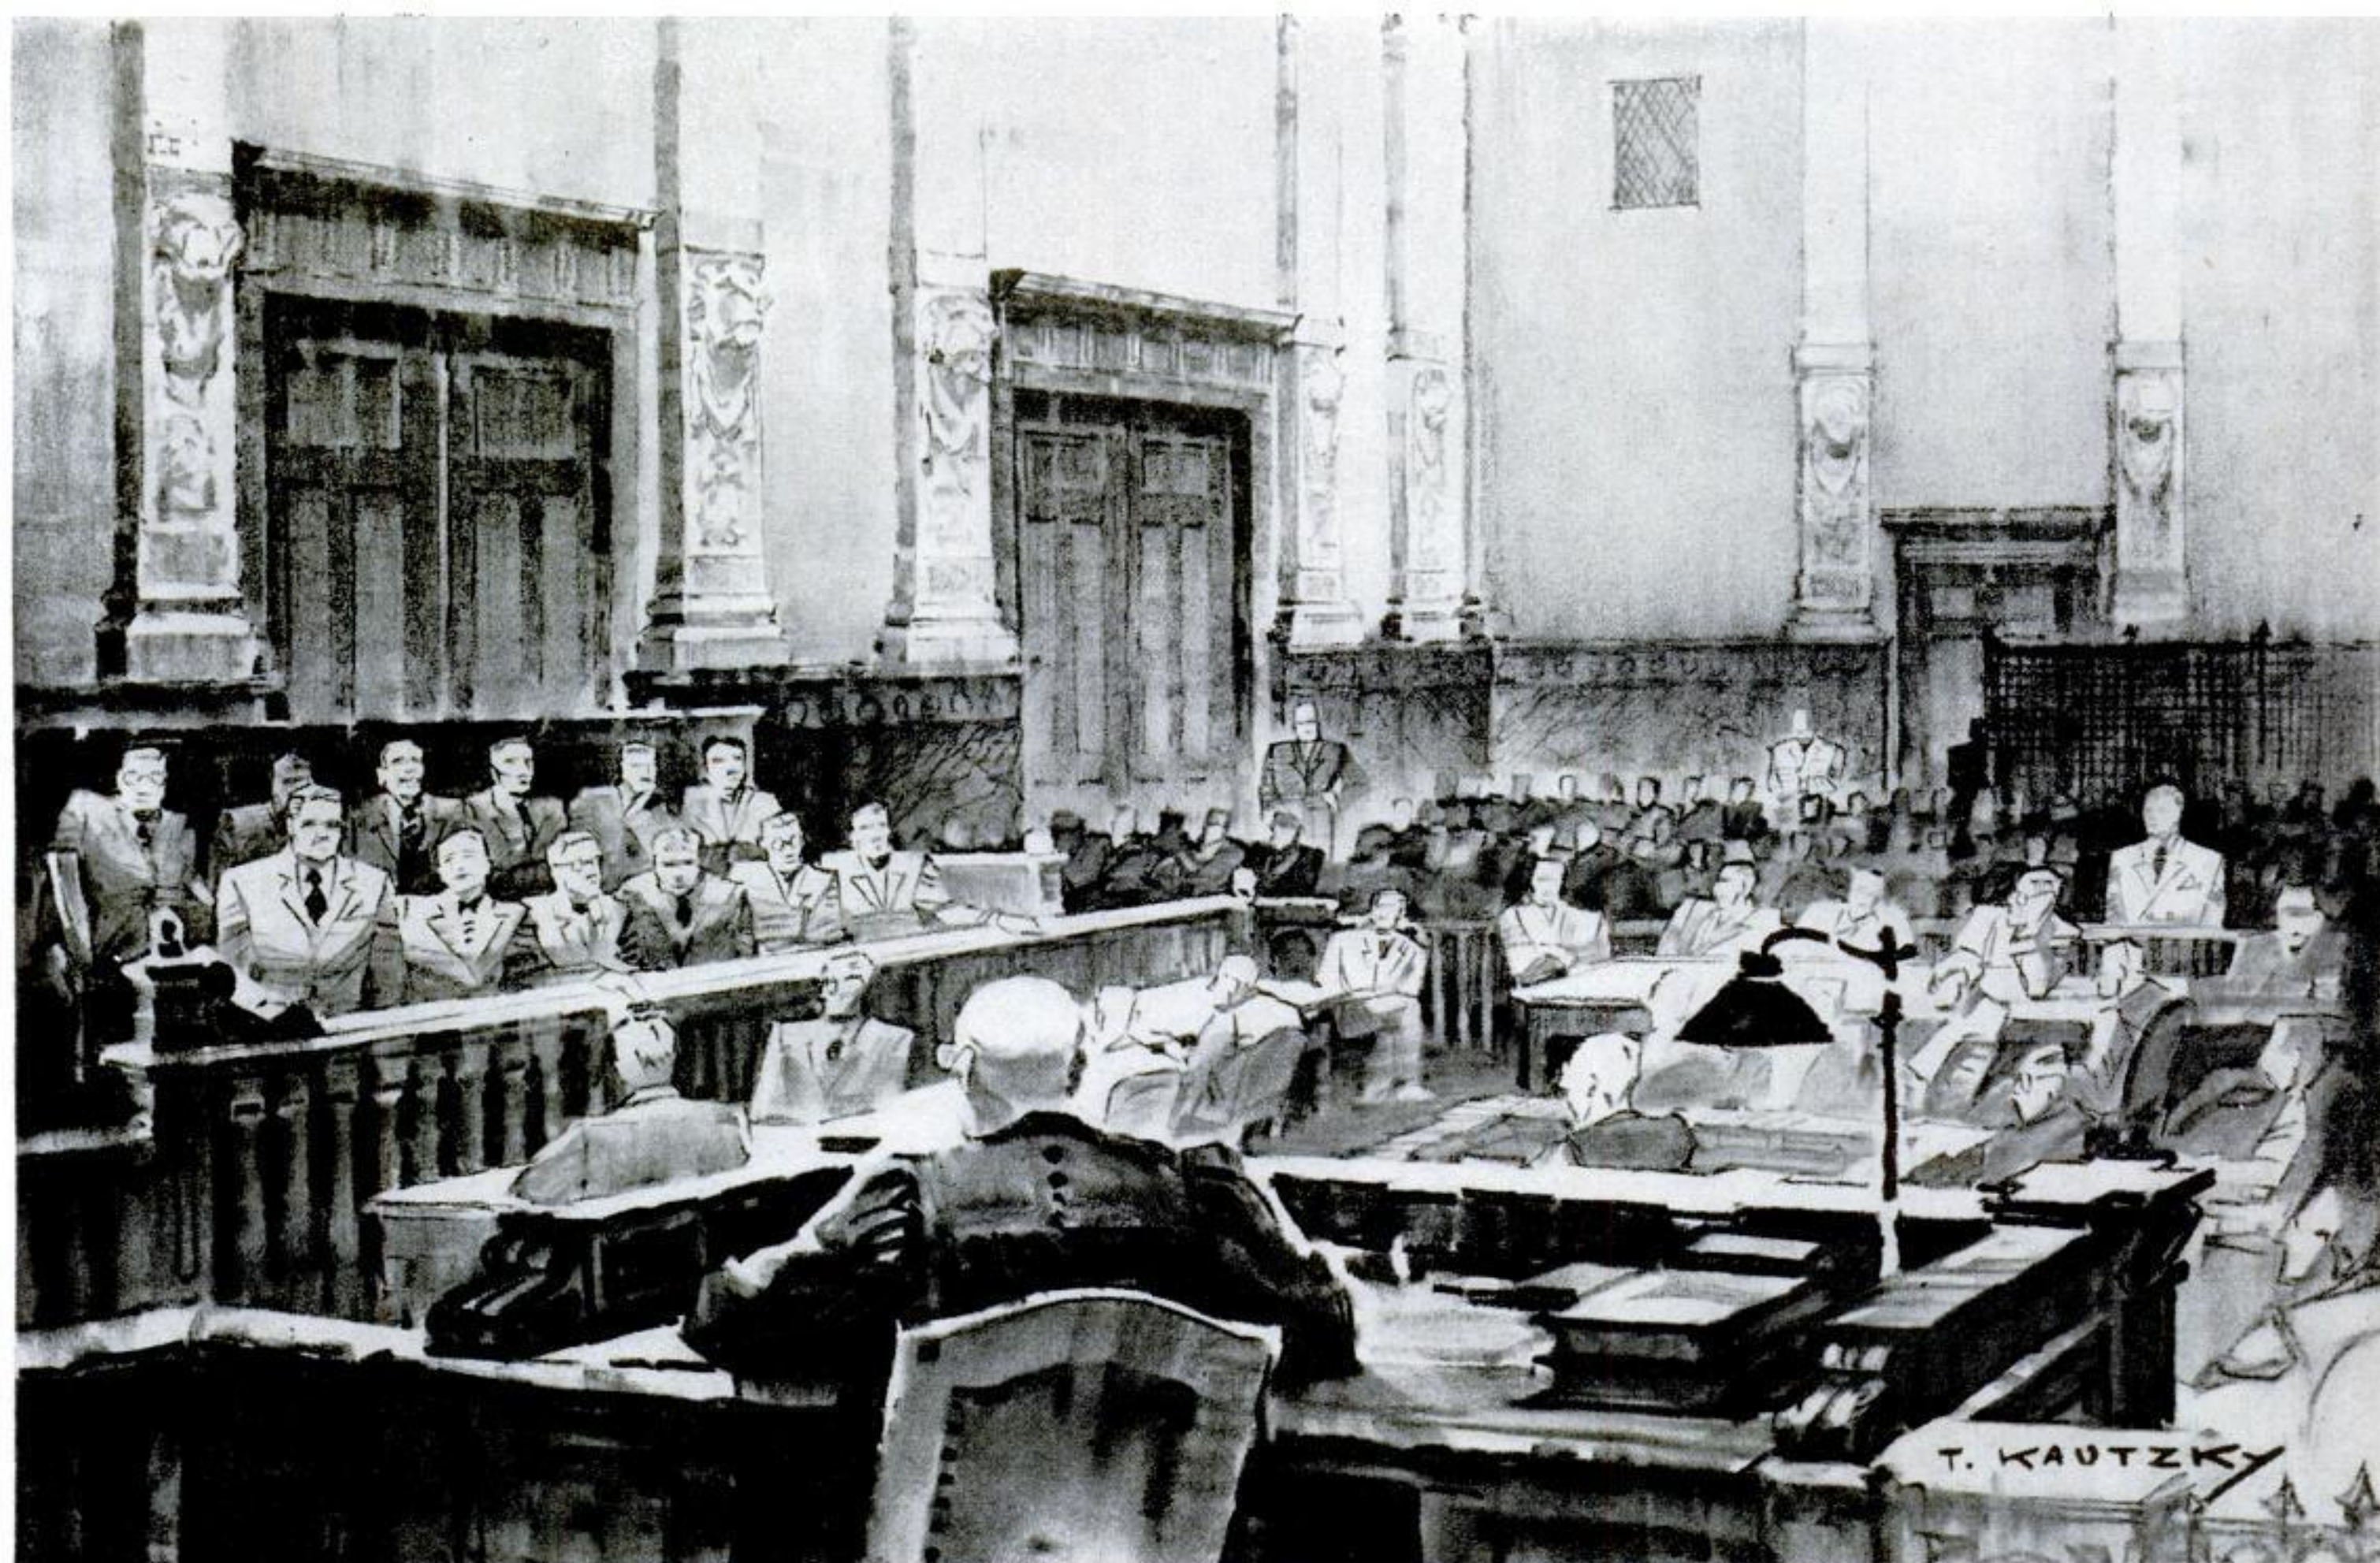

First organized Dewey boom started in Rockford, Ill., three days after Hines's conviction. Charter of club is held by Edward M. Fox (right), classmate of Dewey's at U. of Michigan.

After the fun was over Dewey went back to his routine as District Attorney. He nailed two men for attempted jury fixing in Hines's case, paid no attention to doings in Illinois.

DEWEY WINS HIS CASE AGAINST HINES AND HOISTS HIS PROSPECTS FOR 1940

In a New York courtroom on the evening of Feb. 25 a blue-ribbon jury found James J. ("Jimmy") Hines, potent Tammany leader, guilty on all 13 counts of an indictment charging him with conspiracy to protect the city's far-flung numbers racket. To convict this apparently invulnerable politician had been the chief aspiration of New York's District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey since his election in 1937. His first attempt ended in a mistrial last September. Success now expunges the memory of Dewey's narrow defeat in the New York gubernatorial election of 1938, places him well ahead of the field in the Republican Party's Presidential steeplechase. For other 1940 possibilities see pp. 64 & 66.

Firestone CHAMPION

The Tire with the NEW Safety-Lock Cord Body and NEW Gear-Grip Tread

Stronger Cord Body More Non-Skid Mileage

FLOYD ROBERTS
1938 National Race Champion

Champion race drivers, whose very lives and chances of victory depend on tire safety, know tire construction and that is why they select and buy Firestone Tires for their racing cars.

Gear-Grip tread, the modern streamlined Firestone Champion Tire establishes completely new standards of blowout protection, non-skid safety, silent operation and long mileage.

The new Firestone Champion Tire embodies the famous Firestone Triple-Safe construction — only in Firestone Tires do you get the exclusive and patented construction features of Gum-Dipping, two extra layers of Safety-Lock cords under the tread and Gear-Grip tread design. Never in all the history of tire building, has there been such a safety combination to protect you against the dangers of blowouts, punctures and skidding.

The new Firestone Champion Tire has captured the attention of car owners everywhere. Call on your nearby Firestone Dealer or Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store today and equip your car with a set of new Firestone Champion Tires — the only tires made which are safety proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

JUST as you would expect, it's Firestone that again sets the tire safety standard this year. Always the leader in building safer tires, Firestone now provides a combination of safety features never before built into a tire. The new Firestone Champion Tire is a completely new achievement in safety engineering.

After years of research on the speedways of the world and in the science laboratories, Firestone engineers have developed a new type of cord body, called Safety-Lock, which provides amazingly greater strength. This revolutionary achievement makes possible the use of a thicker, tougher, deeper tread which gives you much greater non-skid mileage. Because of this new Safety-Lock Cord body and

A man in a tuxedo is pouring whiskey from a bottle into four glasses on a silver tray. The tray is on a wooden table. In the background, there is a painting of a woman and a vase of pink roses.

How many whiskies do you put into a Manhattan?

THE ANSWER, in our opinion, should be: Several whiskies...one whose claim to greatness lies in its silken smoothness...another noted for its rich, deep fullness...still another for its tempting aroma...or its satisfying flavor.

And where can you hope to find these matchless whiskies? We thought you knew...you can get them all in one bottle. Simply ask for Four Roses! For Four Roses is a glorious combination of several truly great whiskies, each distinguished for some special quality!

Even the youngest of these whiskies is 4 years old

All the whiskies in Four Roses are old enough to be bottled in bond, if we thought they would be as good, sold separately that way.

But, instead, we think it better to reduce these whiskies to 90 proof to make them lighter, milder. Then we bring them together, so as to unite all their individual virtues in one whiskey that is finer by far than any of them could be alone. Four Roses is ALL whiskey—whiskey, every drop.

So, tonight before dinner, we wish you'd try a Manhattan made with "several" whiskies—in other words, with Four Roses! You'll find Four Roses at any good bar or package store. It may cost a trifle more than some other whiskies—but it's worth it! Frankfort Distilleries, Incorporated, Louisville and Baltimore.

SEVEN-MONTHS BABY GETS BACK MASSAGE TO BELCH

"INCUBATOR ROOMS" SAVE PREMATURE BABIES' LIVES

Of the 125,000 premature babies born each year in the U. S. over 40,000 die within the first year because they are not sufficiently developed to live outside their mothers' bodies. That such mortality is unnecessary has been well demonstrated by the Boston Lying-in Hospital. In its special nursery, premature babies make the transition from womb to outside world in slow, carefully controlled steps.

Thus the 4-lb. baby, whose full-size portrait you see at right, will stay for two months in the hospital's germ-free incubator rooms. Born Feb. 14, eight months after conception, he was rushed from delivery room to premature babies' ward where he will spend a few weeks in a constant temperature of 85° and will be fed mother's milk through a tiny dropper. As the baby puts on weight he goes to a 79° room and is fed through a larger dropper, finally reaching a room where the temperature is normal and where he is allowed to suck at his own bottle.

But though this process has saved many lives, doctors at the Boston Lying-in attempt to prevent premature births by instructing mothers in prenatal care.

Say, Ernie—why don't you relax?

VOICE OF CONSCIENCE: Ernie, why are you letting that fellow monopolize those two girls? Why can't you relax, act natural, say something funny?

ERNIE: Who could do anything but look funny in this shirt? I feel like a trussed turkey.

VOICE OF C.: It's all your own fault. What made you buy that shirt anyway? You knew it would probably shrink.

ERNIE: Well, it said "pre-shrunk" on it, and I thought maybe this time—

VOICE OF C.: You know very well you can't depend on those words "pre-shrunk" or "full-shrunk." Why didn't you insist on a shirt that said "Sanforized-Shrunk" like I told you?

ERNIE: Well—I—

VOICE OF C.: Haven't you read about the Sanforizing process? How it takes all the shrinkage out of the fabric within a mere 1%, by Government standard test? And that Good Housekeeping Magazine confirms this figure?

ERNIE: Yes, but—

VOICE OF C.: Must I tell you all over again that there are 195 patents on the process—And no Sanforized-Shrunk shirt will ever shrink out of fit, no matter how often it's washed? That goes for Sanforized-Shrunk shorts and pajamas, too.

ERNIE: Listen, why don't you quit harping at me, and tell me something I can do about it—now—before that girl walks out on me?

VOICE OF C.: Here's what to do, Ernie! Tell the girls you've got to send a wire, or phone your Aunt Emma. Then run across the street and get a nice, comfortable Sanforized-Shrunk shirt to wear. It will fit you now—and it will still fit the next time you have a date with that girl—

ERNIE: If there's a next time—

VOICE OF C.: Sure there'll be, if you hurry. That store is still open—and they carry Sanforized-Shrunk shirts in different makes, at all prices.

ERNIE: Here goes. Watch me make a hit with those girls when I come back—

VOICE OF C.: But don't forget the other fellow has a head start. He's never worn any other kind but Sanforized-Shrunk shirts.

Look this way, girls—

WORLD'S FAIR

THIS IS WHAT NEW YORK AND ITS FAIR LOOK LIKE FROM 3,000 FT. UP. FROM MANHATTAN'S TIP TO FAIR IS FIVE MILES. IN FOREGROUND: GOVERNORS ISLAND

The New York World's Fair 1939 opens April 30, exactly 150 years after the inauguration of George Washington. Its site, two square miles near Flushing, L. I., was a huge ash heap on a tidal marsh, celebrated in fact and fiction as the "Corona Dump." Into this dump $170,000,000 has been poured to level and fill ground, plant 10,000 trees and millions of flowers, cover it with 200 buildings in which 1,400 exhibitors from 1,300 businesses, 33 States and 58 foreign countries will show their wares.

In virtually all ways, the New York Fair will be the biggest ever held in America. Its 1,200 acres could contain three of San Francisco's Treasure Island or three of Chicago's Century of Progress. Chicago in 1933 attracted a record-breaking 22,000,000 admissions. New York's Fair expects to collect at least 70,000,000. Almost 20,000,000 out-of-towners will come to New York. This will be like adding the entire population of Washington, D.C., to New York every day during the summer. American Express Travel Co. alone has reserved accommodations to sleep 1,500,000 people in New York from June 1 to Nov. 1. The Long Island Railroad and three subways will have special stations at the Fair.

Today, as the Fair is rushed to a frantic completion, it can be safely said that it will be exciting, impressive and eminently worthwhile. But unless its directors bestir themselves and get some lively amusements, their Fair will be less fun than San Francisco's gay and charming carnival (LIFE, March 6).

The Fair, however, has always declared primly that it is more concerned with instruction than amusement. An out-and-out advertising venture, sponsored by New York businessmen who expect visitors to spend $1,000,000,000 in their city, the Fair has a high-sounding purpose: to demonstrate the interdependence of men and the blessings of democracy. This demonstration is being put on almost entirely by American Big Business as a goodwill effort. Now, in a time when it must prove its worth and wisdom, Business is using the Fair to show off the marvels of its industrial technology. Since its technology is pretty wonderful, the Fair will be full of wonderful things.

The Fair is budgeted so that it will break even on its own expenditure of $40,000,000 if only 40,000,000 people come to see it. It is charging 75¢ admission for adults, 25¢ for children. To help ease the feet which will trudge around its 65 miles of walks and roads, it is providing busses, tractor trains, wheel chairs. There will be plenty of places to sit down, rooms for changing clothes, 5,000 toilets, two-thirds of them free. Ruling over this busy world will be the natty figure of Grover Whalen, ex-department-store executive, ex-New York police commissioner. On the following 16 pages, LIFE presents a preview of New York's huge exposition.

THE PROGRESS OF ARCHITECTURE AT GREAT U. S. FAIRS

The 1853 New York fair, at Fifth Avenue & 42nd Street, had for theme a tower and a bulging dome. Crystal Palace, shown here, was burned to the ground.

At the 1876 Philadelphia Centennial the original Bell telephone was demonstrated to the visiting Emperor of Brazil who cried, "My God, it speaks!"

The 1893 Chicago fair was probably the greatest of all fairs. It inroduced the classic architecture which permeated U. S. until 1925.

The 1915 San Francisco fair celebrated the opening of the Panama Canal. It was the first fair to make use of night illumination on a large scale.

THESE LITTLE SAVAGES ARE ELECTRONS

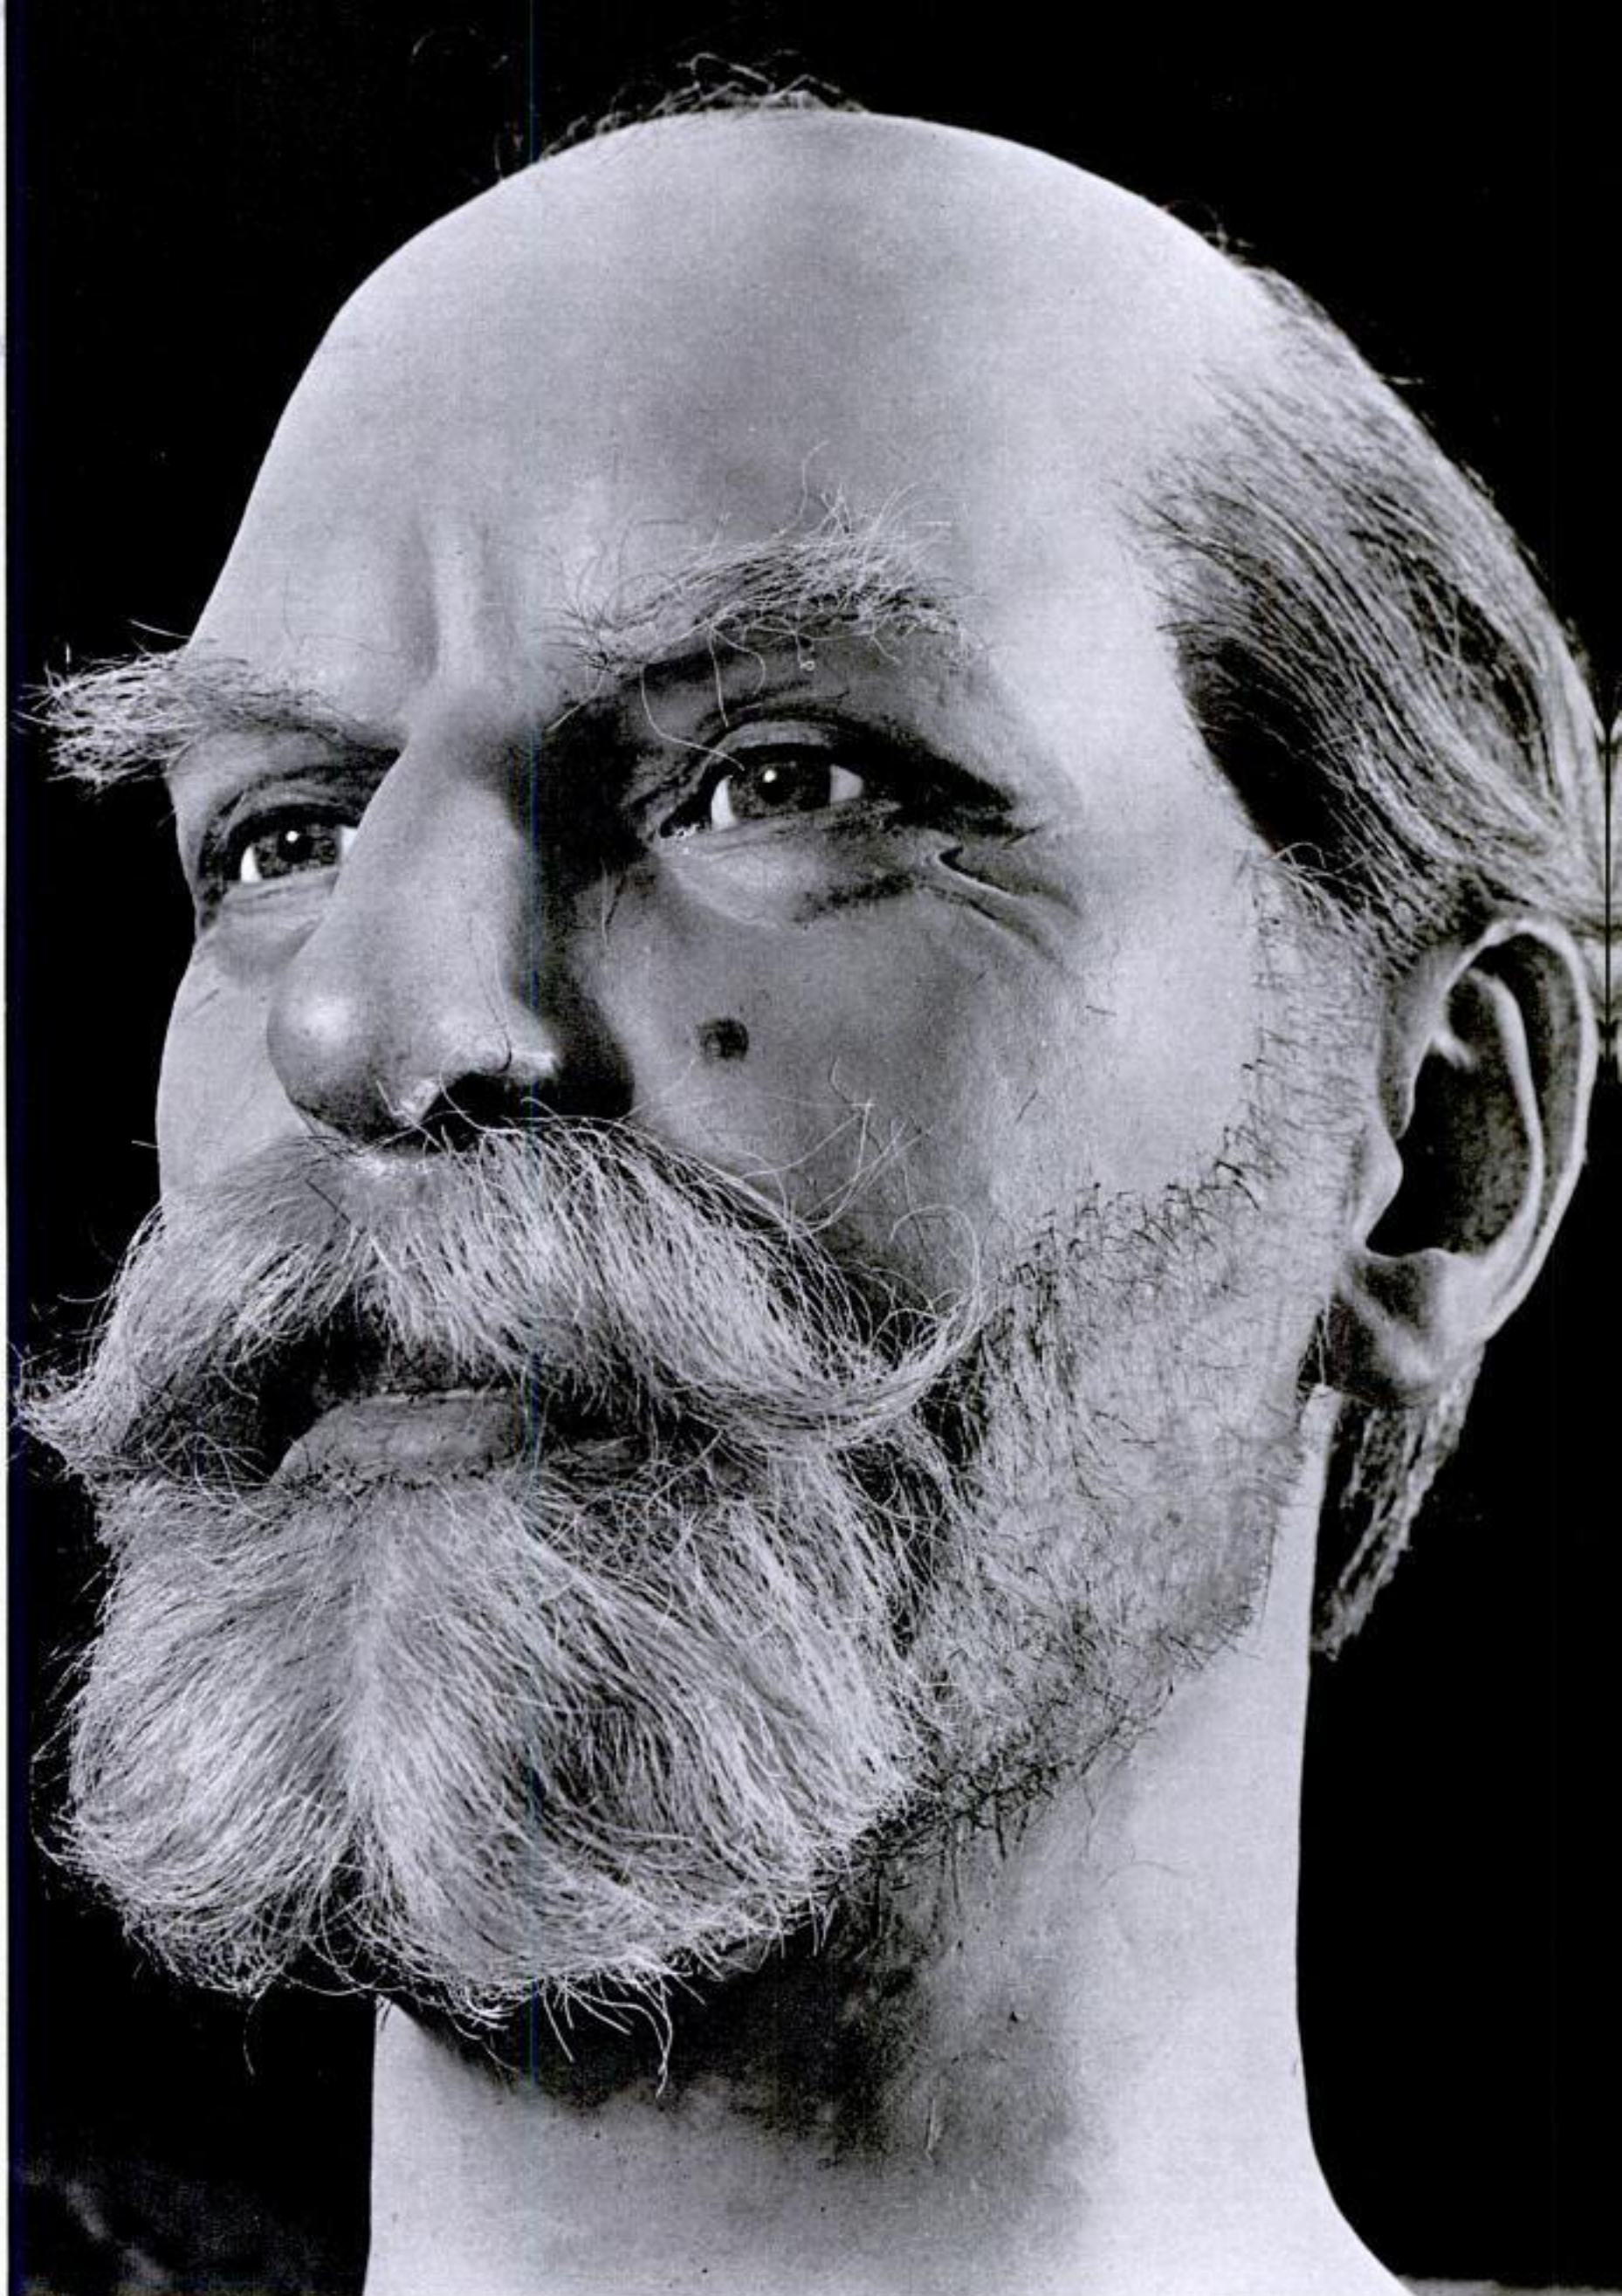

Most engaging of the many statues which stud the Fair grounds are the little figures (right) in the "Fountain of the Atom." Here, four huge statues represent the ancient conception of what constituted all matter: Fire, Earth, Air, Water. Below them dance these lively terra-cotta children. Each one represents an electron, thus symbolizing the modern atomic theory of matter. Waylande Gregory, their sculptor, calls them "elemental little savages of boundless energy."

For a while, it seemed as if statues and murals would constitute all the art at the Fair. No attempt was made to have a formal art exhibit. But, spurred by the San Francisco Fair's art coup (LIFE, Feb. 13), the Fair is rustling together a worthy collection of old masters, will also have some modern American works. The great number of murals on Fair exteriors was made necessary by the fact that, to get full exhibit space inside, windows were eliminated. To break up the resulting blank spaces, the walls were covered with decorative color. Landscaping was planned for permanence because, when the big show is over, the Fair must tear down the buildings and turn the ground over to New York City for use as a great park.

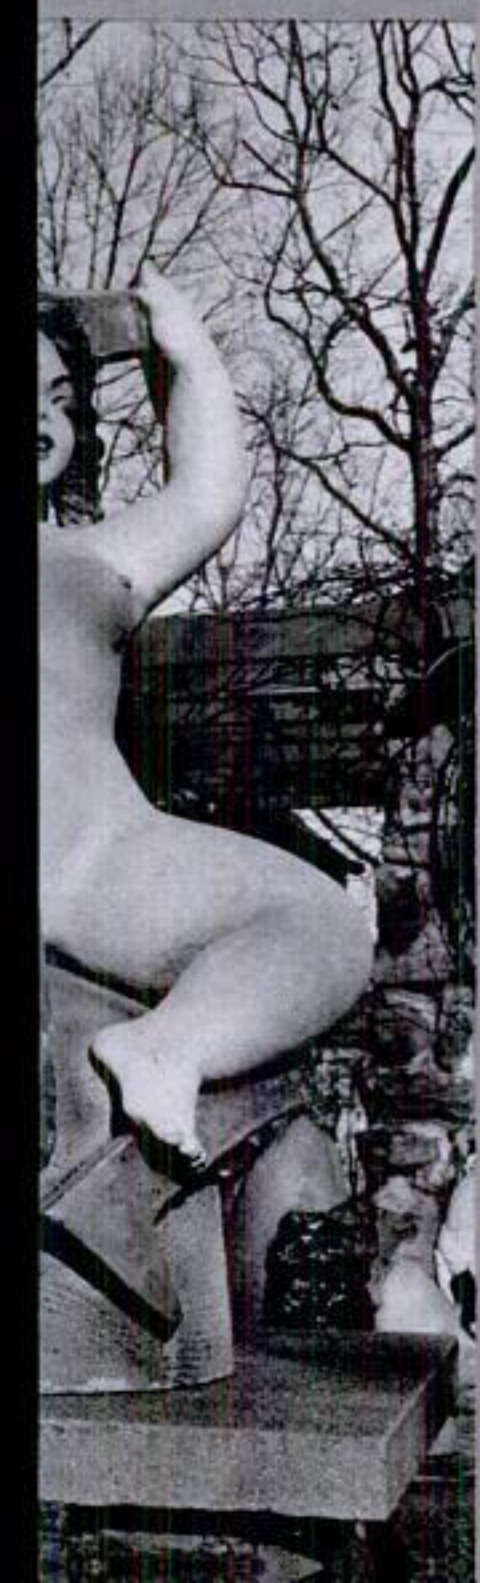

they will be mechanically milked while the Rotolactor, a sort of bovine merry-go-round, slowly revolves so that the public can see everything. Also in the exhibit will be 20 calves who will bawl and look cute, and five bulls who will plod around in an exerciser.

Chief Justice Hughes of the U.S. Supreme Court will be shown in effigy for visitors at a new Broadway waxworks. Decently robed, Mr. Hughes will sit in the entrance hall. In the main room will be a wax panorama of American history, which begins with Columbus at the Spanish court.

MOBILE MURAL

HENRY BILLINGS DOES A THREE-DIMENSIONAL MURAL WHOSE HERO IS A FORD V-8 MOTOR IN COMPLEX MOTION

The most original and exciting work of art in the Fair is this mural which Henry Billings has done for the Ford building. Built of solid wood-and-metal parts in bright colors it is probably the first three-dimensional mural ever made which actually moves. It has huge gears which mesh and turn, pistons which pump up and down. It is 70 ft. long and 40 ft. high. In the scale model below, the two spectators at left give an idea of its size.

Standing in the entrance hall against a curved wall, which resembles the apse of a church, the mural itself suggests a gigantic altar piece. Its central figure is a Ford V-8 motor, surrounded by a hierarchy of the modern world: science, technology, mass production.

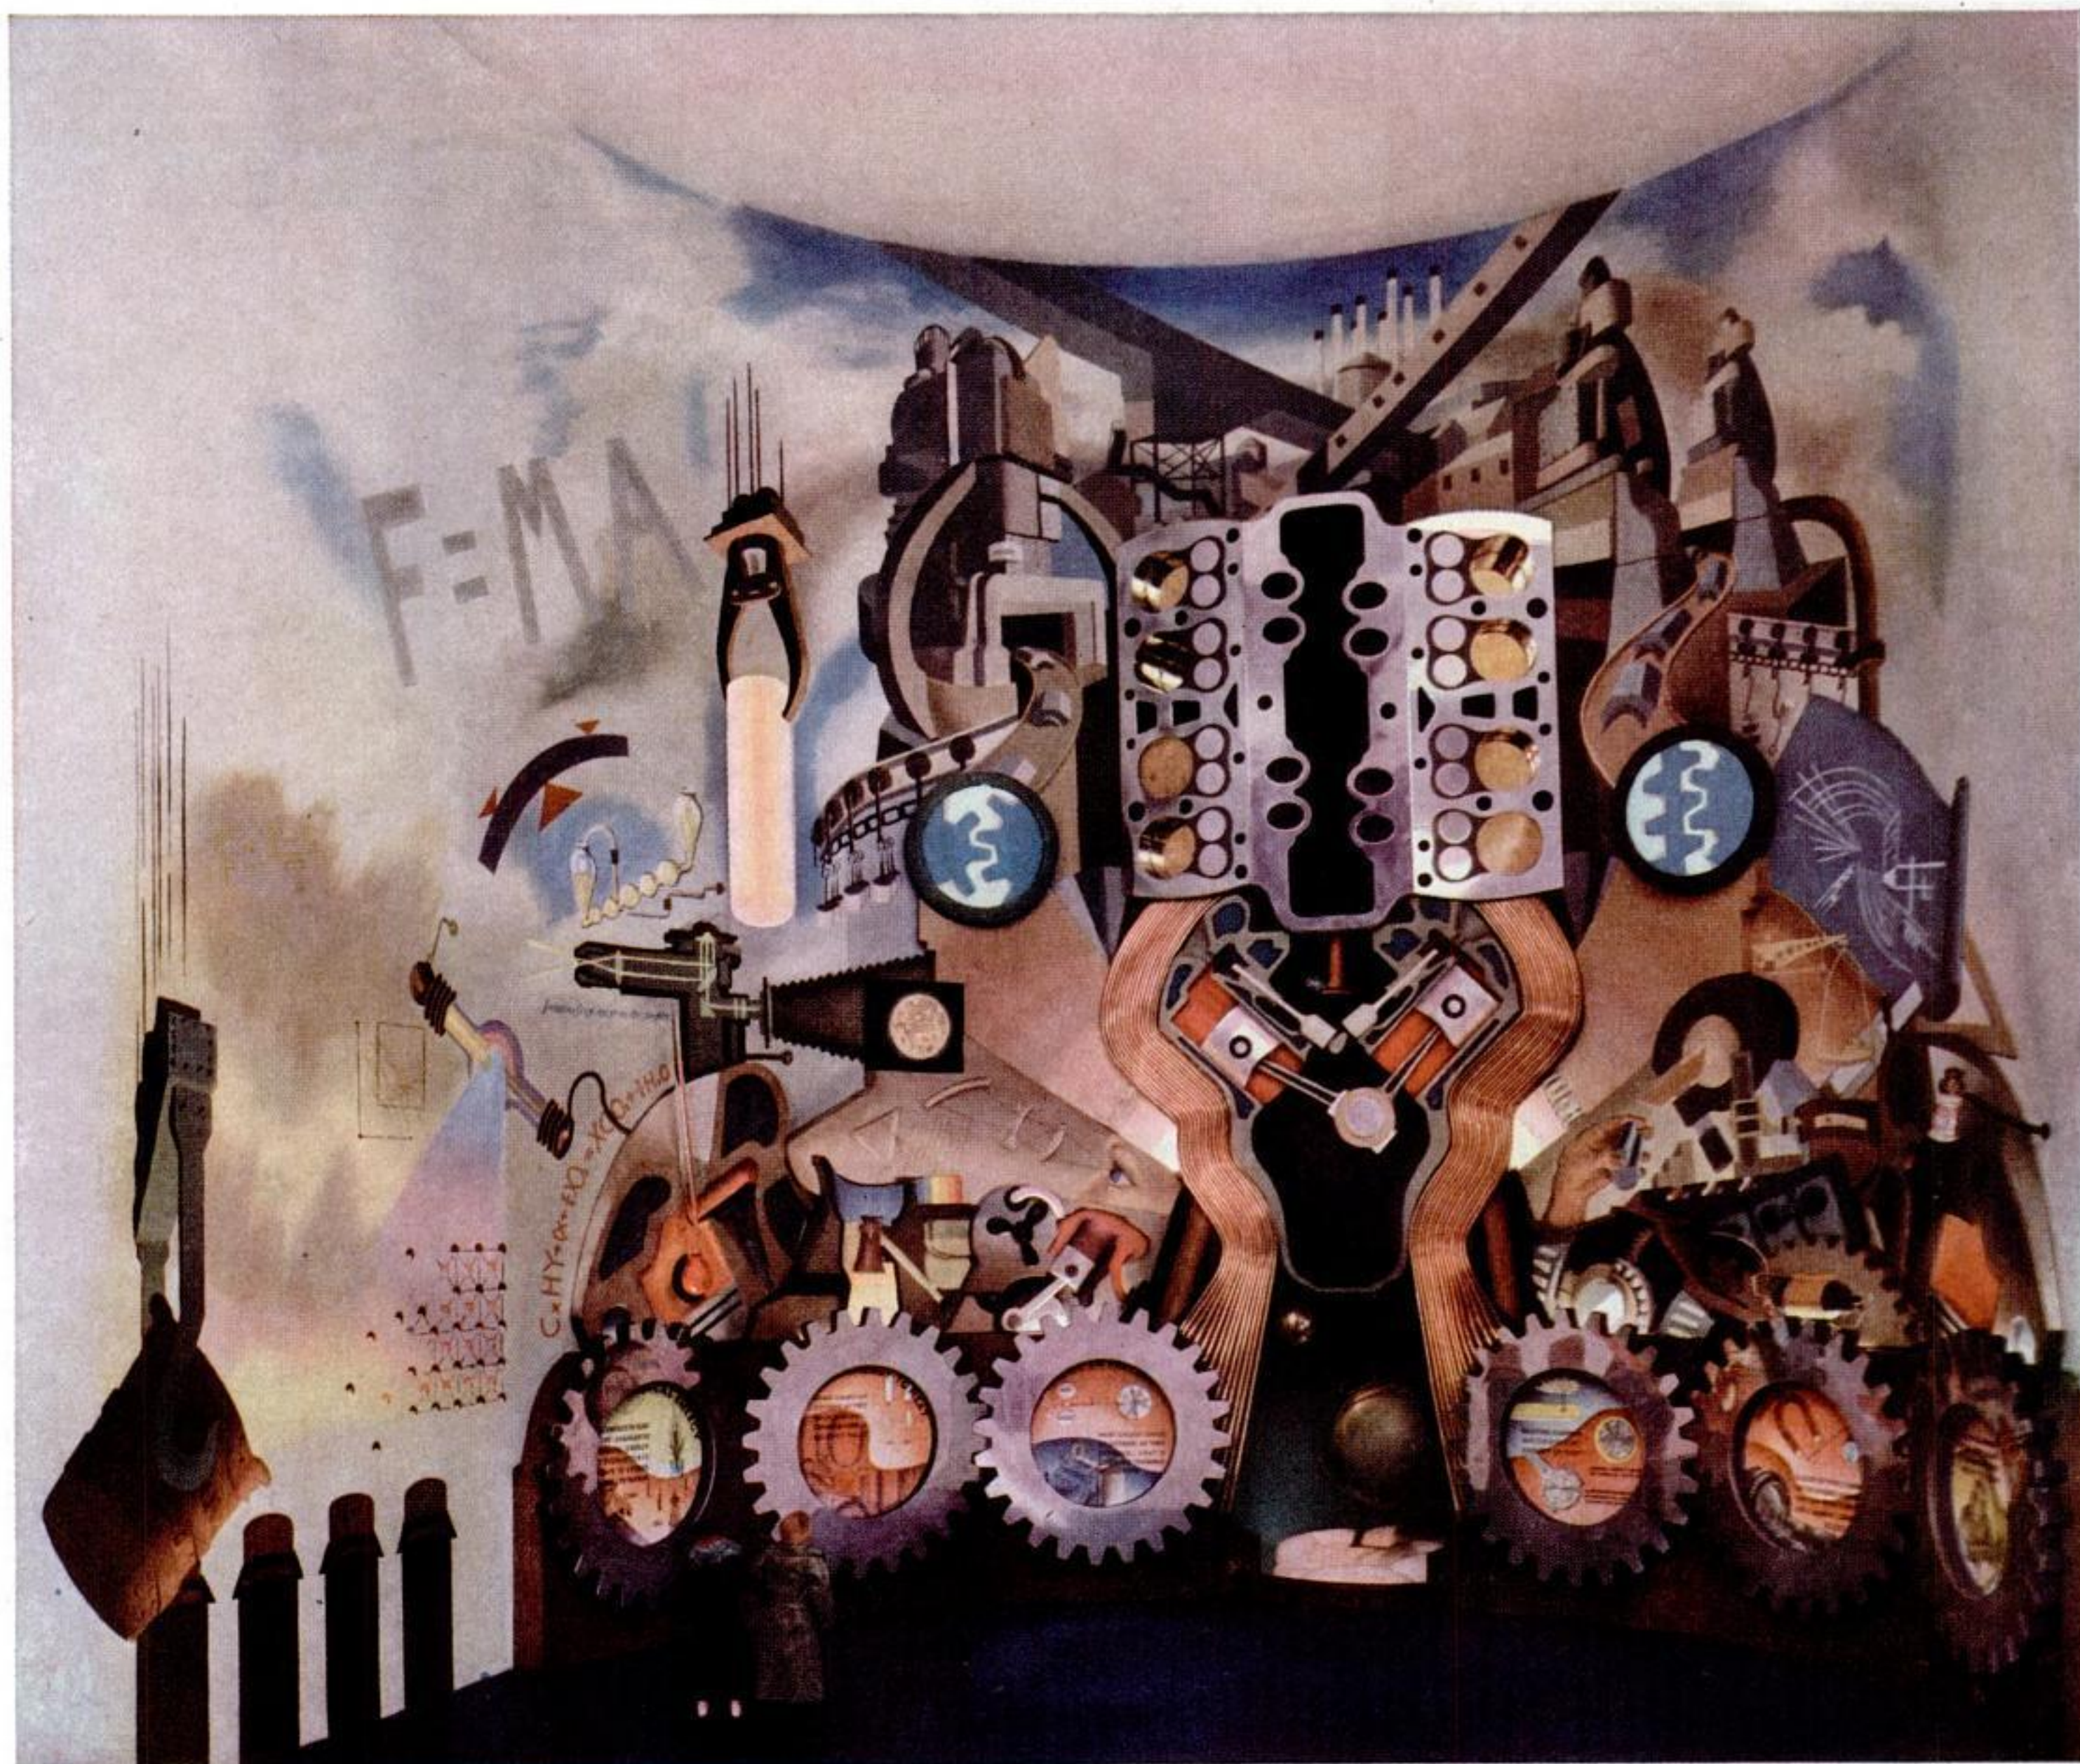

In the center, dominating the mural, is an enlarged cross section of two cylinders in which pistons move back and forth. Above this is a V-8 motor block whose valves and pistons work exactly as they do in a motor car. Below, at the bottom of the mural, globes illustrate energy coming from sun to earth. Ranged along the bottom are six gears, which represent steps in the transformation of the sun's energy into the motion of the motor car. From left to right, the gears are: 1) light into chemical energy; 2) chemical energy into heat; 3) heat to motion; 4) motion to heat; 5) motion to electricity; 6) electricity to heat.

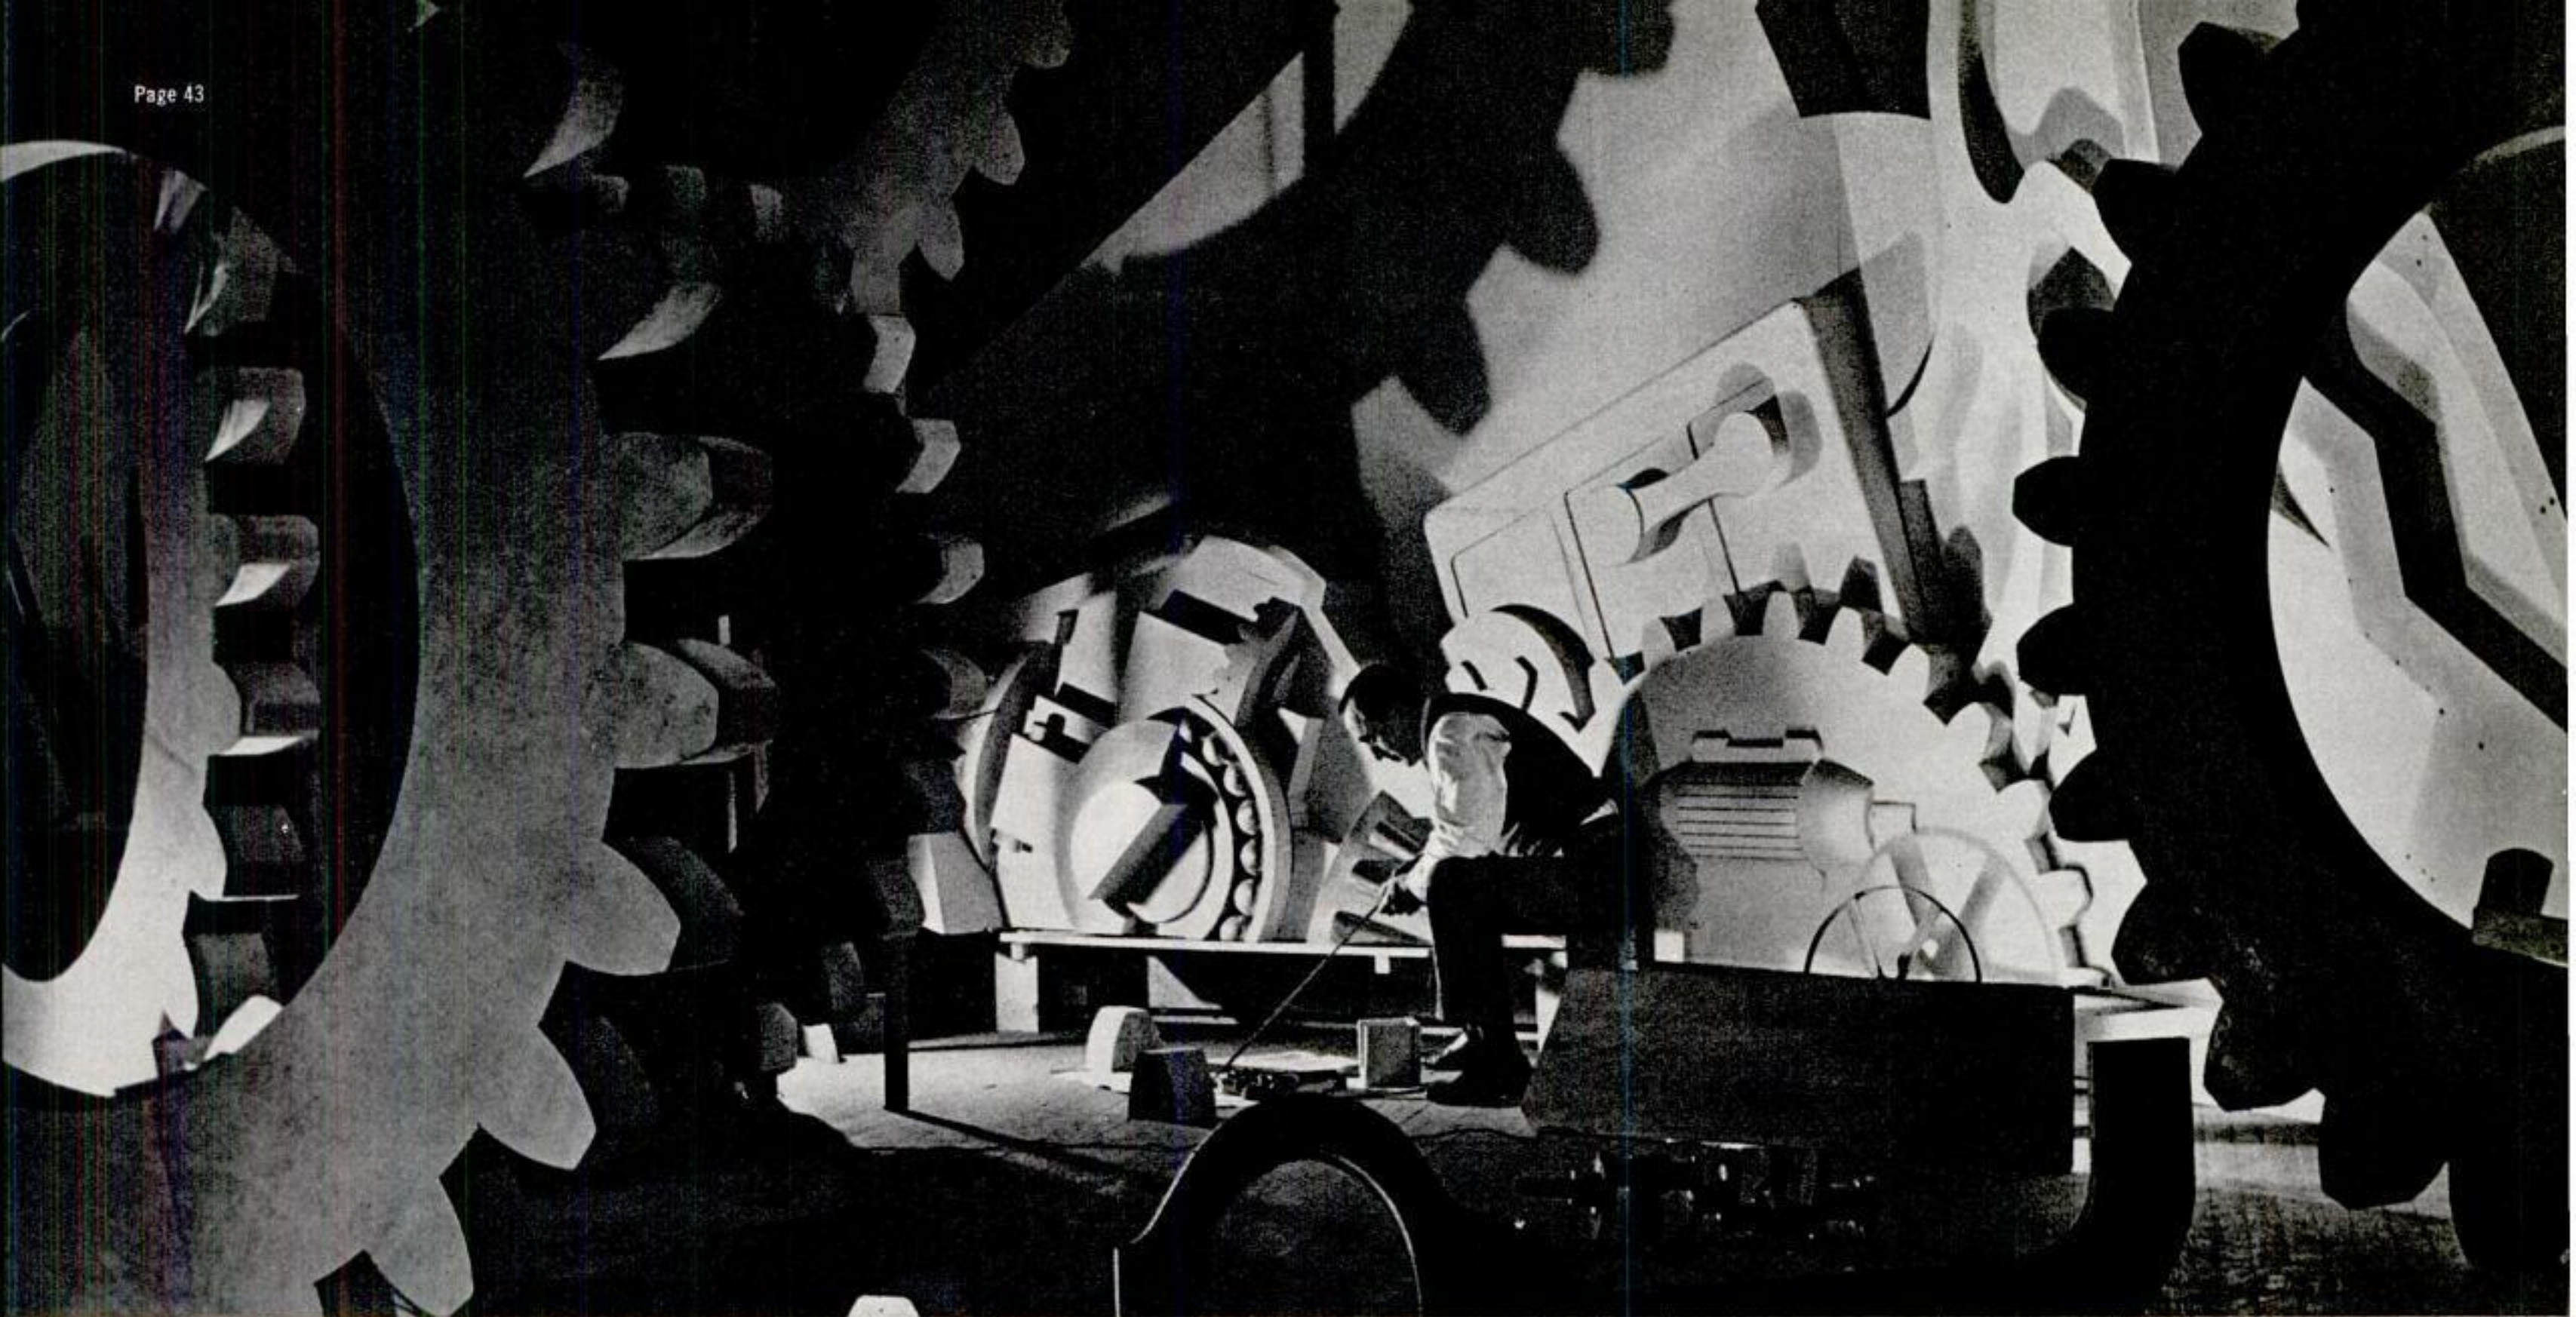

Above the gears are the parts of a Ford motor in which these principles are demonstrated. Above and to the left of the second gear (chemical energy to heat) is a cylinder's explosion chamber (in red) in which a thermometer measures heat. Just above this same gear is a carburetor which regulates the mixture of gas and oxygen. Above the third gear (heat to motion) is a piston and a motor's three-bladed fan. Above the fourth gear (motion to heat) are bearings which overcome the heat of friction. Above the fifth gear (motion to electricity) are a generator and battery. Above the sixth gear (electricity to heat) is a cylinder, topped by a spark plug.

Above the third gear an eye looks toward a cameralike metallurgic microscope. On the other side of the tubing are hand and measuring devices. Farther up the blue images of moving gears are projected on two ground-glass screens. Topping the whole mural are painted scenes of mass production at Ford's River Rouge plant. On the wall at left is an X-ray tube above the lattice-like structure of steel atoms. $F=MA$ means Force Equals Mass Times Acceleration.

The mural moves in a $3\frac{1}{4}$ -min. cycle. At the start music is heard and gears, pistons, sprockets turn slowly. Lights shining behind them throw their moving shadows on the wall and ceiling. The gears pick up speed, the shadows whirl faster and faster until the walls dance madly with them. The animated mural begins to slow down, pauses for a few seconds. Then the gears begin slowly to turn again.

Ford's raw materials

In addition to its mobile mural, Ford will have other animated art. Fanciful statues, many of which will move, will stand on the steps of a 30-ft. high turntable and symbolize the products and processes used in making a Ford automobile. These wooden figures range from 4 to 6 ft. high. Below: raw materials.

Industry puts on life-like exhibits which really work

In oldtime fairs, spectators had to be content with looking at static machinery and taking for granted that it worked. A few exhibits, however, really operated, and many a Midwesterner now remembers the St. Louis fair of 1904 only because it had a model of a coal mine which actually worked.

Today fair visitors demand that exhibits move and look real. For that reason, scale models and dioramas will be found everywhere at the New York Fair. Many models will be worked by spectators who can push buttons to set machinery in motion. The diorama, a three-dimensional, perspective model done with great exactness, was little known in the U. S. outside museums before 1933. Imported from Europe to Chicago's Century of Progress, it is now the most important single exposition device. Largest diorama order for New York went to Diorama Corp. which did 300 including Langley Field, Consolidated Edison's New York, Niagara Falls. Young lady at far right is shooting the Falls to give an idea of its size.

This brave steeplejack is perched on Consolidated Edison's Empire State Building which, though complete with 102 stories, is only 32 ft. high. The whole diorama cost $150,000.

THERE'LL BE FUN FOR OLD AND YOUNG—MAYBE

Near the end of February, the Fair's directors woke up to a horrid fact. With the opening only two months away, they had few first-class amusements signed up. The Fair, which up to now has never shown any deep interest in plain fun, has always insisted that its entertainment would be thoroughly moral. It declared that it would not tolerate shows "where bodies of young women were exploited." But the directors began to remember that in past fairs, relatively daring girl-acts (see opposite page) were more vital to financial success than the most dazzling conglomeration of mechanical and artistic wonders. Word came from San Francisco that Sally Rand's Nude Ranch was outdrawing all concessions two to one (LIFE, March 6). Thereupon directors formed a $1,000,000 corporation to promote amusements, booking agents were told Mr. Whalen had let his hair down and Sally Rand flew East to talk cold turkey.

There will be girls at the Fair—but how much of them or how many remains to be seen. Billy Rose will have an "aquacade." The Cuban Village will have voodoo dancers (left). There may be a risqué "Old New Orleans." The 280-acre amusement section will have chute-the-chutes, a 250-ft. parachute jump, a "Sun Valley" ski jump with artificial snow. For children, who will make 15,000,000 visits to the Fair, a spritely "Children's World" has been built. It will offer a train trip around the world, elephant and pony rides, circus, chariot races and, most important, rest areas where cranky kids can calm their excitement.

CUBA SENDS DANCERS, FLORIDA SENDS BEAUTIES (BELOW)

Good clean fun will be waiting for youngsters in the Children's World, which will be full of new-fangled slides and swings. This slide, being given tests in the Loudon factory, is shaped like an elephant. Children slide down his trunk.

ROSITA STARTS HER DANCE WITH DRESS AND DOVES

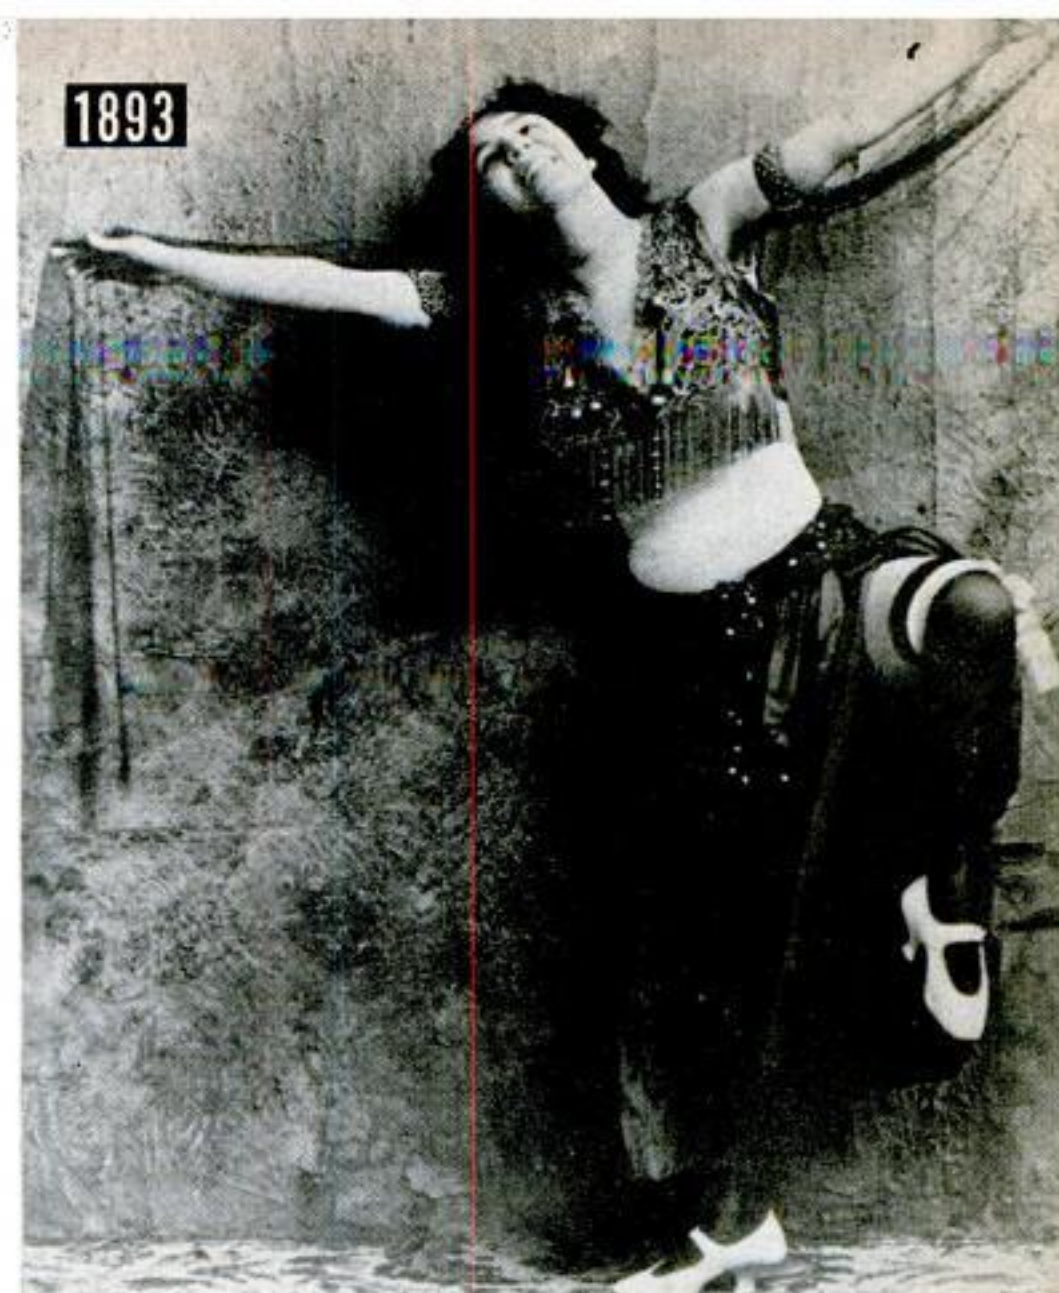

SHE DISCARDS THE DRESS BUT KEEPS THE DOVES

Rosita Royce the Dove Dancer is one item that will make the Fair an unforgettable occasion. Not yet formally hired, Rosita will very likely be signed up soon. If not, Fair visitors will see her on Broadway. A former bubble dancer who grew weary of imitators, Rosita decided to invent a dance which would be hard to copy. She spent a year training her seven white pigeons. Their part is simple. They perch on Rosita's head and arms, flutter prettily as she cavorts about in a state of undress. A Kansas City girl, Rosita was a great success at the Chicago and San Diego Fairs.

THE Hounds of Spring ARE AT YOUR HEELS

SOME DAY THIS WEEK when there's a challenge in the earth and the sky—give the best girl a ring, and come down and borrow a new Nash.

Here's a car that knows what it's all about . . . why colts kick their heels in the spring . . . why little boys run away from home . . . why trout rods are being revarnished.

Here's a car that has the instinct of a homing pigeon for those beautiful hidden roads that need a Nash to navigate.

Just look at it—begging to be let loose! But be careful. For there's a new kind of power packed beneath that bonnet . . . and it's terrific!

There's a gear-shift on your wheel* that's faster than any you've ever known . . . and a Fourth Speed Forward* that's fleet and soft as the wind you're racing.

With all this wide vision, you might be in the cock-pit of a glider. And there's the same feeling . . . of being divorced from the road. No wailing of wind or rumble from below break the spell of this glorious day.

Such moments can last forever! For even if spring is a fleeting thing, from this day on, you'll know no more cold, chilly drafts, or dust—thanks to the automatic Nash "Weather Eye"*.

It's always spring in a Nash!

Yes, a Nash is as catching as measles, and twice as hard to quarantine.

The driver's seat of a Nash is very easy to get into, but, somehow awfully hard to get out of!

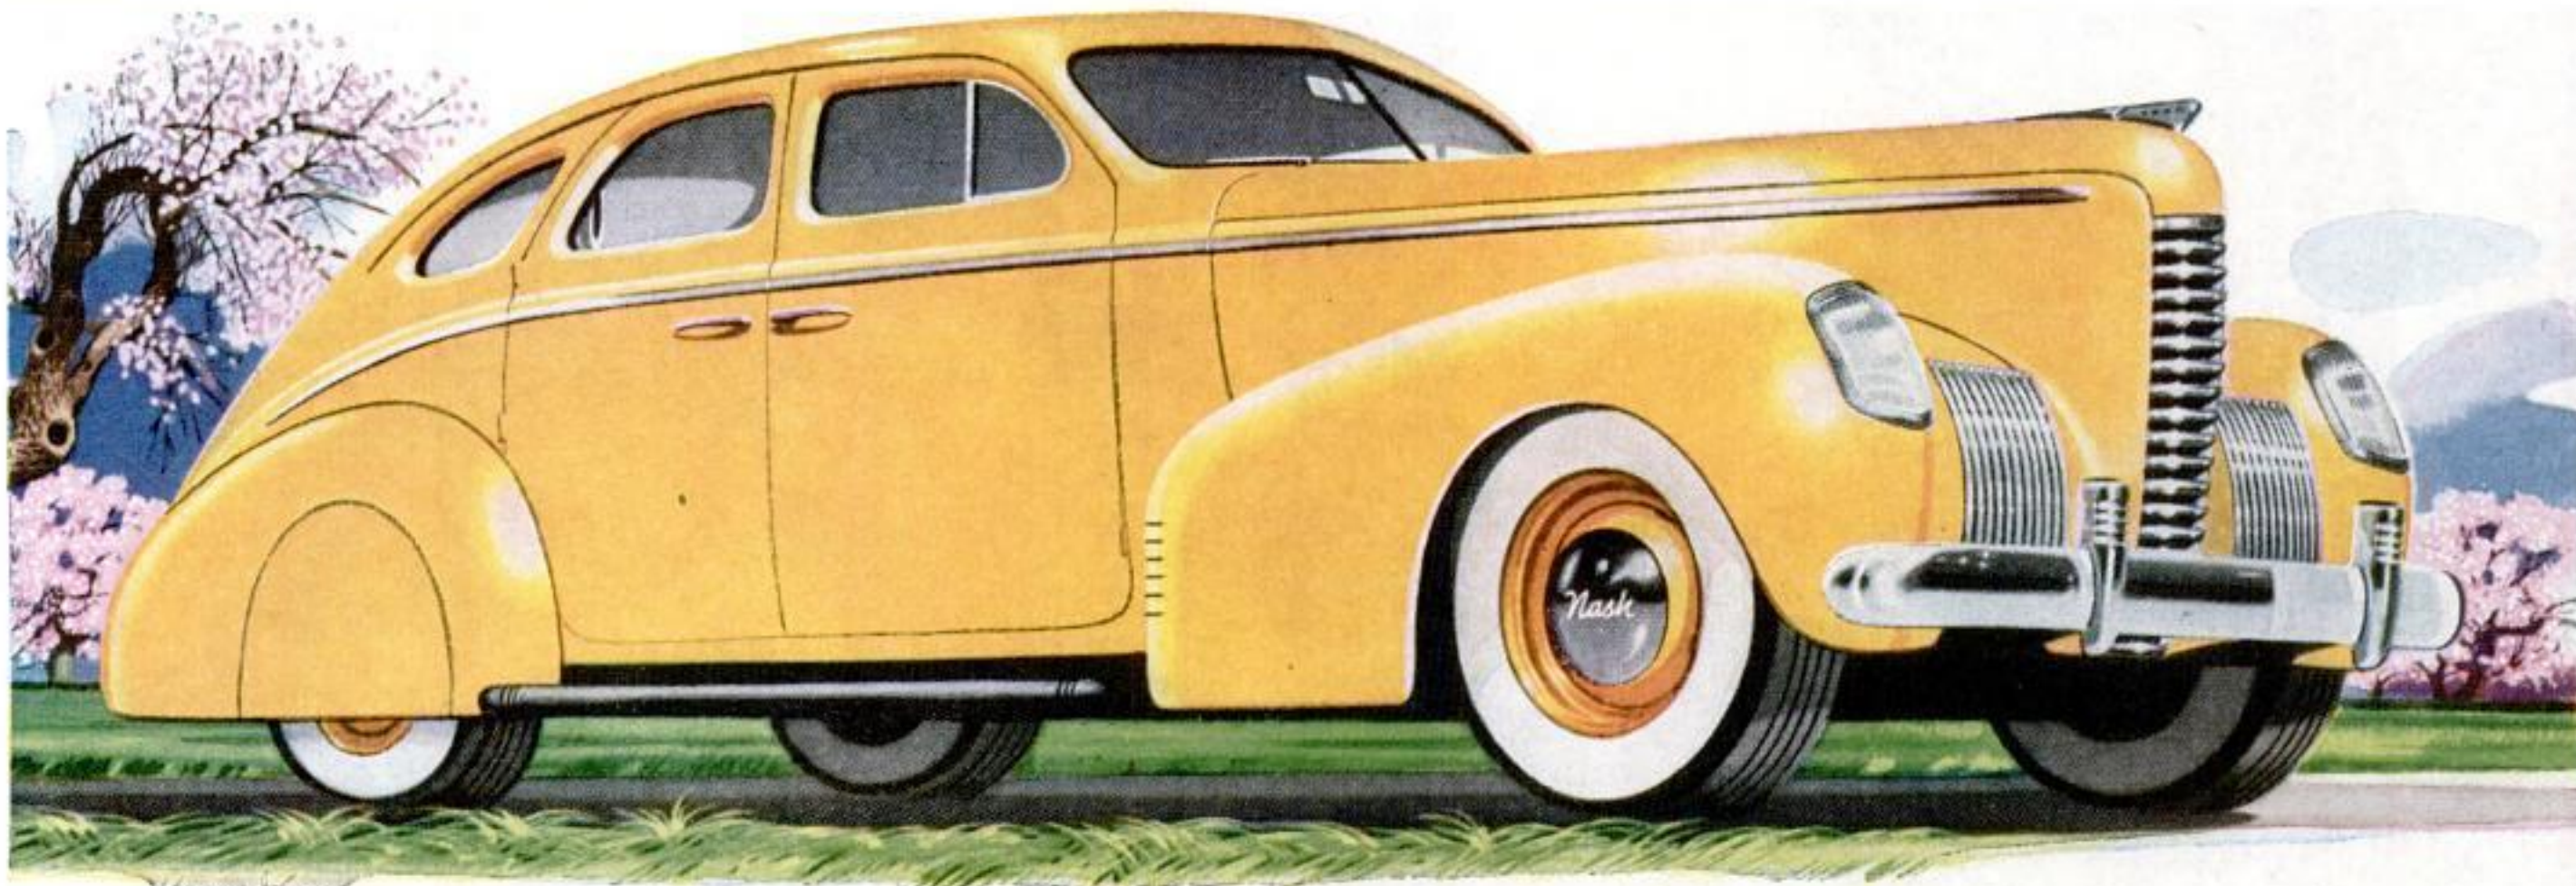

But, that's all right, because—

Ten models are priced right next to the lowest . . . and the facts about Nash value are amazing! Wait 'til you see the X-Ray System at your Nash dealer's.

"EMPEROR OF JAPAN" AND "HIS DAUGHTER-IN-LAW ELECT" SWING "LET THE PUNISHMENT FIT THE CRIME"

Grand finale finds the Negro cast singing a storm of "swingcopated" rhythm as if the 54-year-old music had been originally so written for them. Mostly newcomers to opera, they were coached by Harry Minter, Illinois Federal Theatre director, who conceived this beautifully impudent production that has netted the U.S. a $35,000 profit.

MIKADO IN SWING

A classic gets its pace lifted

To most Gilbert & Sullivan fans, England's D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, now in the U. S., is tops. But a highbrow critic like Otis Ferguson of The New Republic found D'Oyly Carte singing "stylized and cultish." He was willing to bet, sight unseen, that the WPA's Negro version of The Mikado in swing, for five months Chicago's No. 1 hit, was "nearer to Gilbert & Sullivan than anything in our generation."

Critic Ferguson needs no longer judge the "Swing-copated Mikado" sight unseen for it has moved to New York, which is this year enjoying the biggest Gilbert & Sullivan boom in U. S. history. What he will see there is a Mikado laid not in Japan but on a Pacific isle, an emperor in top hat and pheasant feathers, a Lord High Executioner with loincloth and razor and a chorus of jitterbugs. What he will hear is 100 full-throated Negroes, sweeping the cobwebs of tradition off the Sullivan score to lift it into a triumph of rhythm, excitement and vocal joy.

"Funniest jitterbug on two legs" is the title given William Carr of the quintet that swings "The flowers that bloom in the spring." His numbers stop the show for many encores.

"Three little maids from school are we," warble these demure actresses in pseudo-Tahitian garb. They start off quietly enough, but by the time they reach "Three little maids who, all unwary, come from a ladies' seminary," they are swinging it.

"The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la," winds up with a smashing chorus. The tempo is gradually stepped up with tom-tom beats, until jungle youths in loin-cloths and beflowered maids are shagging and trucking with complete abandon.

To the Los Angeles Museum of History, Science and Art on Feb. 10 Dorothy Lamour formally presented (below) the sarong she wore in Her Jungle Love. The Balinese skirt style is shown above, sported by Sir Granville Bantock, musical scholar of London. Properly Sir Granville should have a slendang—or scarf—around his uppers instead of the Manchester cotton undershirt he exhibits here.

For the first time, tires are part and parcel of the car and of you. The way they hold you to the road with sure-footed grip; the way they “bank” curves, without whine or screech; the way they level off rough places and take blows you used to brace yourself for; the smooth, almost effortless action when danger or the law says, “stop”; your confident lack of fear of blowouts... these give you a priceless sense of security that goes far beyond anything you’ve ever experienced from a tire.

Prices are at their lowest levels. Let your General Tire dealer show you how easy it is to change-over your new car—or to put Squeegee-Generals on your present car.

IN HER FIRST FILM ROLE CORINNE LUCHAIRE PLAYS A REFORMATORY GIRL

MOVIE OF THE WEEK:

Prison Without Bars

Life in French girls' reformatory makes a grim film

Public scandal broke in April 1937 over the maltreatment of a 19-year-old youth in a French reformatory. The boy, sentenced for a peccadillo, had been put for five months on a bread-and-water diet in a solitary cell without light, heat, ventilation or bed. He contracted tuberculosis and died.

Frenchmen then awoke to the fact that many of their reformatories for boys and girls alike were schools for crime, where incorrigibles and orphans were indiscriminately mixed, where they were worked in sweatshops, broken under barbarous discipline, starved, bullied and beaten. When they emerged at 21, they were often physically and morally corrupt.

Out of this clamor came, a year later, a French film called Prison Without Bars. Its heroine was the young idealistic superintendent of a girls' reformatory who attempts to break down the brutality with which her wards are treated, to set up instead a system of trust, respect and healthy outdoor work. She succeeds, but only at the cost of losing the reformatory doctor, whom she loves, to her model prisoner. Besides its startling sociological theme, the movie was further notable for a fresh young screen personality named Corinne Luchaire.

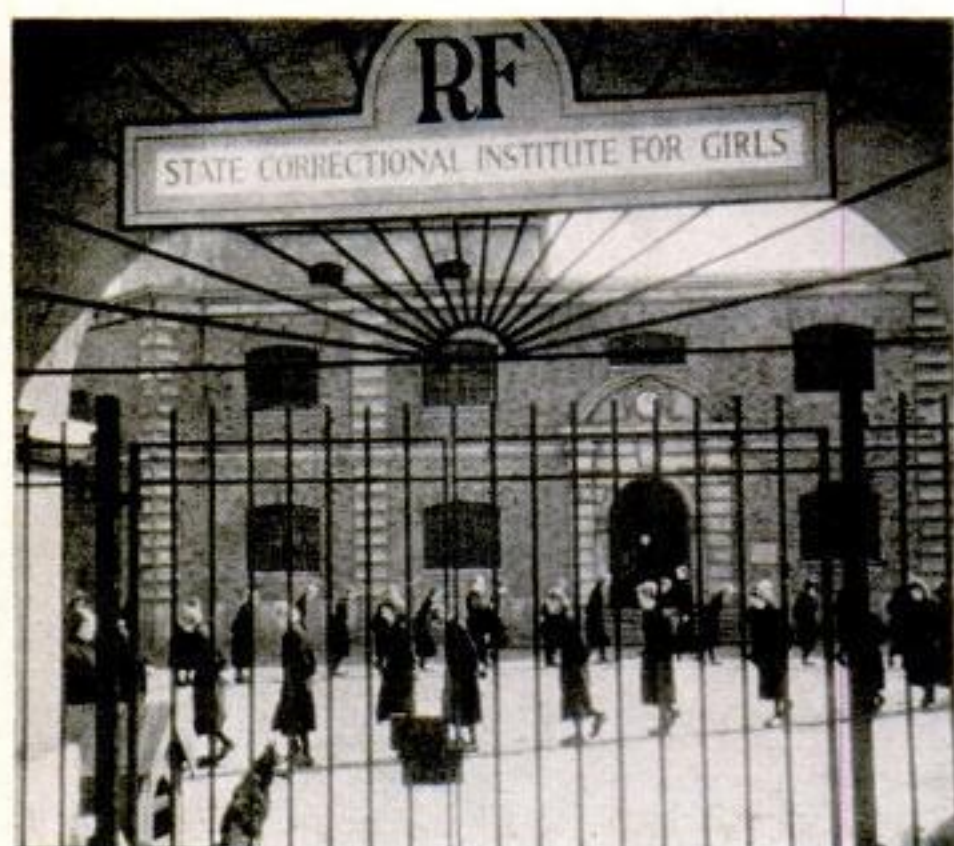

Prison Without Bars has now been remade in London by Alexander Korda and released in the U.S. by United Artists. Though somewhat pruned and purified, it remains in English a grimly authentic study of life in a girls' reformatory, brightened by the same attractive Corinne Luchaire who made it notable in France.

CORINNE LUCHAIRE AT 18 IS A FRENCH AND ENGLISH STAR

The appearance of a new screen personality is generally accompanied by Cinderella yarns for the press. But Corinne Luchaire, who makes her first U.S. film appearance in Prison Without Bars, scorns Cinderella yarns. She looks upon her early success as entirely natural.

Corinne is 18. She traces her ancestry back to 16th Century French Huguenots. Her family are all artists. Her grandfather is a playwright, her mother a painter, her father a Parisian journalist. At 16 she made her theatrical debut in one of her grandfather's plays. At 17 she made her cinema debut in the French version of Prison Without Bars. At 18, Alexander Korda brought her to London to play the same part in English. Having learned English in school, she had, unlike other French stars, no language troubles. Also unlike other French movie stars, she prefers dividing her time between London and Paris, has not yet been induced to try Hollywood.

A new screen personality is this slim, blonde Parisian girl with the childlike manner. She here wades in a stream.

ELLIS ISLAND

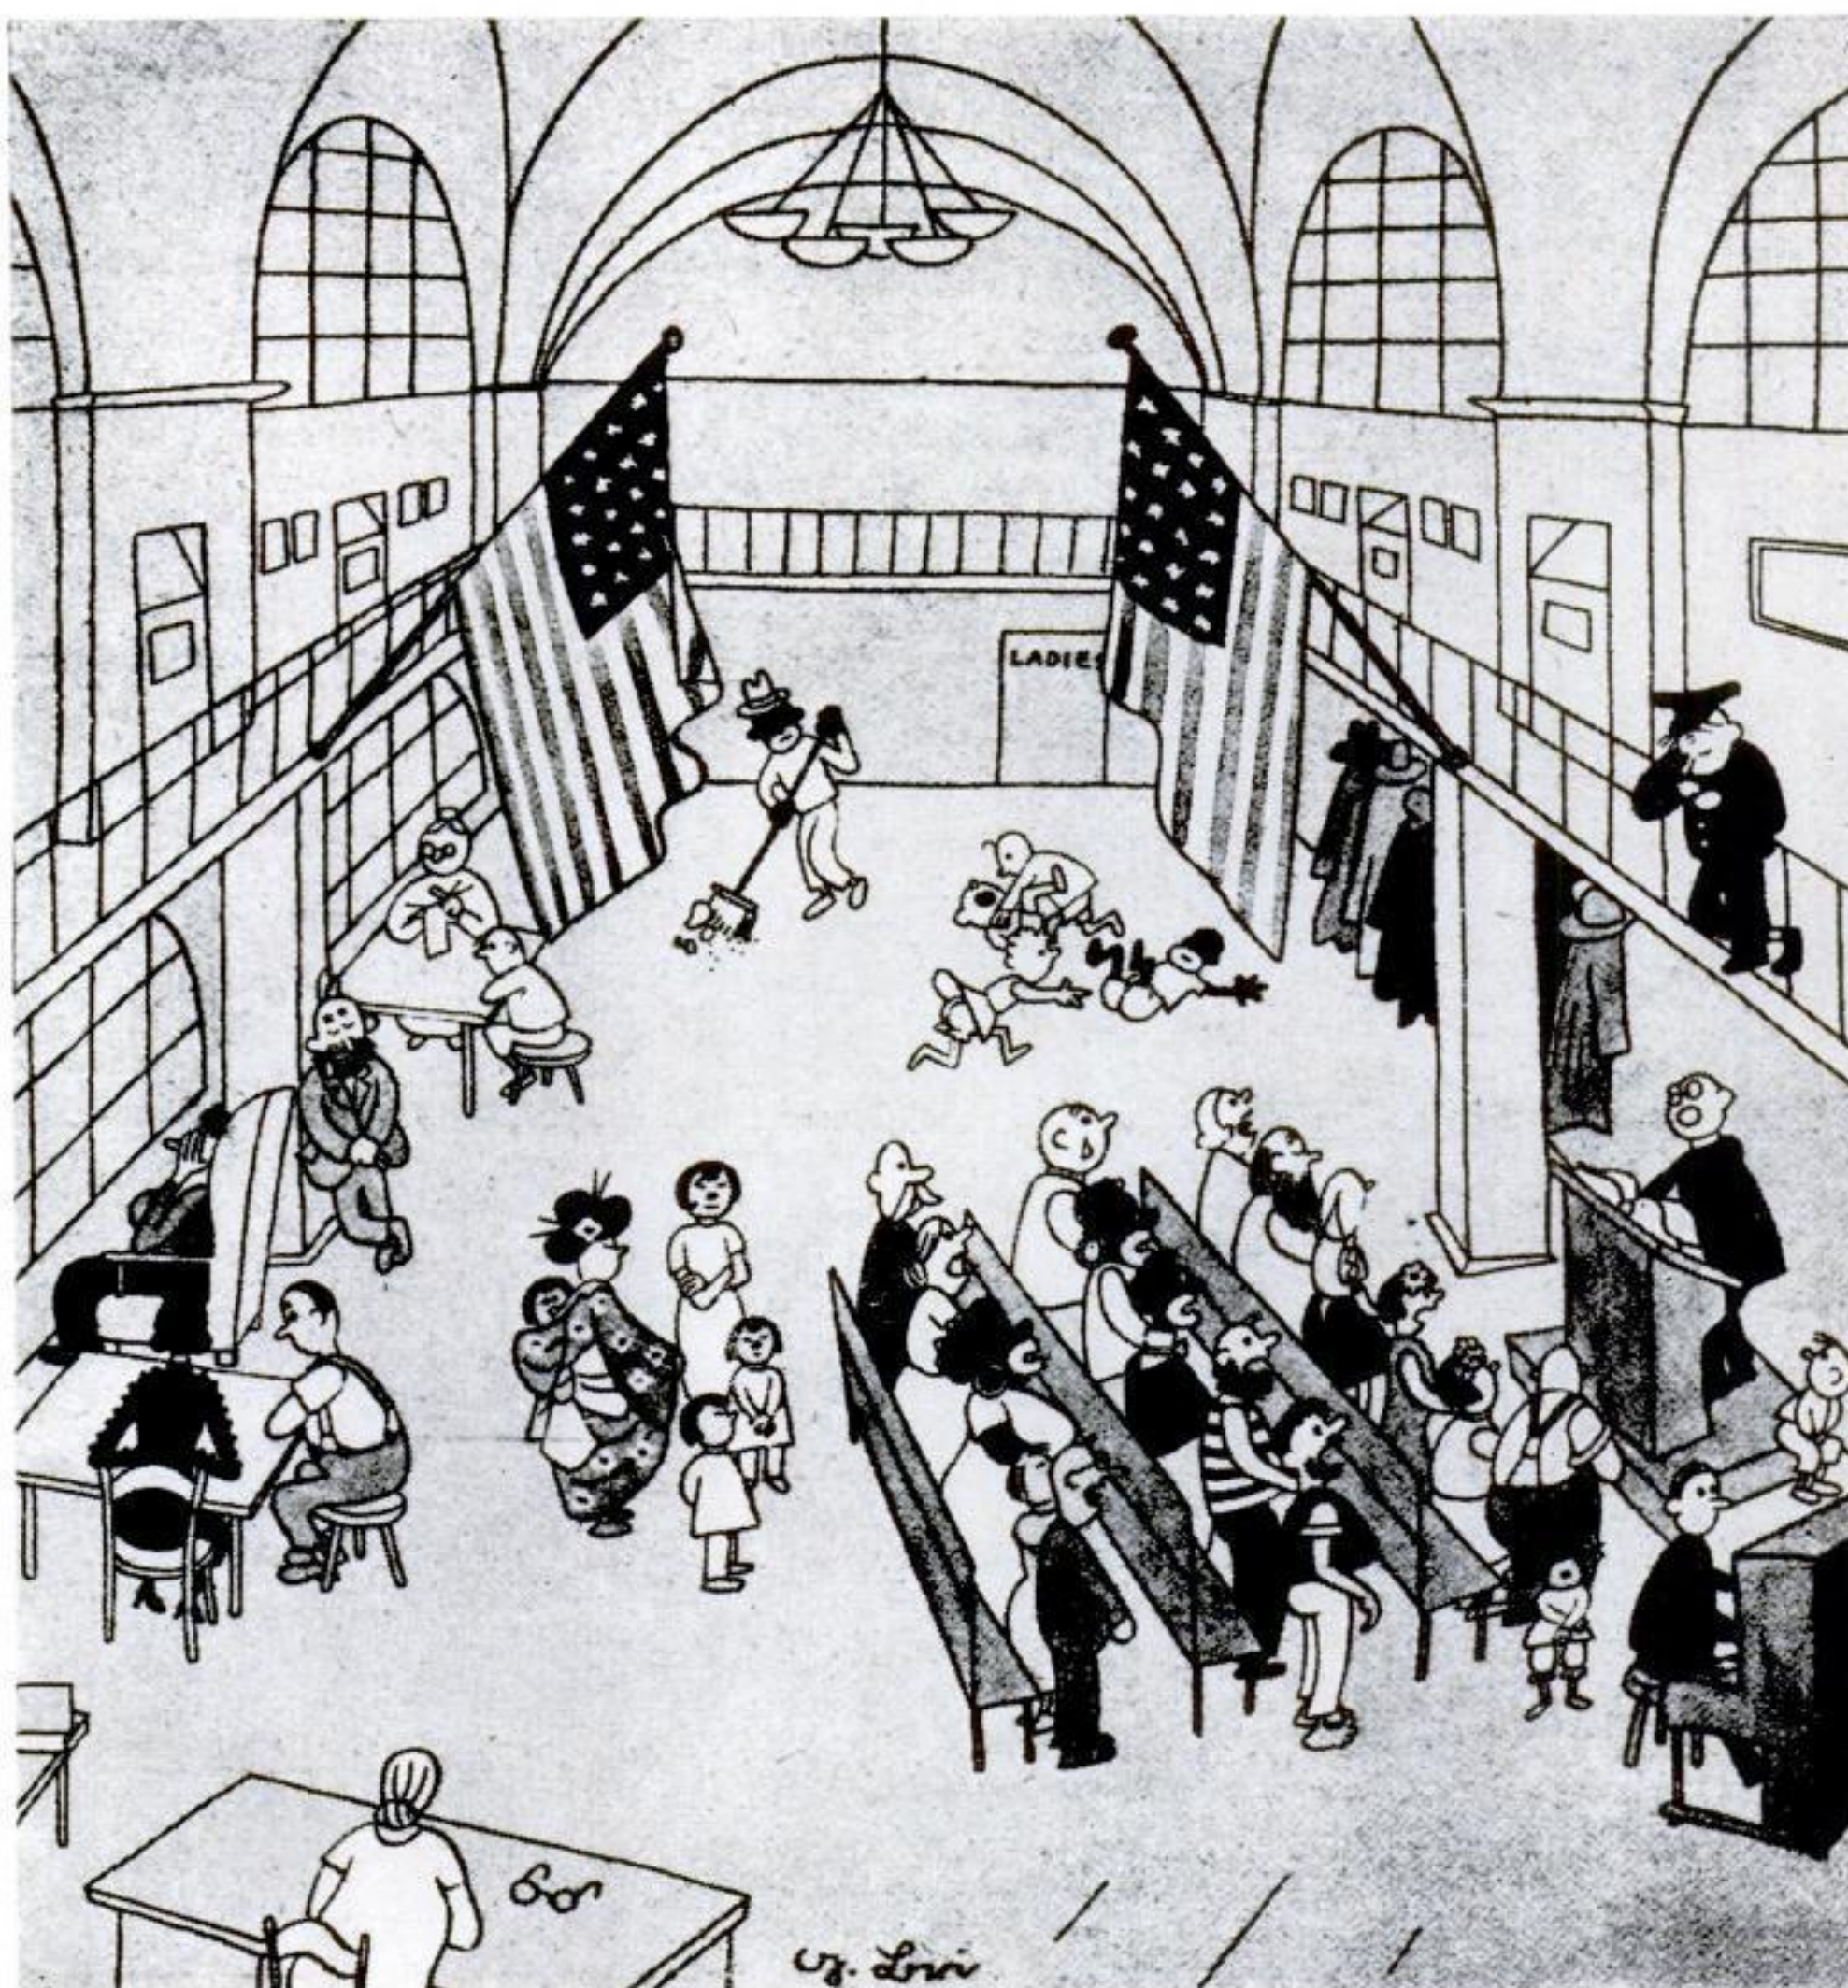

As seen by a German artist

G. BRI

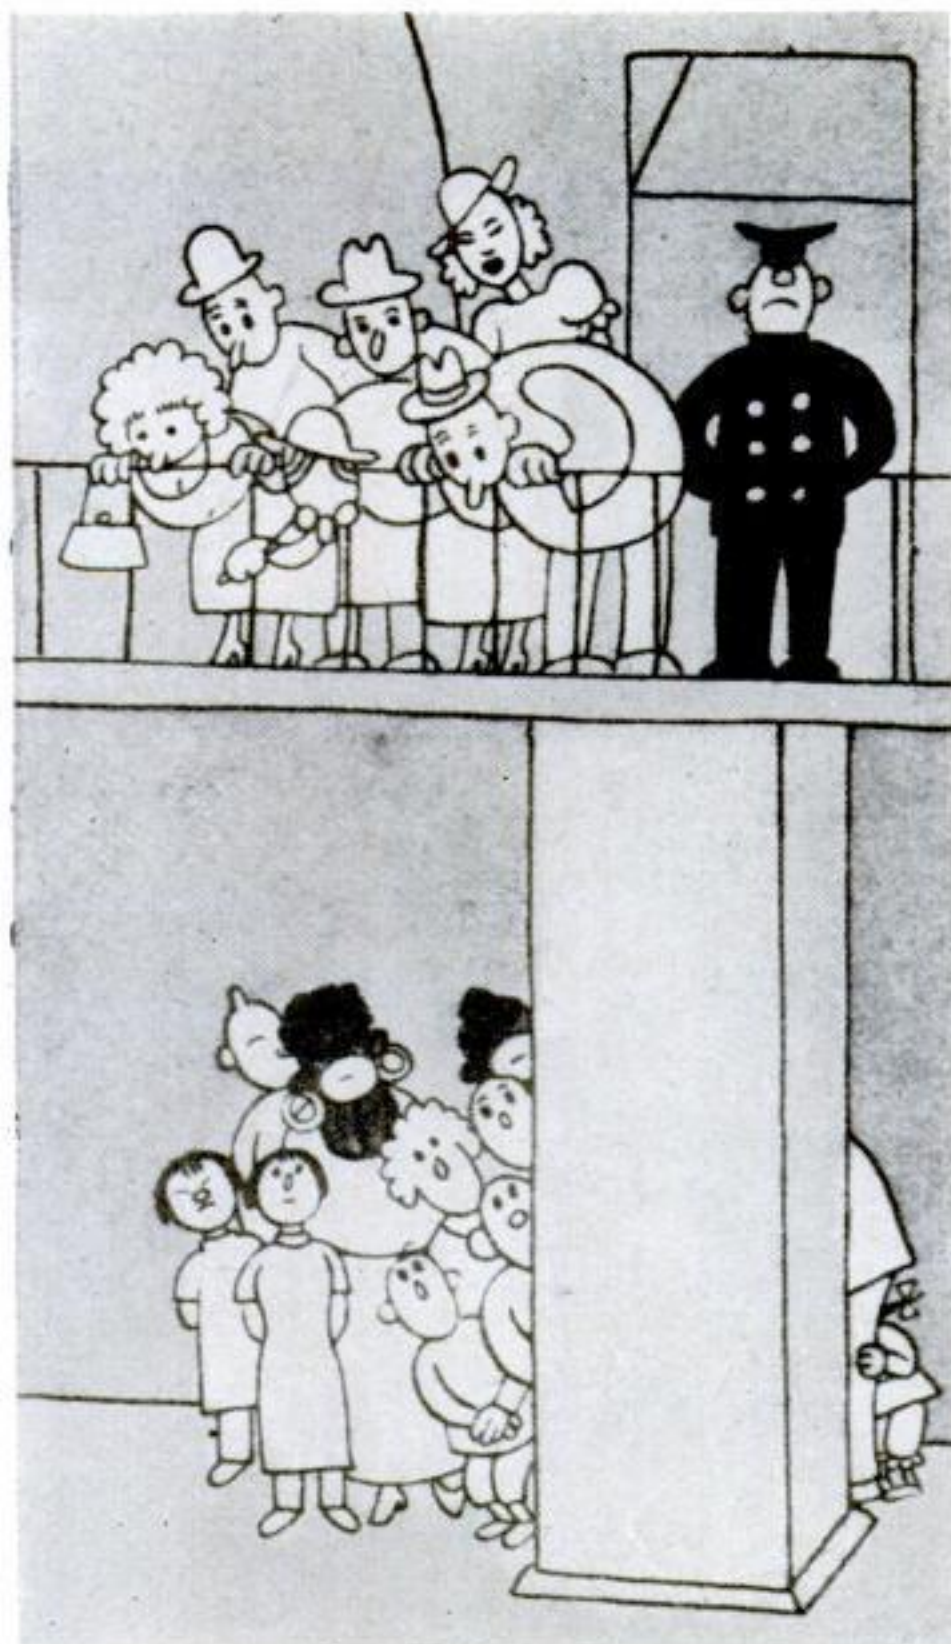

The famous German cartoonist, Gerhard Brinkmann, known as G. Bri, came to the U.S. last year for a little visit. As a nonquota alien entering the U.S. temporarily, he was required by officials to put up a $500 bond to guarantee that he would not become a public charge. But few Germans can get permission from their Government to take $500 in marks out of Germany. Hence, Gerhard Brinkmann had to find an American friend to put up the $500 for him. Something went wrong at the pier, and Brinkmann's friend failed to meet him. Brinkmann was taken to Ellis Island, the immigration station in New York harbor, for three days.

The experience so impressed Gerhard Brinkmann that he drew pictures of Ellis Island, reproduced on these pages with translations of his captions, for his paper, the Cologne Illustrated Weekly. "In Ellis Island," wrote Brinkmann, "we were in the position of having tried to smuggle ourselves into the U.S., even though our passports were in order. Ellis Island is a great waiting room. Here dollars mean freedom."

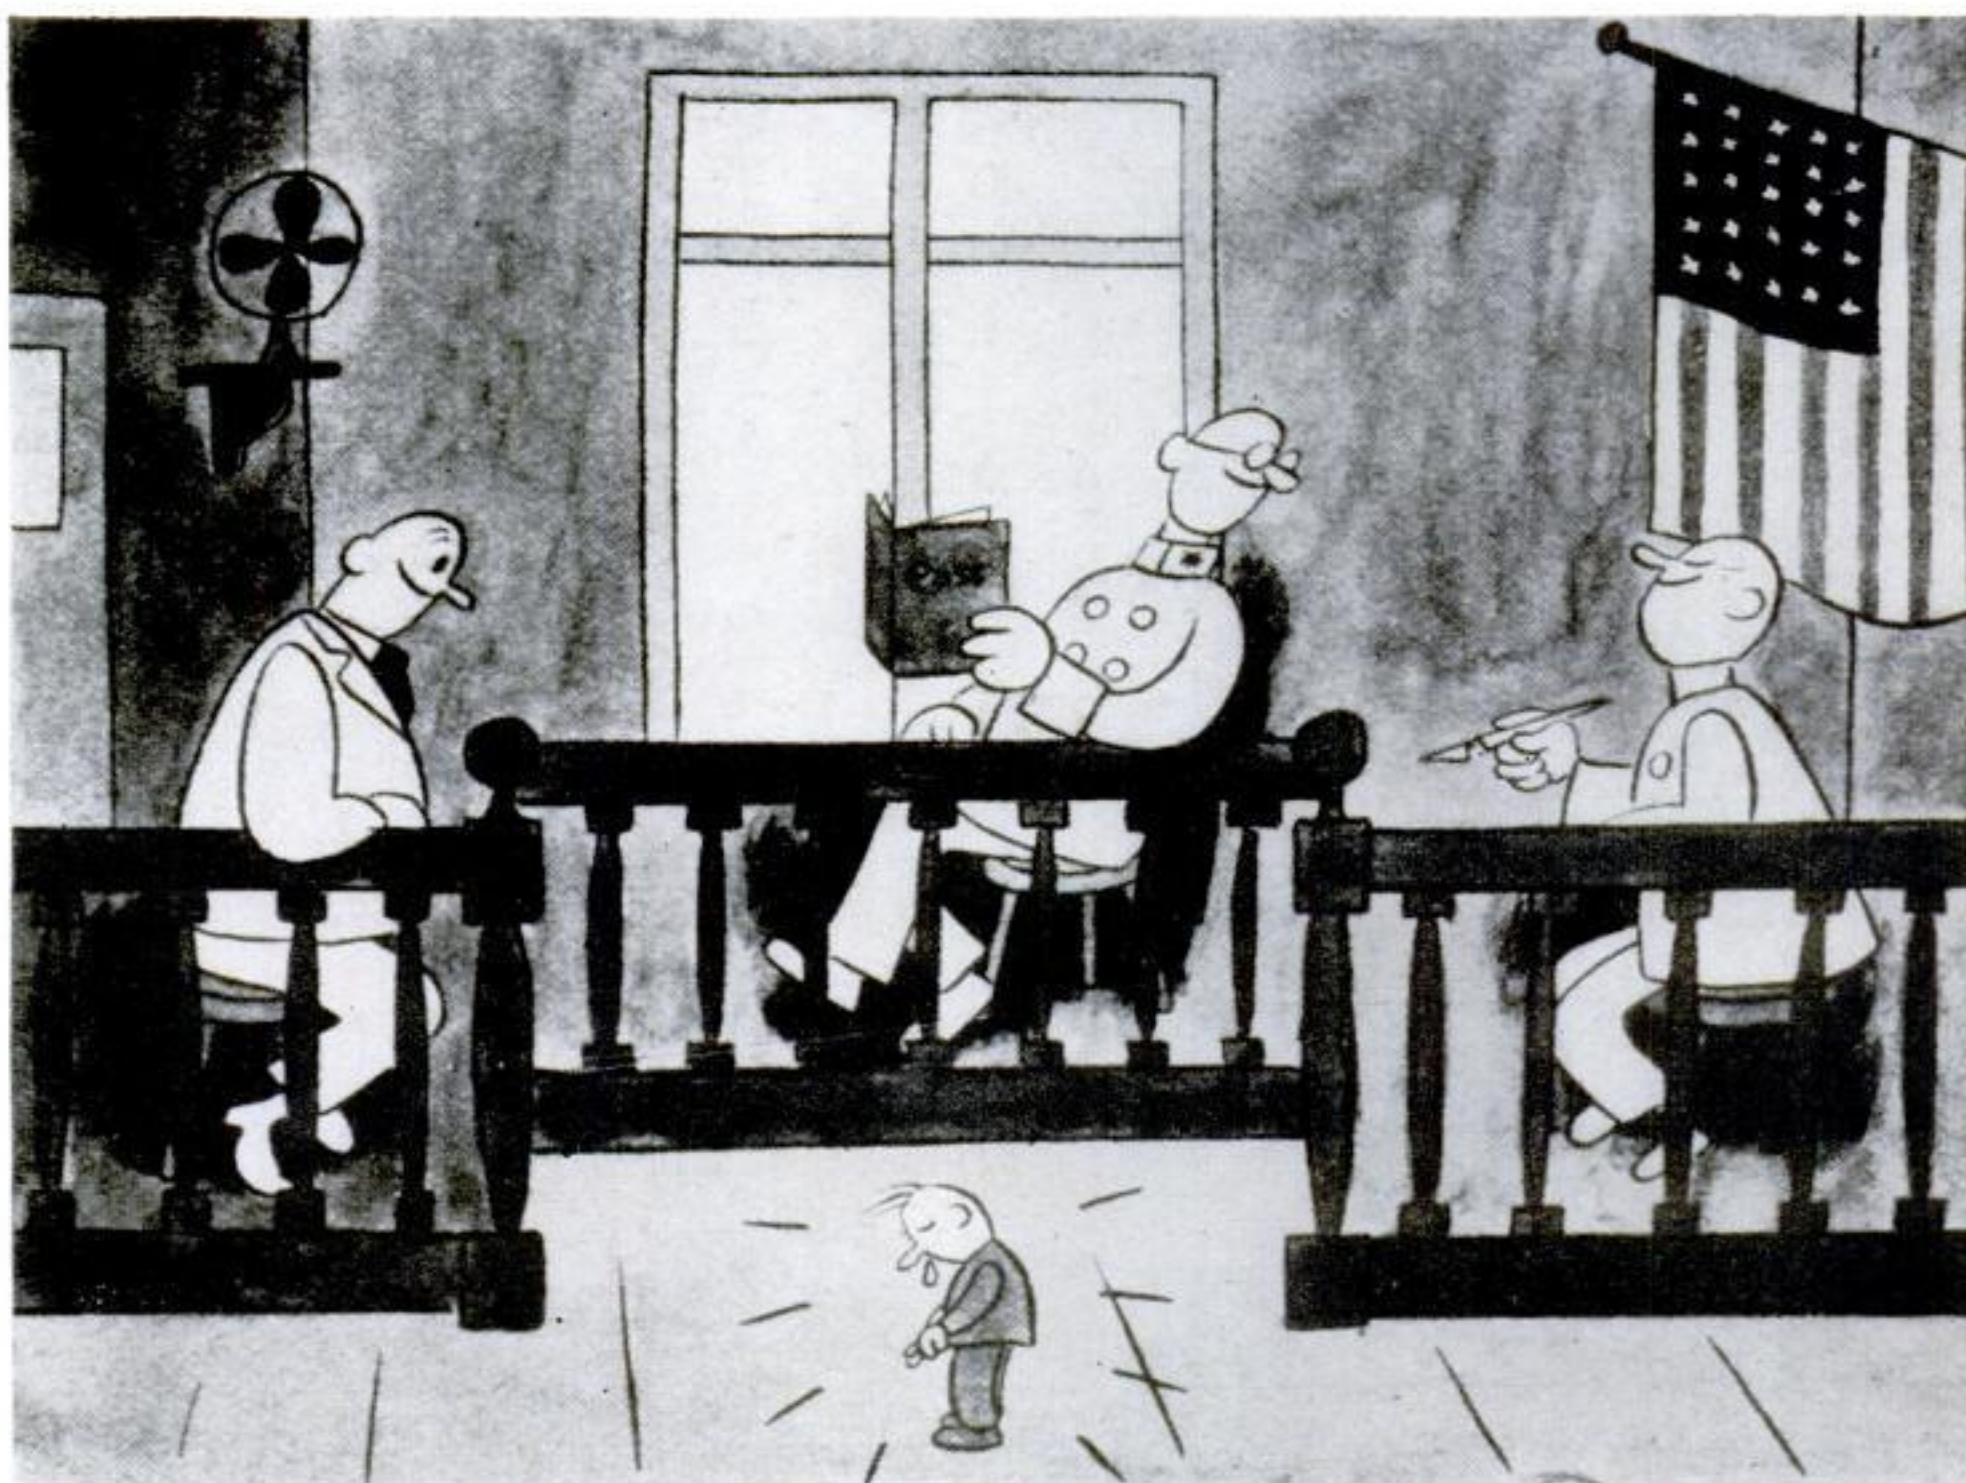

"At church service Sunday morning, Negroes, Chinese and Jews stand and sing in rows, while the children fight (background), and through the windows (left) some had already watched the skyscraper skyline for half a year."

"Free Americans sometimes came to pity us from above or to laugh at us. We immigrants were indifferent to them."

"The hour of judgment. I was examined after three days. 'Caricaturist?' asked the official. 'You will certainly find material on Ellis Island.' I was eventually freed, because my American friend had put up the necessary $500."

"Dinnertime. We entered the long entrance to the dining room in single file. At the left stood a guard who counted us; at right another who pushed an orange on each of us."

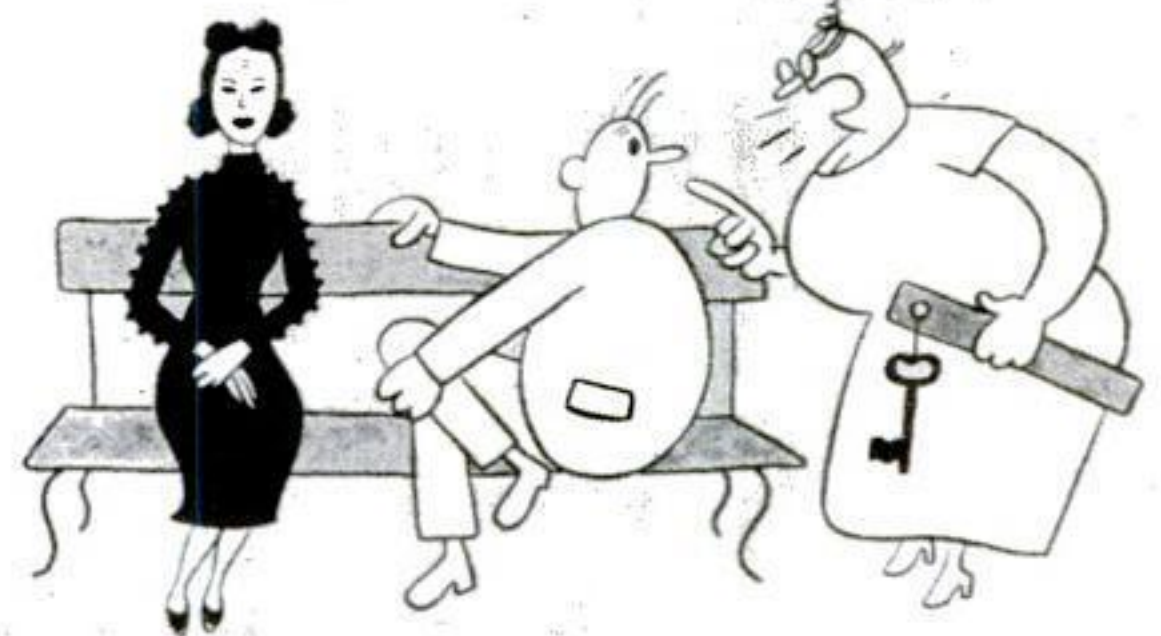

"Two dark-skinned runaways were caught at the very foot of the Statue of Liberty, chained together and brought back to Ellis Island. 'It's a long way to the U.S.A.,' they laughed."

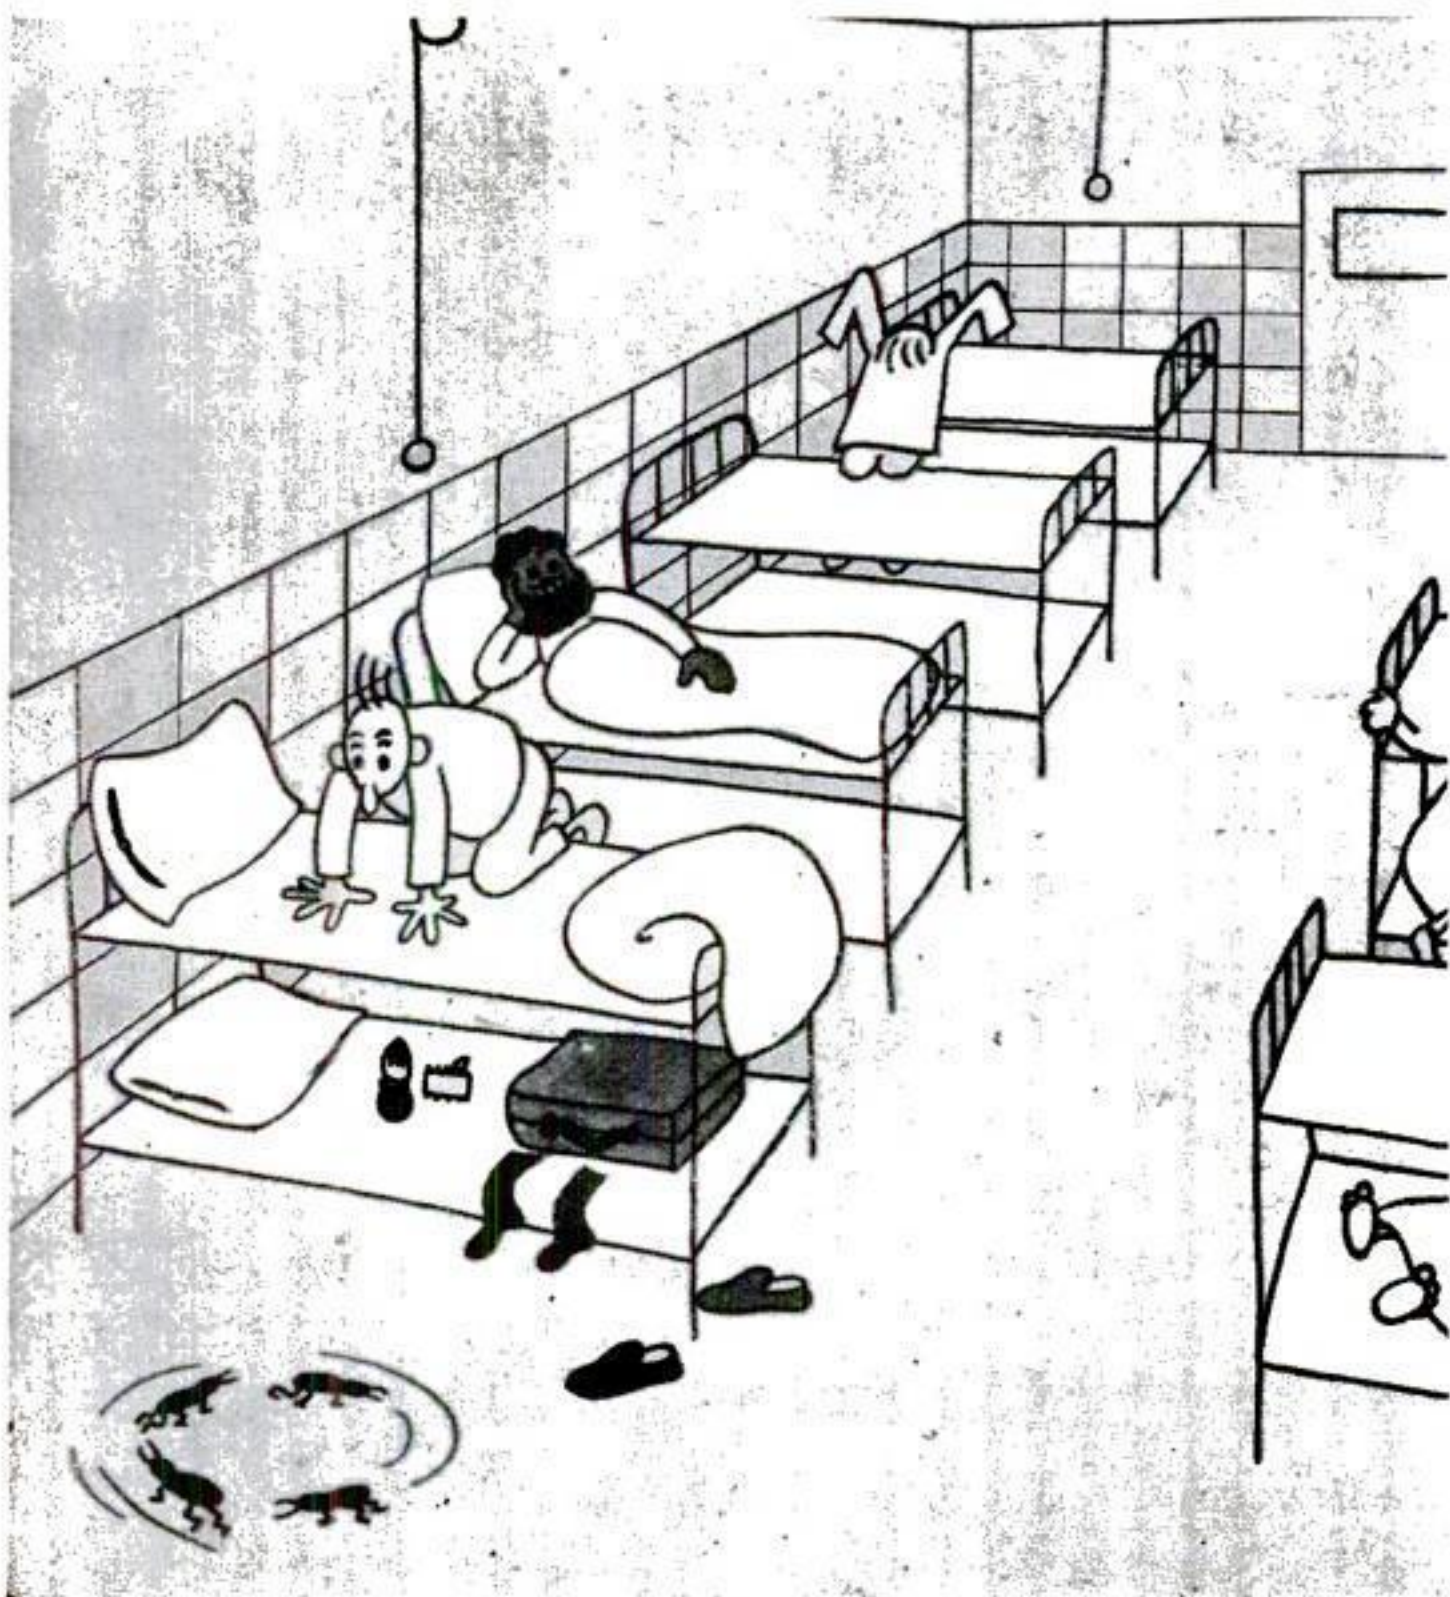

"At 6 a.m. a guard waked each one of us personally by shrieking in our ears and pinching our arms. We had to wash, shave and dress in less than ten minutes. That was the law of the man with the key."

"Mixed conversation was considered a danger to morals. The woman guard warned me that if I did it again, I would get solitary confinement."

"Bedtime at 7:30 p.m., about one hundred to a bedroom. At 10 the guard put out the lights and then we were visited by our little fellow-residents (lower left) who like the dark."

"'Auf nimmerwiedersehn' (Let us never meet again), I say heartily to those unlucky ones who must stay behind, and then the ferryboat carries me across to Manhattan Island."

MODERN LIVING

BONNETS AND SAILORS LEAD PARADE OF SANER SPRING HATS

1939 CASTS ITS SHADOW

If the north winds blow, if sleet or snow whirls over the city streets of the U. S. on the morning of March 13, there will be moaning and groaning among the multitudes who are involved in the big business of making and selling women's hats. On that day the industry launches its National Spring Millinery Week. On that day store windows across the land will be filled with pretty new hats. Every device known to salesmanship in the hat business will be used to urge women to buy a new spring bonnet. If Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday arrive with a breath of spring, the millinery industry anticipates one of the most successful promotions in its history. But if the weather is bad, the spring-hat business will lose a fine send-off.

Greatest reason for the industry's optimistic outlook is the fact that millinery reached the peak of the silly period last summer with the doll hats and pee-wees. The reaction has now begun. Even Lilly Daché, New York milliner famed for her bizarre creations, announced fortnight ago on her return from Paris that the new hats are sane and normal.

On these pages are basic silhouettes for the new 1939 hats. Bonnets, like the hand-woven straw on the opposite page, usually worn far back on the head, and sailors with brims of varying sizes lead the spring hat parade. Crowns, however, tell the real spring-hat story. Practically all look like inverted flowerpots. Sketches at right are from hat advertisements in New York newspapers.

PUBLIC OPINION

POLLS POINT TO THE 1940 CHOICES OF REPUBLICANS

DEWEY OF NEW YORK

VANDENBERG OF MICHIGAN

TAFT OF OHIO

LANDON OF KANSAS

BORAH OF IDAHO

HOOVER OF CALIFORNIA

LAGUARDIA OF NEW YORK

As of March 1939, the No. 1 political fact in America is that the Republican Party appears to have a good chance of electing a United States President in November 1940. As a forecast of the future of the nation after 1940, that fact is of major importance.

Republican chances look good because of two current, related facts: 1) the split between pro-New Deal and anti-New Deal Democrats; 2) a nationwide swing toward conservatism. Their existence makes the identity of the Republican nominee an exciting and significant subject.

Not for more than a year will the major Parties convene to nominate their Presidential candidates. To talk this far in advance about their probable choices would have been, in the past, mere speculation. This has been changed by the major political invention of the 20th Century—the scientific poll of public opinion. Scientific sampling of opinion has proven itself not only by its accuracy in forecasting elections but also by the similarity of results obtained by the two major, completely independent polling services: the FORTUNE Survey and the American Institute of Public Opinion (Gallup Poll). No mere tipster services, these polls—because they furnish an index to each candidate's vote-getting strength—will undoubtedly have a profound influence in determining who the nominees will be.

Latest FORTUNE and Gallup Polls both show that, despite his defeat for the New York governorship last autumn, his strong race and his status as a national hero have put New York's dynamic young District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey out in front for the Republican nomination. His brilliant victory Feb. 25 in convicting Tammanyman Jimmy Hines (see p. 24) will presumably boost his lead in future polls. The next most striking fact revealed by the polls is the emergence of Ohio's new Senator Robert A. Taft, son of the 27th President, as a leading contender.

The pictures at left are arranged from top to bottom in the order in which the contenders finished in the latest Gallup Poll of Republican voters on their 1940 Presidential preferences. Senator Taft, with 16% of the vote, trailed only Dewey with 27% and Michigan's Senator Vandenberg with 21%. Alf M. Landon was fourth with 7%. In a triple tie for fifth place with 4% each were Senator Borah, ex-President Hoover and New York's Mayor LaGuardia. When FORTUNE presented a selected list of Republicans (omitting newcomers like Taft) to voters of all parties, the results showed: Dewey, 12.2%, Vandenberg and LaGuardia tied with 11.5% each (indicating LaGuardia's strength with Democrats and independents), Landon 8.2%, Hoover 5.1%, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts 4.6%, Senator Nye of North Dakota 4.1%, Representative Bruce Barton of New York 2.8%.

POLLS POINT TO THE 1940 CHOICES OF DEMOCRATS

As of March 1939, public opinion as revealed by scientific polls gives President Roosevelt a very slim chance of being re-elected to a third term, gives a New Deal successor named by him no chance at all.

The latest FORTUNE Survey, appearing in the current issue, confirms the results of its famous poll of last summer and shows that, while President Roosevelt is still enormously popular, his New Deal and his New Dealers are not. Even among those who still approve of the President, only 58% (36.9% of the whole population) would vote to give him a third term, while 21% would not and 21% are undecided. To win a bare victory, Mr. Roosevelt would have to get the votes of all of his admirers who are now uncertain about giving him a third term.

As for a candidate approved by President Roosevelt as a New Dealer, he would get the votes of only 13.4% of the President's current devotees, only 3.5% of those who are now against Roosevelt or would not vote for him in 1940.

Questioning the latter group, FORTUNE found the following types of Presidential candidates preferred by the accompanying percentages of the entire population: 1) some young and progressive Republican, 17.8%; 2) a Republican who would return to the conservative road followed by Presidents like Coolidge, 17.1%; 3) a middle-of-the-road Democrat, 6.7%.

The latest Gallup Poll of Democratic voters on their 1940 Presidential preferences showed the leading contenders to be running as they are ranked, from top to bottom, on this page. Only the last man, Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley, is rated a loyal New Dealer. Though Secretary Hull has expressed no opinion about the New Deal outside his own department, he is rated on his past record a conservative. All the rest are indubitable members of the Democratic Party's conservative faction.

When FORTUNE asked voters of all parties to name a Presidential choice off-hand, Vice President Garner came out on top with the votes of 4.9% of the nation, followed by District Attorney Dewey with 4.2%. When Gallup asked the voters to choose between Dewey and Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins, who is believed to be President Roosevelt's first choice as a successor, it found 22% who could not make up their minds. The rest divided thus: Dewey 61%, Hopkins 38%.

At present, then, it appears that the only possibility of a continuation of the New Deal beyond 1940 — and that a bare one — is for President Roosevelt himself to run. The chances of any other Democrat winning would now seem to depend on: 1) the ability of President Roosevelt and conservative Democrats to patch up their present differences and to compromise on a 1940 candidate; 2) the success of the New Deal's Recovery drive. Failing either of these, a nation tired of reform and depression seems more than likely to elect a Republican.

The man who has lost the spirit of youth is too busy with gloomy forecasts to gather bait, much less go fishing.

Men with the spirit of youth pioneered our America...men with vision and sturdy confidence. They found contentment in the thrill of action, knowing that success was never final and failure never fatal. It was courage that counted. Isn't opportunity in America today greater than it was in the days of our grateful forefathers?

Tony's boxing form, against Abe Feldman Feb. 23 in Miami, was as bad as ever. Above, Tony has swung a left, leaves his stomach completely unprotected. Below, he swings an awkward right. Feldman was even worse, got knocked out in the third.

FAT TONY GALENTO GETS A SHOT AT LOUIS' HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

March 1, in Miami Beach, was a big day for Tony Galento, the fat, beery Falstaff of boxing. Wearing an ocean-blue bathing shirt and gray flannel trunks, he sat in front of Mike Jacobs' swank beach cabaña near the Roney Plaza Hotel, solemnly signed papers to fight Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis. To reporters he promised he would drink no more beer, smoke no more cigars until he had "moldered dat bum Louis." Then he went for a swim.

The fight will be held in June, probably in New York's Yankee Stadium, and 70,000 fans may contribute as much as $1,000,000 to Mike Jacobs' box office. The fans will probably come to see not a boxing match but an execution. It may go something like this: From one corner of the ring shuffles dead-pan Joe Louis, dark and menacing, muscles rippling over a handsome body. From the other trudges Tony, fat and comic, the sweat pouring over his protruding stomach. Louis is deadly cool, waiting for Tony to wind up his long left. Then suddenly, Louis flashes a punch under Tony's feeble guard. The blows, hard lefts and rights, land with lightning speed. A minute later, Tony is on the floor, his face a bleeding mop. Gurgling and grunting, he is carried from the ring.

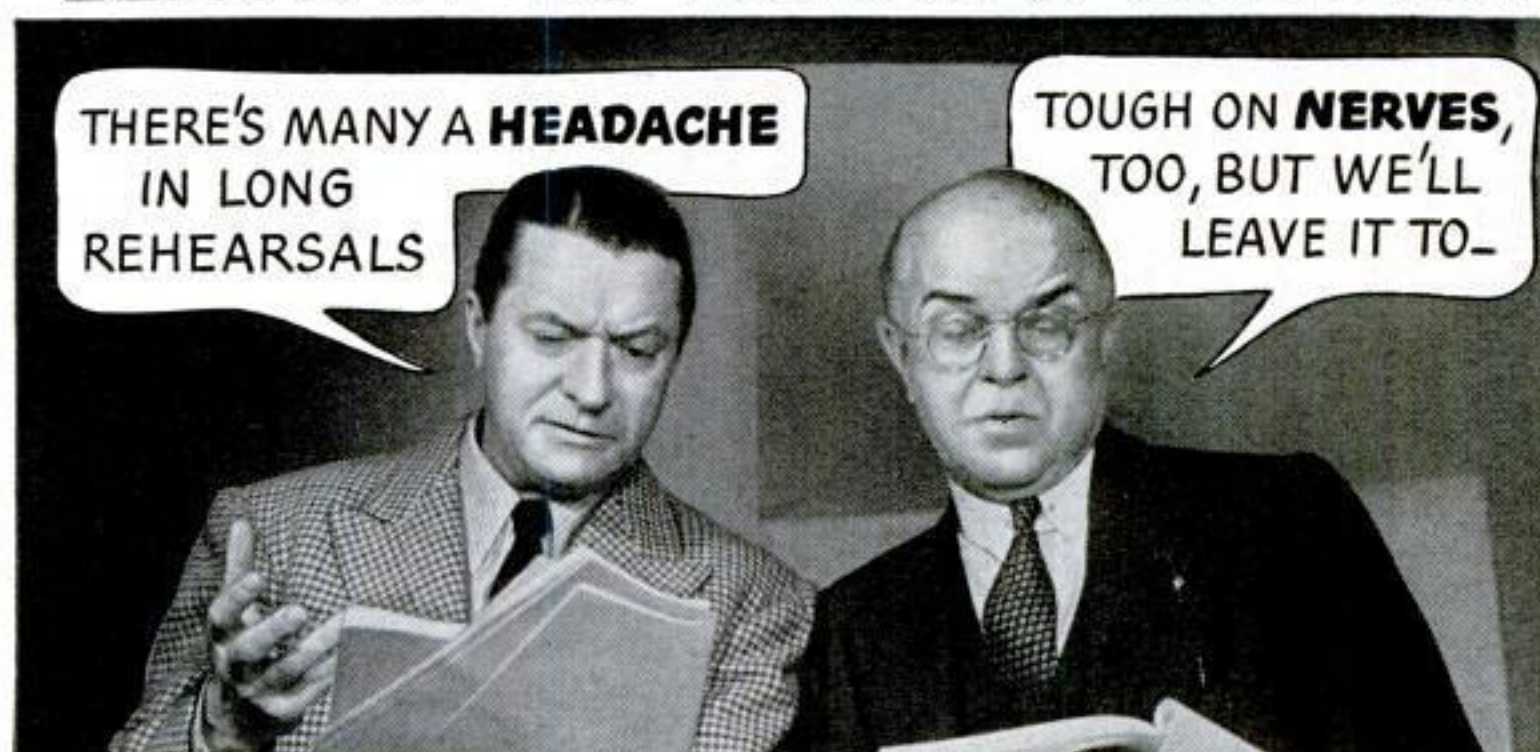

Galento has been fighting since 1929. He has always been a poolroom toughie, whose best tactics are a hard left punch and a rough-and-ready style that subscribes to no rules. Because he has no defense, no footwork, no deception, he terrifies his opponents with loud bellows, butting with his head and waving his arms like a windmill. Until 1935, few people outside of New Jersey had ever heard of Tony. In that year he came under the control of Manager Joe Jacobs, who has since built up the loud-talking boxer into a national figure, not unlike the comic strip's Joe Palooka. In three years Tony is supposed to have knocked out 17 opponents, lost to four. But the boxing world is still unconvinced, knows that most of his victims have been pushovers and stumble bums. Against Louis, Tony will have to stand up and fight. If he lives through the evening, he should make $100,000, and be able to retire for life to his Orange, N. J., saloon.

Screwing up his flat, thick lips, "Two-Ton" Tony lets a roundhouse left fly at Negro sparring partner. His whole right side, from his belt to headgear, is left exposed.

William Gaxton and Victor Moore in "LEAVE IT TO BROMO-SELTZER"

THERE'S MANY A HEADACHE
IN LONG
REHEARSALS

TOUGH ON NERVES,
TOO, BUT WE'LL LEAVE IT TO—

Co-starring for the fourth time, William Gaxton and Victor Moore, snapped as they started rehearsals for the current smash-hit musical, "LEAVE IT TO ME!" Endless weeks of rehearsing—changes—molding a play into shape are an ordeal.

BROMO-SELTZER!
IT RELIEVES
HEADACHE

AND STEADIES
OUR NERVES.
NO WONDER—

Homesick ambassador (Moore) meets foreign correspondent (Gaxton). "With every performance timed to the minute, we can't let headaches, tense nerves interfere," says Victor Moore, "so we take Bromo-Seltzer."

IT MAKES A HIT WITH US AND—

WITH MILLIONS OF
OTHERS ALL OVER THE WORLD!

Finale!

Gaxton adds, "That's why I've been a Bromo-Seltzer user for many years." (Above) Both stars in the climax of the play.

HEADACHE strains your NERVES

With a headache, your nervous system is disturbed. That's why headache is best treated with a remedy made to do at least 2 things... relieve pain fast—steady your nerves. Bromo-Seltzer does both. Tests by a group of doctors have proved this.

Take Bromo-Seltzer.* Quickly it eases the pain and leaves you steadier, less tired and nervous.

*For frequently recurring or persistent headache, see your doctor. For ordinary headaches, always keep Bromo-Seltzer at home. Get it at drugstores—soda fountains.

"Can I expect more from Extra Vitamins in FRESH YEAST than from vitamins alone?"

Read why the
New High-Vitamin Yeast is such an EFFECTIVE WAY to get extra vitamins
...why it offers
more complete results

When you eat extra vitamins in Fleischmann's new High-Vitamin Yeast, you get more than just vitamins alone. This fresh tonic food offers benefits two ways.

SPLENDID AMOUNTS OF 4 VITAMINS

The new, improved High-Vitamin Yeast now gives a richer combination than ever of 4 important vitamins—A, B, D and G—needed regularly to help you build up good resistance to colds, for steady nerves and healthy digestion, strong bones and teeth, and to help you feel energetic, buoyantly well.

Studies indicate many people's regular meals do not supply them with vitamins in the good amounts they need to help keep them up to par. That is why it is safest to get extra amounts of all these vitamins every day.

REMARKABLE "BOOSTER" ACTION OF FRESH YEAST

Eating these extra vitamins this way in fresh yeast gives a second help many people need. Slow digestion may have been keeping you—like so many others—from properly assimilating the vitamins you eat. This fresh yeast helps to stimulate slow digestion. And this better digestion helps you make fuller use of the vitamins eaten. It "boosts" their assimilation.

Be sure you get enough vitamins. Also be sure you make full use of the vitamins you eat. Start now to get extra vitamins this effective way—in Fleischmann's High-Vitamin Yeast.

Eat two cakes daily for . . .

VITAMIN A—6200 UNITS (Int.)
VITAMIN B₁—300 UNITS (Int.)
VITAMIN D—800 UNITS (Int.)
VITAMIN G—100-120 UNITS (Sh. Bour.)

All the average person needs (in addition to meals) of A, B and D—and a rich supply of the Vitality Vitamin G. Eat one cake ½ hour before breakfast or lunch, one cake ½ hour before supper—plain or in water. Start now.

Yelling like Tarzan, Tony poses in front of a full-length mirror at Joe-the-Grouch's poolroom in Newark. Galento has trained in a back room there for six years.

Between rounds, Joe Jacobs whispers advice. Jacobs is disliked by the New York Boxing Commission, which may try to keep the Louis-Galento bout out of the city.

At his Orange saloon, Tony strengthens his muscles by bringing beer barrels from the cellar. Pictures like this have sold Galento as a comedian to the U. S. public.

At his Orange home, "Two-Ton" Tony Galento guzzles beer, while "One-Ton" Tony gurgles happily at his dad. "One-Ton" weighs over 24 lb. at the age of ten months.

Is it true what they say about COFFEE?

If all the conflicting stories you hear about coffee were true, this most popular of beverages would be both Dr. Jekyll and a Mr. Hyde—a friend and a foe of mankind. But which is it? Here's a chance to test your knowledge of the subject. Just put a check mark in the "true" or "false" squares below—then compare your answers with the facts as given at the end of each statement.

TO DOCTORS AND SCIENTISTS: We will furnish on request references to the authorities on which all statements made here are based.

COFFEE AT DINNER PUTS YOU TO SLEEP.*

True? ☐ False? ☐

Coffee at dinner picks you up. Coffee helps to relieve fatigue, quickens the mind. Conversation not only seems brighter over a cup of coffee—it is brighter. But in 97 out of 100 cases, this pick-up lasts only two hours. So if you dine two hours before bedtime, you can enjoy that delicious cup of coffee at dinnertime and still be ready to sleep the instant your head hits the pillow.

Statement in the headline above* is False.

COFFEE AIDS STENOGRAPHERS IN HOLDING JOBS.*

True? ☐ False? ☐

Office workers, as a class, are great lovers of coffee, and their efficiency is improved by the drinking of it, according to a test made at Columbia University. One group of stenographers, who were given coffee, wrote more words per minute and made fewer mistakes than the members of another group who were denied the mild and helpful stimulation that coffee invariably gives.

Statement in the headline above* is True.

NATIONAL MORALE, IN PEACE OR WAR, DEPENDS ON COFFEE.*

True? ☐ False? ☐

"I venture to predict that nothing could so break down public morale, and either drive us to war or the conclusion of an unsatisfactory peace, as the stoppage of the public's morning cup of coffee." These words were uttered by a high-ranking naval official, testifying before the Senate Naval Affairs Committee (HR 9218) in defending the listing of coffee as one of the imported products indispensable to national security and defense.

Statement in the headline above* is True.

COFFEE HELPS YOU LOSE WEIGHT.*

True? ☐ False? ☐

Coffee without milk or cream adds practically no calories to the diet. In addition it mildly assists metabolism. Therefore, if you are trying to cut down on the amount of food you eat and yet want to be sure that what you eat is consumed in the body, coffee is a definite help. Statement in the headline above* is True.

Life goes to Carnaval at Rio

Top party of the year in South America

All Latin countries prepare for the sobrieties of Lent, which begins on Ash Wednesday, with last-minute festivals on Mardi Gras (Fat Tuesday). Ways of celebrating Mardi Gras, like ways of celebrating other folk holidays, differ the world over. Nowhere is Mardi Gras celebrated more joyously and more strangely than in South America. Mardi Gras at Rio de Janeiro, in the heart of the hot Brazilian summer, is not only the biggest and gayest Mardi Gras in South America but Brazil's greatest national holiday.

Unlike New Orleans' famed Mardi Gras, Rio's carnaval is not featured by elaborate and aristocratic balls. In size, duration and uproar it makes New Orleans' look picayune. It lasts four days during which the whole city ignores not only work but all its normal habits, eats at odd hours, sleeps mostly by day. Brazilians, a sober home-loving people, forget their repressions during Carnaval but though much drinking and loving is done, the Carnaval is essentially neither licentious nor gluttonous. Its mood is somewhat like that of Halloween. Queer costumes are essential. Brazil's songwriters save their best compositions for Carnaval, and Brazilians sing the hit songs all the next year. Bands play ceaselessly. Brazilians dance a Negro dance called "the samba" which, not unlike the rumba, may soon become popular in the U.S. This year's best samba was named Americana, I love you.

Carnaval celebrating is done by groups called ranchos or blocos whose members parade in similar costumes. This bloco carries banners which are made from flour bags from their mill.

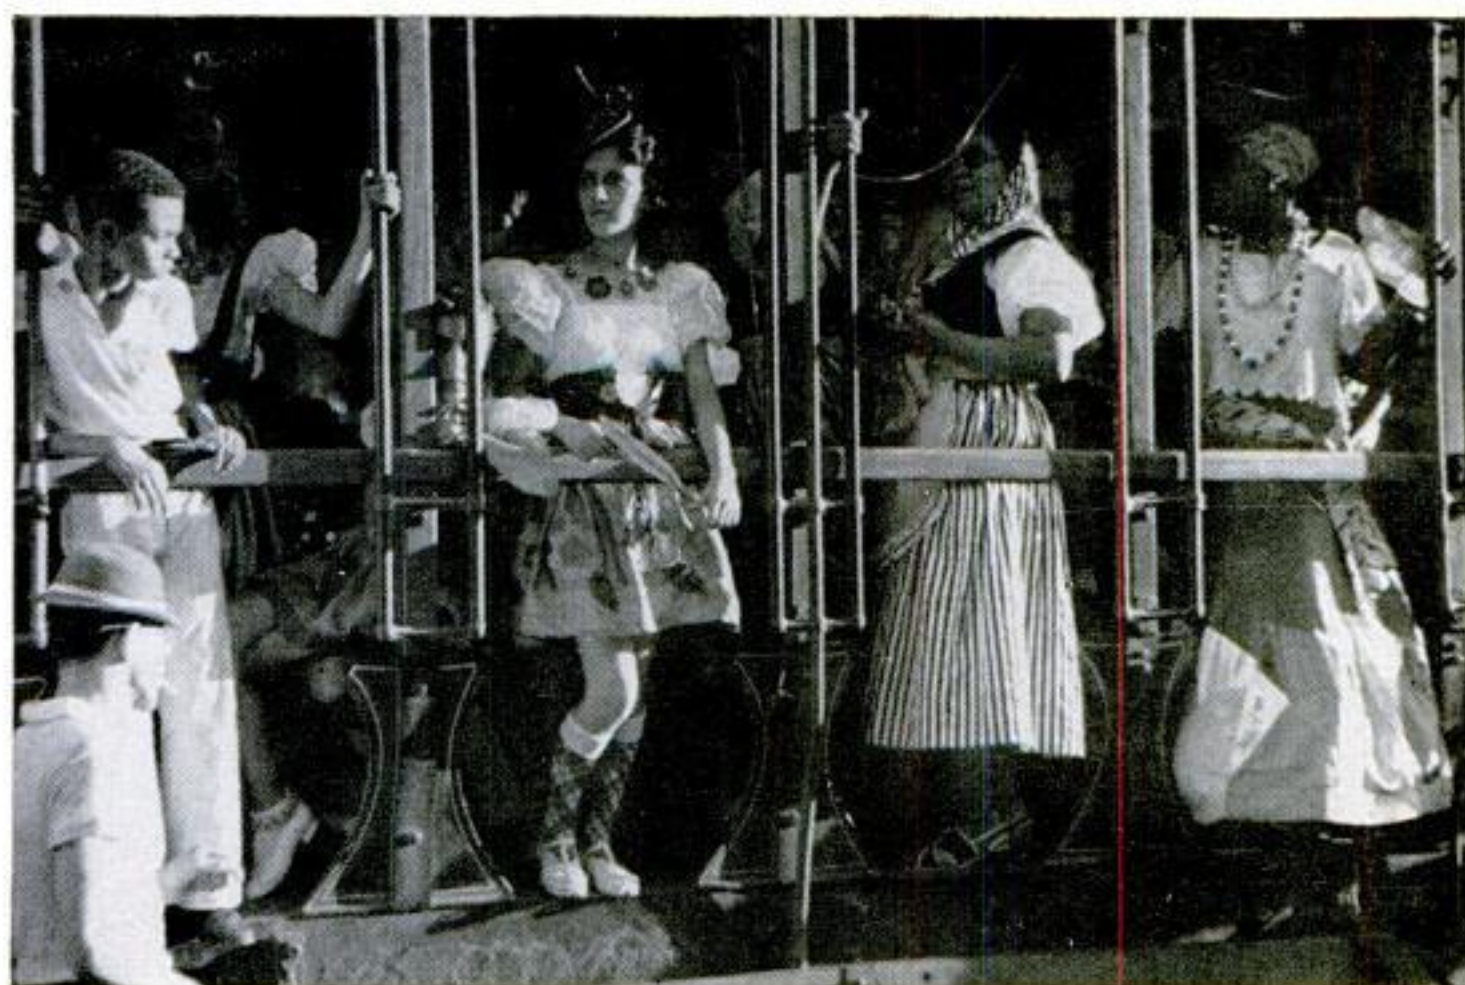

IN COPACABANA, RIO'S RESIDENTIAL DISTRICT, NEGRO SERVANTS DANCE THE SAMBA

Singing and yelling, blocos march about the streets, followed by sidewalk crowds. On the Avenida, Rio's Fifth Avenue, blocos pass a reviewing stand, get prizes for their costumes, dances.

OUTSIDE HOTELS WEARING PROVINCIAL COSTUME WITH WIDE SKIRTS AND SHAWLS

Rio's trolley cars are jammed by Carnaval crowds who come in from surrounding country. Rio's poor drink mostly beer or wine, stay reasonably sober at Carnaval. Few get jailed.

Transvesticism (wearing clothes of the opposite sex) is a popular Carnaval convention. The skirts that resemble Scotch kilts were especially popular for Rio males this year and last.

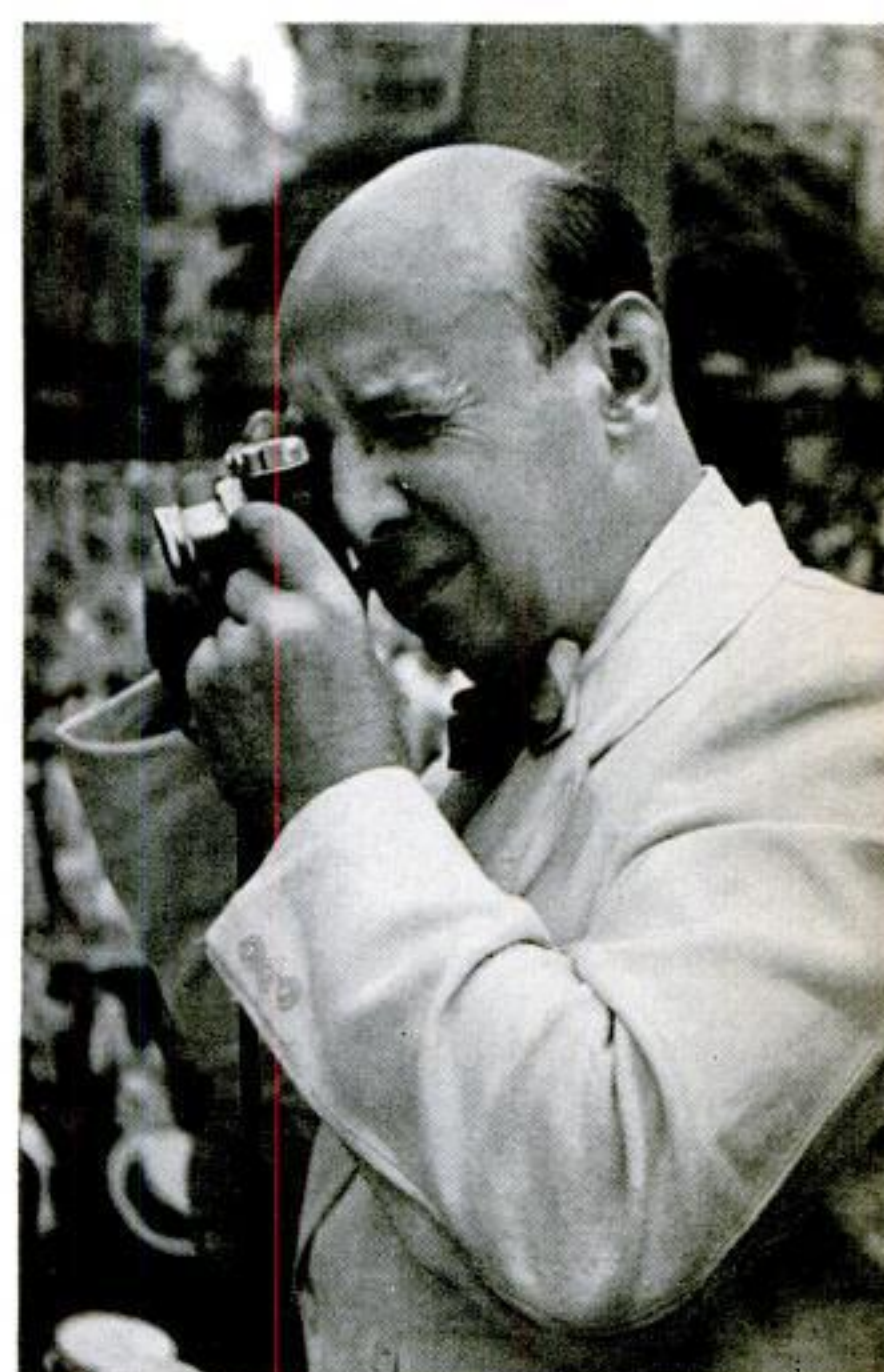

Samba dancers and singer win huge cups put up by music publishers, shopkeepers.

Carrying standards, employees from the Brazilian mint parade dressed up as coffee-plantation workers.

Feathers from all sorts of Brazilian birds are favored for Carnaval costumes by hill-country Negroes.

Producer Marc Connelly arrived on the cruising Normandie, snapped pictures.

MR. L. D. ROGERS

"Four months ago I began having starting trouble—and it always seemed to happen when I was in a hurry!

"I took my car to one garage after another. Each time they'd recharge the battery and tell me it was O. K. And each time I'd have another starting failure in less than two weeks. It seemed even the most experienced mechanics couldn't locate the REAL trouble.

"Finally, an old friend of mine told me about Willard Starting Service. Doubting but desperate, I agreed to try once more. I went to your Willard Dealer here.

"Believe it or not, in 15 minutes he checked the ENTIRE electrical system of my car ... located the trouble (which wasn't in the battery at all) and fixed it so it stayed fixed. In my opinion you have made a real contribution to American motoring with this new Willard Starting Service. It's great!"

HERE'S HOW IT CAN PROTECT YOU

Your Willard Dealer has a new instrument (called the Willard Electrical Check) that "x-rays" the entire starting system—under actual load conditions. With it he can locate worn or undersize cables, loose connections, faulty wiring, voltage regulators and generators that need adjustment ... the things that cause most starting failures.

We offer you this Willard Starting Service as our way of EARNING your patronage. It will save you money—save you trouble—and relieve you of worry...come in and try it.

Life's Carnaval (continued)

Bank of Brazil clerks dress up as Hula dancers. Most blocos are composed of groups of office or factory workers who rehearse for several months to perfect their stunts.

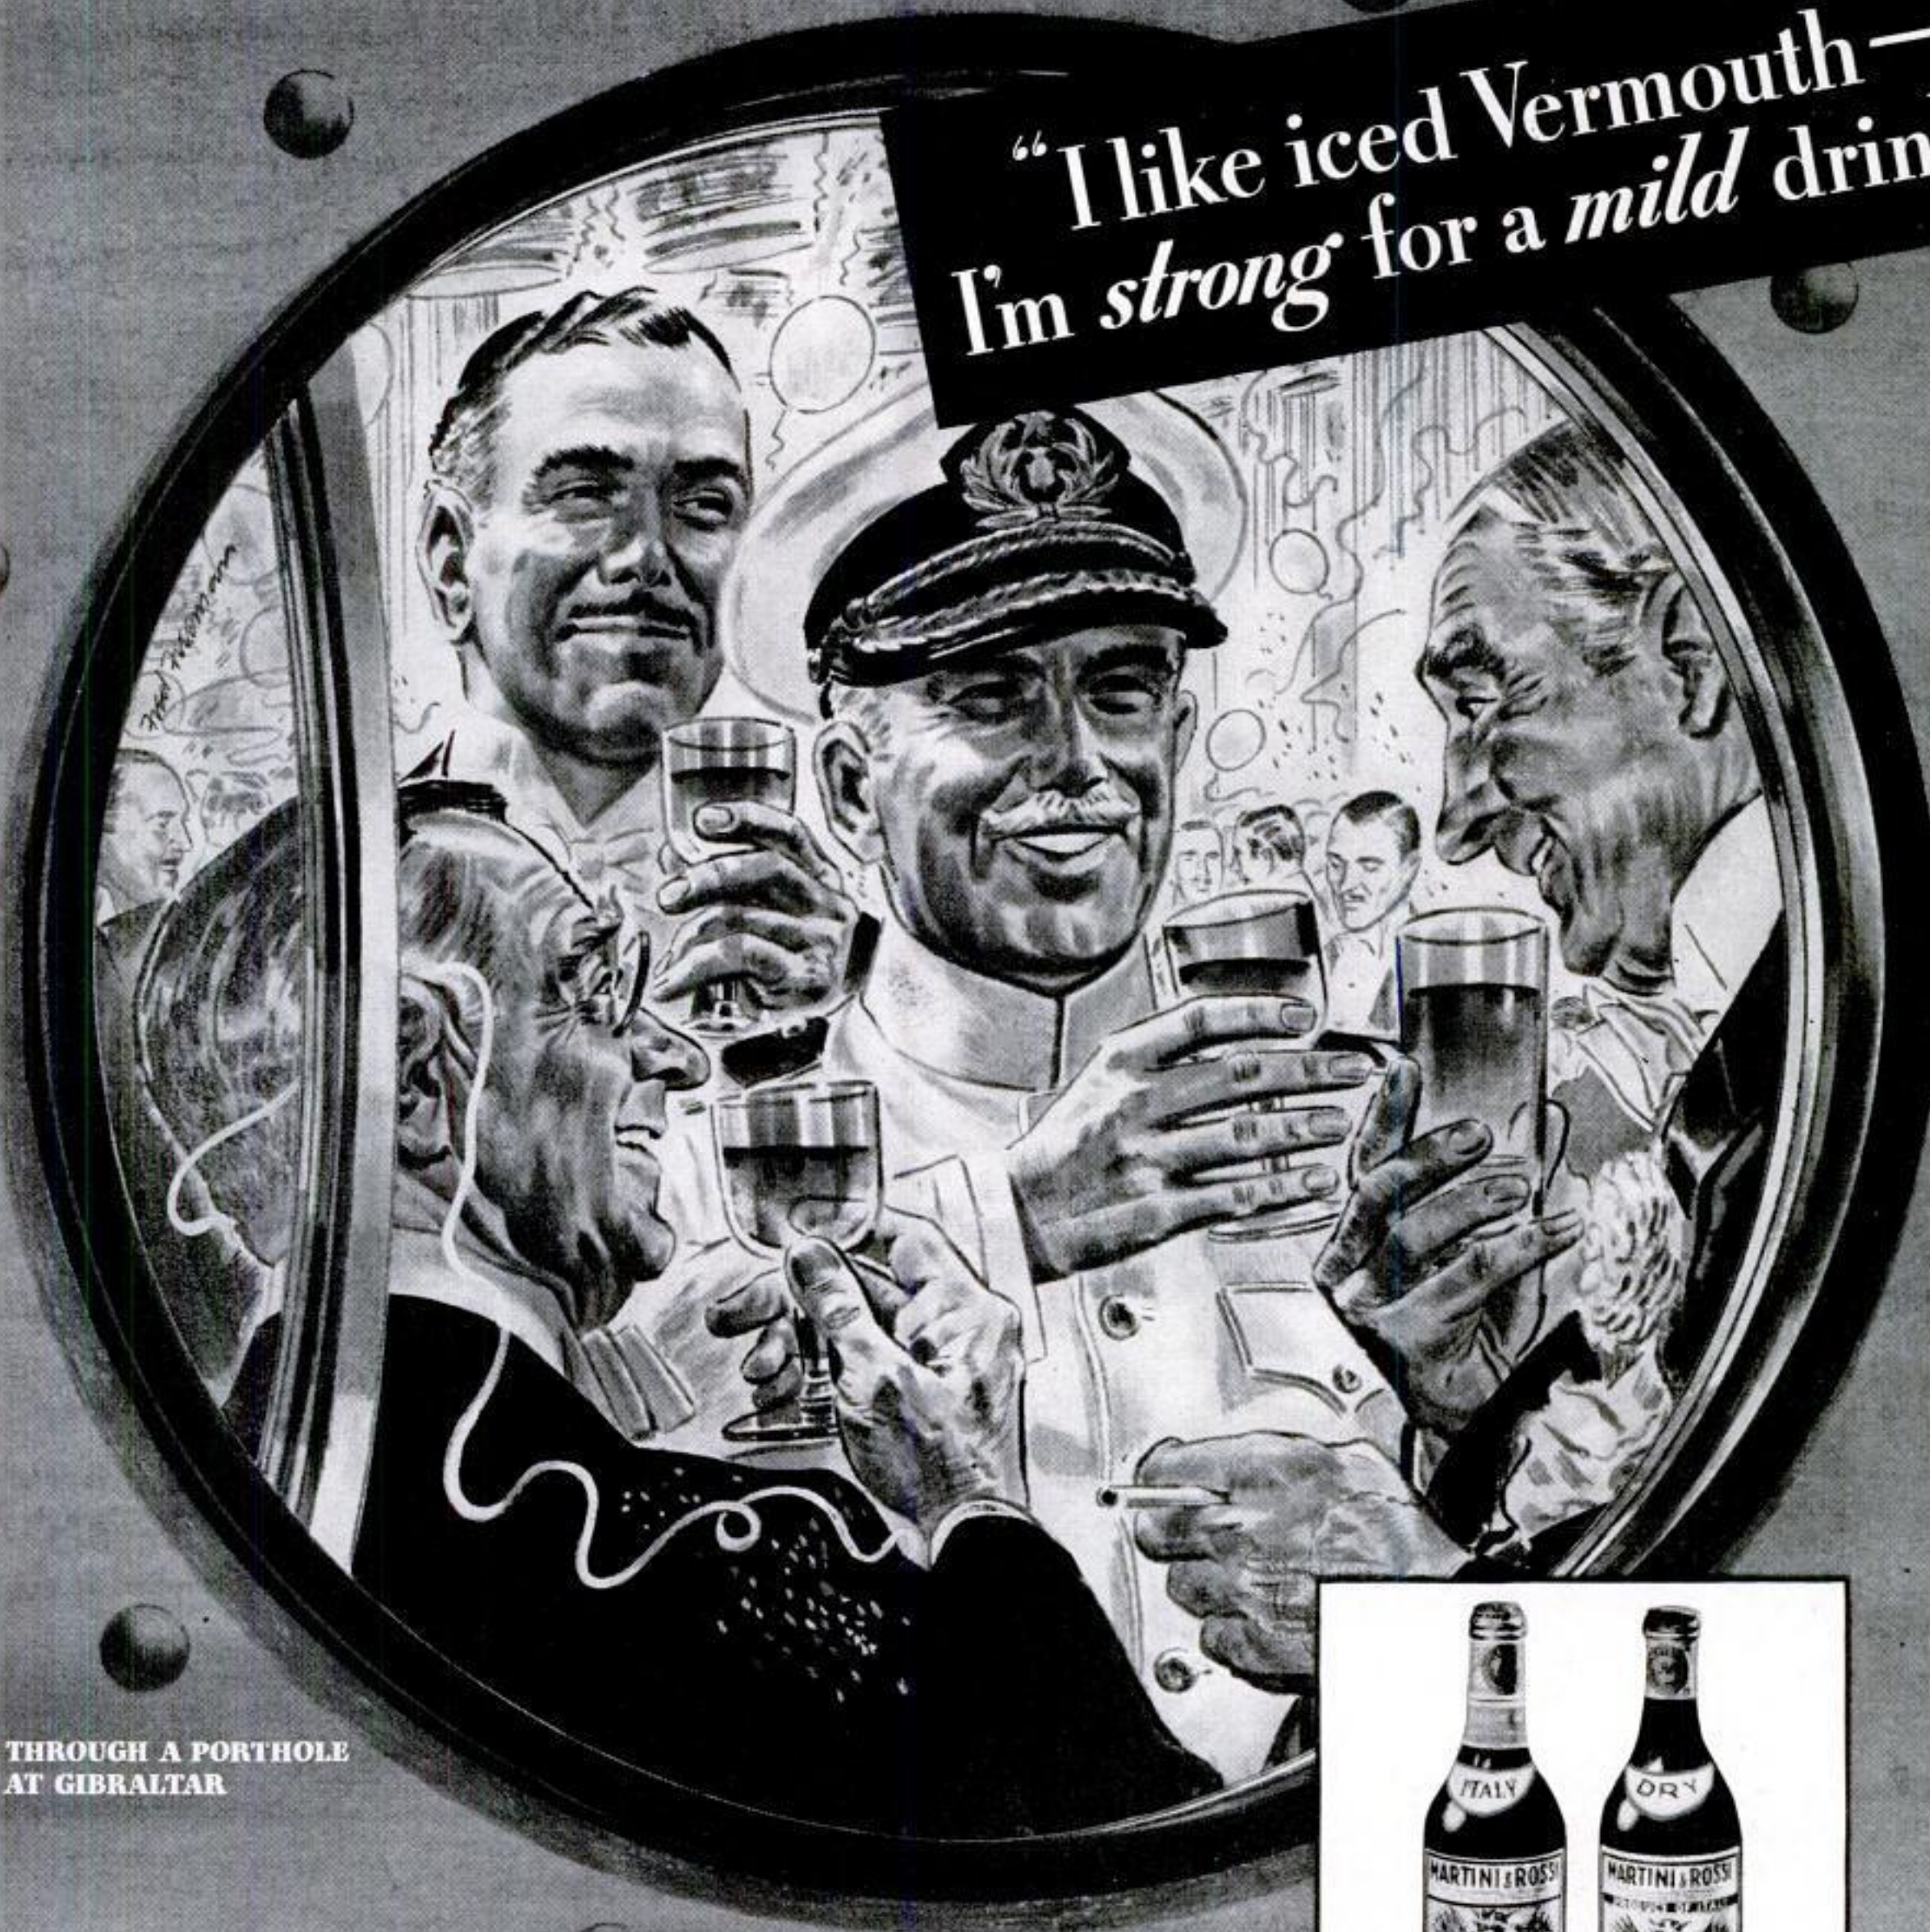

Catskin tambourines, which help celebrants add to the Carnaval uproar, are tightened by warming the skins over small fires made of scraps of paper on the sidewalk.

Night parade of torchlit floats, which is watched by the whole city, ends Rio's Carnaval. "Carnaval" comes from carne vale which means "farewell to meat" in Latin.

WELLS AND PLATYPUS

Sirs:

Here is a photo of H. G. Wells, noted English writer, with a duckbill platypus, at the Badger Creek Sanctuary about 40 miles from here.

Wells, who stayed a few days in this town on his way to the Federal capital, Canberra, had expressed a particular desire to see a live platypus, which interested him, as an evolutionist. He was sneaked out quietly to the Sanctuary, to dodge the pressmen and photographers who were constantly on his trail.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

Sirs:

Perhaps you noticed in Ripley's Believe-It-Or-Not cartoon of Feb. 27 a sketch of two hearts made by the wheels of an automobile. The item read: "When Creighton Hess called for his bride on their wedding day his car wheels made these entwining hearts in the snow."

Maybe LIFE's readers, as well as Mr. Ripley's, would be interested in seeing an actual photograph of exactly similar hearts formed quite by accident in a street in Berlin two or three years ago. I wonder if these too were made by some bridegroom calling for his bride.

COTTON CLOUD

Sirs:

A few weeks ago while I was driving across Big Tujunga Wash (down which came the terrible flood waters of last March to do such disastrous damage here in Southern California), my rear vision mirror started me with the image reflected therein. It was the most beautiful cloud I ever saw and in an absolutely bald sky. No doubt the gale-like wind had dispersed all other formations and this round "hat-like" formation resulted.

As I was in this barren desert I was confronted with the problem of making some connection between cloud and ground to strengthen my composition.

A small weed about 4 ft. high gave me the "giant cotton" effect.

PUZZLE....

find the Flaw in Barbados

"I'll tell you right off, the answer is there isn't any," writes an inveterate tropic-island traveler. "Barbados has no fogs, no fireplaces, no volcanoes, no earthquakes, and no mosquitoes! You'd think that would spell perfection, but those aren't all of Barbados' advantages. Among the pleasant things that Barbados has is Canadian Club. Its taste in these surroundings, I find, is rich as my host's British accent, and smooth as the peaceful island life. Any wonder that I'm staying indefinitely?"

Why so many Americans have changed to this Imported Whisky...

In 87 countries Canadian Club is a favorite. In London itself and throughout the British Isles it is the leading imported whisky. No other whisky has won such acclaim.

But of more interest to you is this fact: many Americans who formerly preferred Scotch, bourbon, or rye have changed to Canadian Club. Today, twice as many Americans now drink Canadian Club at home and at the bar as did only two years ago! Try Canadian Club yourself, try it, as many others have, in a "show-me" mood. Experience its distinctive mellowness, rich in flavor yet light in body. You'll see why we can say that there is only one Canadian Club... only one rare, imported whisky with this unique, appealing taste all its own. Start to enjoy Canadian Club today.
